NEWS AND INFORMATION FOR THE BUSY FARMER

A Unique Honor

Dr. Robert Harcourt, Professor of Chemistry at O.A.C., in recognition of his services to agriculture, has been honored by the French Government with the Cross of the Knight-hood of Agricultural Merit. The distinction comes as the result of the visit to the college last summer of a party of agricultural students and faculty from Grignon, France.

Winter Conditions

According to current reports of agricultural representatives, winter conditions have prevailed throughout Ontario during December. The weather has been satisfactory except that the water supply is low. Poultry prices have proved disappointing generally, at the height of the marketing season. Many sideroads in all parts of the province have been impassable for motor traffic.

Sunshine for Poultry

Hens need sunshine in their poultry ration especially during the winter months, when the sun shines but little. Sunshine in the feed is as important as any one of the other ingredients in a poultry ration. Egg production, health, quality of shell, nutritive value of eggs and hatchability are, dependent upon it. Cod liver oil or cod liver meal is the best substitute for the direct rays of the sun. Both are quite rich in the sunlight factor and available at a reasonable price. Cod liver meal also supplies liver tissue that helps to build up the blood. The better poultry mashes which you buy already mixed either have cod liver oil or cod liver meal as one of the ingredients, so you can buy them secure in the knowledge that your flock will get all the sunshine they need in their feed.

Clipping the cows' thighs and flanks is a big factor in the production of clean milk. The cleaner the cows are kept the less dust and dirt is likely to get into the milk when being drawn.

A good half-day may well be devoted at this time to arranging implements and tools properly in the implement shed. Cultivating and seeding implements should be left at the front, as they will be the ones first required in the spring.

Competing For Scholarships

Members of the party of 500 junior farmers who attended the Royal Winter Fair this year as guests of the Ontario Government are competing for fifteen scholarships of $100 each offered by the T. Eaton Company of Toronto, for the best papers bearing on the trip and agricultural problems in general. Examinations of the contestants have been conducted in each county and the papers of the first prize winners in the various counties will be examined at Toronto for the final awards.

The British Market

A housewife in England out buying a little bacon for tomorrow's breakfast or an apple or two for the children's lunch, seems a far cry from an orchard or farmyard in Ontario. Yet it is that housewife and the millions more like here in Great Britain who determine, to a large extent, the price our farmers receive for their products. In 1928 Canada exported agricultural products to the value of $815,000,000, and of this total, about $400,000,000 worth went to the United Kingdom. But the competition is keen and the British consumer demands certain brands of food. Canadian producers, therefore, must make every effort to satisfy this market, upon which they depend so largely.

Feeding Scratch Grains

The amount of scratch grains to feed layers varies with the different seasons. In winter when nights are long and cold, hens need more of the heat-forming, energy-producing scratch grains than in summer. For the next three months about one quart of scratch grains to 12 hens or 14 pounds to 100 hens should be fed. This should be supplied an hour before the birds go to roost so they will have time to clean it up before dark. Do not feed any grain in the morning as the hens are apt to fill up on it and then will wait for it to digest before eating any mash and obtaining the egg-building materials. A high grade mash should be kept before the hens all the time. The more they eat, the more eggs it ordinarily means. Grit and shell should be hopper fed and drinking water always available. Supply green feed when you can.

The Seed Market

The alsike and red clover seed market continues draggy at unchanged prices and with very little moving at present from production districts. The export demand is reported unusually low and uncertain owing to a large visible supply of American and European production. Relatively low prices are being offered to growers and there is a tendency for them to hold their seed. The report from Toronto early this month was that about 25 to 40 per cent. of the 1929 crop of alsike and about 50 per cent. of the red clover was still in the grower's hands. The demand for alfalfa seed is good owing to the short crop of hardy strains this year. Prices offered Ontario growers for good quality seed range from 30c to 40c a pound. Timothy seed is also in fair demand and at slightly higher prices than last year.

Crop Report for Year

The final crop bulletin for the year, just issued, comprises an interesting and informative review of agricultural production during the past year. According to this review, fall wheat was better both in quality and quantity than anticipated. The average over the whole province was about 40 bushels to the acre. The increased acreage in fall wheat sown this year is about five per cent., rather unexpected under weather conditions. Oats this year yielded but 90 per cent. of an average crop. Barley, though good in quality, was deficient in quantity. Corn on the whole was disappointing. Tobacco told the same story. Potatoes are returned as extra good in quality but only an average crop. Turnips are a short crop. Live stock generally is said to be in rather poor condition; hogs are fewer on the farms. Sheep and lambs are said to have done better, and are increasing in numbers.

Farm implements are certainly deserving of more attention in the fall and winter months than they usually receive. The lifetime of an implement may be prolonged and the amount of power required to operate it very much lessened by proper care. Most farm implements rust out rather than wear out.

Clifford Baldwin, of Barrie, Ont., was one of three members of Canadian junior live stock clubs chosen at the Royal Winter Fair to represent Canada at the international joint live stock judging competition in England next year.
