Since the first of January the U. S. Geological Survey figures as sent out from week to week show a loss in production of Anthracite coal of 3,000,000 tons as compared to 1929. Two million tons of this loss have occurred since April 1st last. With any kind of a normal winter and increase in consumption it will be difficult to make up such shortage in the fall and winter.

VISITED AT DUNLOP'S AND LIBERAL OFFICE

On Friday, June 27th, after the pupils had finished writing the Entrance Examinations the teacher and officers of the Home School Club of S.S. No. 4, Markham, accompanied the Entrance class of their school to the Liberal Office where they spent an interesting and instructive hour. The Editor explained and demonstrated the different processes of printing for their benefit and they were much interested in seeing their own names set up in type on the linotype machine and much delighted when each one received his or her own name as a souvenir of the visit. They were next taken to Dunlop's greenhouses where they were very kindly welcomed and conducted on a complete tour of the buildings. Their guide explained many of the different phases of rose growing and showed them everything from the great furnaces to the cooling room. Here also they were presented with souvenirs of their visit which, though not of quite as lasting a character as the type, were none the less charming. The Home and School Club of this section is planning a trip to a large dairy farm in the near future.
