Giant Bells For The Ottawa Peace Tower

Preparations for installing what Premier King has described as the "finest peal of bells to which the world has ever listened" in the Peace Tower at the Parliament buildings in Ottawa are now under way. Some idea as to the size and weight of the bells may be gathered from the fact that concrete footings fifty feet in height are being constructed to carry the scaffolding to be used for hoisting the bells into place. Altogether there will be 53 bells, one of which is as nearly as can be similar in tone to Big Ben at Westminster. Once the installation is complete the people at Ottawa will hear the Westminster chimes ring out the quarter hours as they do in London, and the striking of the hours will also be identical. This will be a symbol of the relation of Canada's Premier legislature to the Mother of Parliaments. A demonstration unique in the history of the world is being planned to mark the celebration of the Diamond Jubilee of Confederation on July 1st. On that day the full carillon will be rung out for the first time. His Majesty the King is to be invited to press the button which will start the ringing, and by means of radio hook up it is hoped that the bells will be heard not only in Great Britain and Ireland but also in Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and India. "Should such prove to be the case, and the National Anthem be sounded over each continent and ocean," Premier King has said, "we shall at last have discovered a fitting symbol of the Unity of the Empire to which we belong, that British Commonwealth of nations, composed of communities diverse in character in historical development and in potential power, enjoying a self-governing nation's individual expression to the full, but united by a common allegiance to the Crown and by a continuity of interest and a harmony of purpose and ideal which it is the highest pride of all to maintain."

Are you building?

Shall you be building this year? If so, profit by the experience of those who save money when building. Even on a small job you'll probably be surprised to find how using Long Distance enables you to get lowest prices.

"We bought all the material for a $75,000 building by Long Distance—it is the cheapest way"—writes a contractor in a medium-sized town.

"We use Long Distance to get prices on materials before making estimates or contracts"—writes another.

Capitol Theatre

"Down The Stretch" Is Drama Of Turf

There is more drama enacted behind the grand stand than before it and that is the drama which goes to make "Down the Stretch," the Universal Jewel Production, which will be shown at the Capitol theatre on Friday and Saturday.

Not that King Baggot has not provided a thrilling horse race in his picturization of Gerald Beaumont's last story of the turf, for he has, but it is the human drama that takes place out of sight of the paying public that "Down the Stretch" is rich and different.

Jockeys are not always whipping their horses across the finish line as winners nor do they wear their bright silks to dinner. The little fellows who ride the big thoroughbreds have hearts and troubles and joys the same as those who crowd the stands on derby day.

Gerald Beaumont, the greatest master of sporting stories the world has known, penned a gripping story of just these moments in "Down the Stretch" and King Baggot faithfully depicted it on the screen.

The cast, one of the strongest ever assembled by Universal, is headed by those two sterling young players, Marian Nixon and Robert Agnew, and includes Ward Crane, Ena Gregory, Ben Hall, Jack Daugherty, Virginia True Boardman and Lincoln Plummer.

Norma Shearer at Her Best.

One of the best pictures Norma Shearer has given us for some time. "The Demi-Bride," a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, playing at the Capitol theatre next Monday Tuesday and Wednesday in which Norma is again starred with Lew Cody, proves to be one of the real comedies of the season.

Miss Shearer and Cody, as a team, have been seen to advantage on the screen before in "His Secretary" and "A Slave of Fashion," but they have never before had a real opportunity to show their talent for comedy as they have in this production.

The story, which is from the pens of F. Hugh Herbert, well-known British novelist, and Florence Ryerson, is an original and was written especially for Miss Shearer and Cody. The authors have seen to it that both artists are offered ample opportunity to display their talent at whimsical farce comedy and both Miss Shearer and Cody have not let a chance slip.

As a young French school girl, sent home for her escapades, Norma has a role naive and wholesome, yet daring enough to keep up the tension throughout the entire picture. Cody's transformation from the blasé boulevardier to a state of utter helplessness at the hands of a school girl is one of the charms of this amazing and well-acted picture.

Carmel Myers as the sophisticated Madame Girard, stepmother of the star, takes her defeat at the hands of her daughter in a very light but humorous manner. Her usual vampish characterization seems to have been utterly abandoned for a new and lighter vein of acting which proves most charming.

Dorothy Sebastian handles a tempestuous role in a pleasing manner and Lionel Belmore appears every inch an outraged husband. Tenen Holtz, a newcomer to the screen, is seen to advantage in the role of the hero's valet. Robert Z. Leonard directed the film.
