"SPEAKEASY" AT THE CAPITOL

Benjamin Stoloff, Fox Movietone director, journeyed to New York City with his company to film exterior scenes for "Speakeasy", the sparkling, modern, all-talking picturization of colorful Gotham night life which comes to the Capitol next week.

The great metropolis is the background of the story and much of the dramatic action of the narrative takes place in one of its numerous mysterious speakeasies. It was to bring this far-famed institution to the screen in all of its glamorous reality which prompted Fox executives to film the exterior scenes actually in New York.

HEADFORD ANNIVERSARY

The Headford Sunday School intend holding their picnic to Musselman's Lake on Saturday, June 22nd. Come and bring your baskets. Anniversary services Sunday, June 23rd 11 a. m. and 7 p. m. Rev. A. P. Brace will preach at both services.

BUTTONVILLE

We are sorry to report Mrs. William Leathers on the sick list and hope for a speedy recovery.

Many of the people of this district attended the garden party at Victoria Square on Saturday last. In the afternoon some good snappy ball games were played and in the evening a good programme was much enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Ramsay of Toronto, is the guest of her sister Mrs. Elliott.

On Thursday evening last about ninety friends of Miss Leila Duncan met at the home of her parents and showered her with many handsome and useful gifts. After the shower a dainty luncheon was served and the remainder of the evening spent with singing and dancing.

Mrs. C. Burr was a Toronto visitor on Wednesday last.

Mr. Newton Brown is convalescing in Wellesley hospital after an operation for appendicitis.

Miss Florence Craig spent the week-end at her home here.

The community extend sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. James Wright in the loss of their eldest daughter Edith Watts who died suddenly with heart failure.

Miss Rhea Scott spent a few days in Toronto last week.

We are sorry to report Mr. Bernie Padget has blood poisoning in his hand, caused from the bites of black flies.

A Trip Through Canada's Inland Ocean

1. View of Manatoulin Island from aboard ship.
2. S.S. ASSINIBOIA passing through Sault Ste. Marie locks which connect Lakes Huron and Superior.
3. Deck scene on S.S. KEEWATINA on Lake Superior.

The Great Lakes—Canada's inland ocean—opened to navigation last month, are just entering on their summer condition of offering one of the major attractions of the Dominion to tourists. Vistas of beautiful islands and frowning headlands present some of the most beautiful scenery on the North American continent, while the illusion of sea travel is given to passengers when for a full day at least nothing but water is visible from the ship. Canadian Pacific ships, traversing their waters weekly, supply every up-to-date comfort and facility to travelers and remarkable engineering works add to the list of sights and beauties which nature gives in profusion.

Often you say "some day I'll take an ocean voyage," but did you ever stop to think that next door to you is an inland ocean where for two glorious days aboard a Canadian Pacific ship you can enjoy your long-dreamed-of voyage? If you haven't, the chance lies open to you and you can take the delightful cruise across Huron's blue waters, through the lovely St. Mary's River and away over the broad expanse of Lake Superior, the largest body of fresh water in the world.

You can take it as a trip in itself or you can take it as a break in your rail journey across the continent. It carries you from Port McNicoll to the Head of the Lakes at the Twin Cities? The great white ships of the Canadian Pacific speed along with all the swift grace of gulls that circle and dip at the mast heads or perch and flutter above the deck rails. Perfection of service adds a last pleasing touch to the meals, the comfort of the staterooms and the social affairs on deck and below.

Since the level of Lake Superior is 21 feet higher than that of Lake Huron the Sault Ste. Marie lock has been constructed and the Canadian Ship Canal to join up the two lakes. This remarkable engineering work is one of the sights of the voyage. Three fine ships make the trip weekly for the Canadian Pacific, the "Keewatin," "Assiniboia," and "Manitoba," two from Port McNicoll and one from Owen Sound, with the same number of eastward sailings from the Twin Cities.

Willcocks Homestead Bought by Davies Bros.

A new chapter of provincial racing history, and the change of ownership of one of the oldest homesteads in the environs of Toronto are embodied in an announcement this week to the effect that the popular Thorncliffe racing stables, owners of Shoreline, this year's King's Plate winner, and other well-known racehorses, have purchased the Stewart Willcocks farm at Thornhill, which has been in one ownership for more than a century. Toward fall the Thorncliffe stables will transfer to this new location, and in the interim necessary preparations for the reception there of their fine string of racehorses will be put in hand.

To-day Stewart Willcocks and his sister are resident in the old homestead, a place of delight, with the attractiveness that comes of an atmosphere of antiquity. A fine old frame house with a great cavern-like cellar, solid stone foundations and large lofty rooms, finished in solid black walnut, it brings back to one ideas of a substantial home comfort, now long vanished in this era of automobiles.

In the spacious hallway of this fine old home, hang two splendid three-quarter length portraits that perhaps are worth almost the price paid for the farm itself, though much darkened by age and sadly in need of the attentions of the restorer, they show clearly enough the touch of Sir Joshua Reynolds, the master, who painted them.

"That," said Mr. Willcocks, with a casual wave of his hand to an ecclesiastical portrait, splendidly handled, "is the late Bishop Willcocks, dean of Westminster Abbey, "my great grandfather. The other is his father. The pictures are entailed and will pass to another member of the family; they are by Sir Joshua Reynolds and have passed from father to son since they were painted by Sir Joshua for the bishop."

The furnishings of the interior rooms supply ample evidence of the artistic taste of the members of the Willcocks family. Old sabres, silver mounted cavalry pistols, pieces of original Crown Derby china, old Colport and Worcester are scattered in profusion about the rooms. There are besides some fine miniatures, silhouette portraits, dating to pre-photographic days, and some antique furniture that would create a furore in an auction room.

One interesting relic, shown by Mr. Willcocks, was described by him as the oldest sample of Canadian bread in existence. Sealed up in a glass bottle, he stated it was made from flour, hidden by one of his forebears in a dry well in order that foragers during the rebellion of 1837 might not find it—Star.

He Taught the Dumb to Speak

Dr. Alexander Graham Bell's fame, strange to say, does not rest altogether on his invention of the telephone. At a recent meeting of Telephone Pioneers that wonderful blind woman, Helen Keller, stone deaf and at one time dumb also, spoke of her memories of Alexander Graham Bell.

"You who see and hear may not realize that the teaching of speech to the deaf—even imperfect speech like mine—is one of the divinest miracles of the nineteenth century. No one did more to produce this miracle than Dr. Bell. It is typical of Dr. Bell's interest in the deaf that when he was awarded the Volta prize for the achievement of inventing the telephone he devoted the proceeds, a substantial amount of cash, entirely to a fund to promote teaching the deaf to understand the world about them.

"The world knows of his study of aeronautics and his belief in the practicality of air travel. On the occasion of the opening of the transcontinental telephone line he said to me, 'Some day aviation will bridge the gap from the Pacific to the Atlantic and make it possible for Mr. Watson (who was speaking from the Pacific) to 'come here' by actually travelling the distance from San Francisco to New York in a non-stop flight!

"I have never known another man with Dr. Bell's many-sidedness and charm or anyone with such wide enthusiasm concerning the interests of other people." Helen Keller (seated) and her teacher are shown above; also Dr. Bell and his sister on their last visit to the Bell Homestead at Brantford.
