HEALTH SERVICE OF THE CANADIAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

DOES PUBLIC HEALTH PAY?

From time to time, the expenditures of public Health departments are questioned on the grounds that the improved health conditions, which are admitted, are not the result of the work of the Health Department, but are due to other factors. Very often, this questioning is put in such a way as to make it appear that public health authorities had denied the influence of other factors upon health conditions, which is by no means true.

As a matter of convenience and for practical purposes, the work of a health department has certain limits, as has that of any other department in the government. However, as the health of an individual is indirectly influenced by many conditions which do not come under the Health Department, it naturally follows that the Health Officer and other health workers have an interest in many things for which they are not directly responsible. It is fairly obvious to anyone that poverty and sickness go hand in hand, and no one will deny that the improvement of economic conditions, provision for the care of indigents, indeed, that the whole field of social welfare does not influence health conditions. Similarly, Town Planning, provision for playgrounds and other facilities which make possible healthy homes in healthy surroundings, are important from a health standpoint.

Admitting all this, the fact remains that the activities carried on directly under health departments do result in the saving of lives and an increase in the health of the community. The best results are obtained when economic and other conditions are improved along with public health work, but health conditions are improved as a result of public health work, even when there is no change in economic conditions. Maternal deaths, infant deaths, preventable sickness and deaths and lack of health are by no means rare in the homes of the well-to-do. Organized health protection, supervision and education are needed both by rich and poor. The expenditure of a dollar or two dollars per capita is very cheap community health insurance which no community can afford to neglect. It is the well-to-do who carry individual sickness insurance; the public health expenditures represent a measure of insurance covering all classes in the community. Questions concerning health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College Street, Toronto, will be answered by letter. Questions as to diagnosis and treatment will not be answered.
