Anticipate Early Development Following Resumption of Car Services on North Yonge Street

Offenders Appear in Court For Breach of Dog By-Law Council Disatisfied With Church Street Sidewalk.

That with the resumption of a car service on Yonge Street general conditions in Richmond Hill and surrounding district were due for a decided "turn for the better" said W. J. Lawrence a large property owner here, in addressing the Richmond Hill council at the regular meeting on Monday evening. Mr. Lawrence recalled the building boom of 1912 and said that the immediate future should hold for Richmond Hill something even better than it has ever before experienced. He suggested that the opportunity be made the most of and that publicity be inaugurated to inform builders and new residents of the promising conditions here. In preparation for the development which he expects Mr. Lawrence discussed with the council the drainage of certain acreage which he holds in the eastern section of the town. The members of council expressed themselves as willing and anxious to co-operate in every way possible.

It was unanimously agreed that the local Chief of Police should be clothed in the best and that his appearance should be at all times beyond question, hence it was decided that he should have a new outfit, including suit and two pair of trousers, new cap, and new overcoat when the weather conditions demand it.

Councillor Davis said the council had passed a by-law which prohibited the running at large of dogs during the summer months and suggested that although the by-law was alright there were still many complaints of dogs running at large and making of themselves a general nuisance to the community. It was stated that already one citizen has paid a fine for breach of the by-law, four more have received summons to appear in court, and others are under the watchful eye of the police. A word to the wise should be sufficient. Dogs are not allowed off the property of the owner unless on leash. After this advice councillor Davis and other members of council felt that the dog nuisance would right itself in the course of time.

There was considerable criticism of the recently constructed sidewalk on Church Street. Councillor Chapman said you would have to be an acrobat to walk on it. "It's all ups and downs" he said, "it resembles a roller coaster more than anything else." Councillor Davis said it was "terrible." Councillor Middleton said "It is the worst I ever saw." Councillor Sims objected to statements alleged to have been made to Church Street residents that he wanted it on the level. "I knew it had to be high enough to keep the people out of the water" said councillor or Sims, "but what I did say was that there were to be no steps in it." Councillor Chapman complained that when he endeavoured to have it corrected he was told "that it suited Jake and the people." "Apparently the council doesn't count for anything around here" he said, "we're only to be rubber stamps."

Reeve Lunau said he had been busy and had not been able to be present and supervise all the work but he had inspected it in the evenings whenever possible.

Chief Barraclough was present and answered some questions regarding outside police work done by him. He explained that the best results could only be obtained by co-operation with County Police, City Police of neighbouring municipalities. If he was needed in the County he attended his duty there but for such duties he was paid by the County and not by the village of Richmond Hill. In his work in Richmond Hill he was glad to say he had always received the fullest measure of co-operation from other police officers including Provincial Highway officers. The explanation was received as quite satisfactory to the council.

Certain changes are contemplated in front of Richmond Motors on Yonge Street and councillor Middleton thought it an opportune time to correct one of the mistakes of the past and have the sidewalk reconstructed with the objectionable step omitted. This matter along with the request of the Anglican and Presbyterian Churches for some action towards improving the condition of the sidewalk on the west side of Yonge Street in front of the church properties, will be considered at a special meeting.

Hart an outstanding crop of sunflowers; Mr. Thomas Frisby a field of early potatoes that is a real flower garden; Mr. Heber McCague a bumper crop of fall wheat; Mr. Harold Morton a promising field of alfalfa.

CALF HAS FIVE LEGS

A five legged Jersey calf is the most recent addition to the famous herd of E. T. Stephens, Richmond Hill. The freak of nature arrived last Sunday and is living and normal in every way except that a fifth leg hangs from the shoulder. Several have viewed the oddity this week and visitors are welcome to see it at the main barns.

Mulock Winning Support In All Sections of North York

Candidate Addressed Large Meetings at Unionville and Aurora—Ex Conservative M. P. Speaks at Aurora

The campaign of W. P. Mulock, candidate in North York is meeting with marked success in all parts of this historic riding. In every community Mr. Mulock is receiving an enthusiastic reception and is attracting to his support men and women of all political affiliation who are anxious to give North York the best representation possible and who are alive to issues of national and Empire importance which have been sponsored by the present government. The Mulock meetings in all parts of the riding have been featured by an intelligent discussion of the issues of the day and there has been nothing in the line of personalities or personal attacks. The thorough discussion of public affairs which has featured the Mulock meetings has met with widespread approval in the riding.

On Tuesday night the candidate was given a hearty reception at Unionville where the Township Hall was well filled to hear Mr. Mulock and other speakers discuss the subjects of public interest. Mr. Ewart Stiver ably acted as chairman and in addition to the speeches there was a bright program of musical numbers which were much appreciated. Joseph Singer, of Toronto and Senator Horsey discussed at length the main issues of the campaign namely EMPIRE TRADE the record of the government which includes a reduction of the public debt, reduction in taxation, and the famous and popular DUNNING BUDGET. W. P. Mulock in asking the support of the electorate gave a promise of a serious and devoted attention to his duties as a member of parliament for the riding of North York.

At Aurora on Tuesday evening a monster rally was also held. J. H. Burnham who for many years was a conservative member of parliament for the Peterboro riding, addressed the large gathering and urged the electors to support the Empire Trade policy of the King Government. "Possibly the stand taken by Hon. Mr. Bennett and his colleagues represents the stand of the people of Canada, but I don't think it does. Nor do I think they represent the feelings of the Conservative Party. At the Winnipeg convention the Right Hon. Arthur Meighen was asked to retire. And so now will the Conservative Party cordially invite Mr. Bennett to retire, because he does not represent the Conservative Party at all."

Upholding the Mackenzie King Government's move toward greater Empire trade, and declaring that Mr. Bennett had lost the greatest opportunity of his political lifetime when he failed to endorse the Dunning Budget, J. H. Burnham, Peterboro', for nine years a Conservative member in the House of Commons at Ottawa, condemned the policy of his Leader, and pledged himself to support the Liberal policy in the present election campaign.

"If Mr. Bennett thinks in ignoring the British Empire he is doing the best thing for Canada I am quite sure that on July 28th the people will tell him he is not," said Mr. Burnham.

There was no doubt as to what the people of Canada were to vote on in the clear-cut presentation of affairs placed before the meeting by William P. Mulock.

The issue before the people on July 28, he said, was as to what part Canada would play in Empire affairs. He noted that the Budget meant that from $225,000,000 to $275,000,000 worth of trade would be taken from the United States and given to the Empire. Mr. Bennett had nothing to offer the Motherland or the Empire, he said, except preference for preference.

"Would Canada on July 28 adopt Mr. Bennett's selfish policy, or send her representatives to the Conference in the spirit of the Dunning Budget?"

And many a fellow thinks he is trying to quit smoking when he has merely quit buying.

Discretion is the quality that prompts a missionary to burn the newspapers from back home.
