

SIXTH INSTALLMENT

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Rodney, driven to suicide by the notorious Julie Farrow who had spurned between her eyes. his love. He will make Julie love him, then throw her aside as she Switzerland, goes with her to the hotel on the St. Bernard Pass, and succeeds in winning her love. To his) amazement, he discovers that he has her himself! And he is married, to delighted. I like that man.". an American girl with whom he has nothing in commen.

Then he discovers that this girl is me." not the same Julie Farrow who ruined Rodney, but her cousin of the same name. She scorns him when he confesses his love and his inability to bad?" marry her. They meet later in London, where she is going the pace that Bim to the door with envious eyes. her wild life.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY In the morning he rang her up. Bim Lennox answered:

"Julie? Oh, I'm sorry-she's not! up yet. Who is it?"

"Lawrence Schofield. She told me he said nervously. I might ring."

"I want her to lunch with me if she in his eyes.

"I will tell her." It seemed an eternity till Bim returned.

"Julie will be delighted. Will you call for her at half-past one?"

"I shall be delighted also." So that was that!

Schofield felt a boy as he turned away from the telephone. Nearly fifty! Nonsense! he was a young man and in love for the first time.

He might have been less elated had he heard Julie's comment when his message was conveyed to her.

"Schofield! who on earth . . . don't know the man."

Julie was half asleep still; her head was splitting, and there was a queer dread in her heart.

"He was here last night. He brought you home," Bim said patient-"He wants you to lunch with him. He is waiting on the 'phone."

Regularity of service

High quality work may be enbe irregular, so we have de- had featured. veloped a sense of responsibilthis very important phase of our work be carefully carried out. We have five different kinds of family wash service, all moderately priced and all done separately in soft water without any marking or starching. Phone to-day, or stop any one of our courteous driver-salesmen.

WE CALL IN RICHMOND DISTRICT TUESDAY and FRIDAYS

ing good service. If you only have! driver call when phoned for. Call up as early as convenient to insure prompt attention.

Phone Orders for Our Driver, Parcels may be left at Liberal Office Telephone 9, Richmond Hill RICHMOND HILL

CEMI RINICHED TORONTOWET WASH LAUNDRY 6 LTD

LLoydbrook 2161 175 OSSINGTON AVE.

Have Your Tonsorial Requiremeats attended to while waiting for your car. Martin's Barber Shop

Right at The City Limits North Toronto.

PETCH

Dependable Companies Office-Radial Station

INSURANCE Fire - Automobile - Life

Richmond Hill GAL NINE

"Oh-well, say what you like-any- rectly I saw everything was changed for me. I have never-never Bim went away without answering felt for any woman what I felt for you Giles Chittenham swears to avenge and when she returned Julie was still last night. I daresay you think it the death of his young half-brother sitting up in bed, her hands clasped presumption on my part to have said round her knees, a little frown of pain as much as I have done, but some day

"What did you say?"

"I said you would be delighted to threw Rodney. He meets her in lunch with him, and he is calling for you at half-past one." Julie scowled.

Julie gasped.

me to marry you?"

She broke out desperately:

She laughed derisively.

were to tell you"

she asked.

"No."

"But you know nothing about me-

"I know you are the woman with "That is a bold statement. If

He just touched her hand with his.

"Nothing would make any differ-

She felt her eyes wet with sudden

"Are you . . . just . . . joking?"

She looked at him for a long mo-him now for the first time. He was

She looked away, winking the tears

He was so simple and sincere. He was like a breath from her old peaceful life. Lately she had seen so little of simple honesty and sincerity.

Sometimes she thought she had left all those things behind her on the

"Where have you been hiding all

"I've lived in a country town-I've just been a nobody, a junior partner in a highly respectable firm of solicitors. My wife died-she was never very strong, and then a distant relation died too and left me some money

"Yes," he answered, "I think I was face. "I hope my luck will continue

"I think you deserve that it should"

"It would give me great happiness

"It's such early days. Soon-perhaps quite soon-you will know me better, and then you will wonder why you ever thought me nice at all. I've

They spoke of the others who had

"I tell you who I did like," Scho-

"Oh, yes-I forgot that you met

"I liked him," Schofield said again

meditatively. "I believe I've met him

"Nonsense! a man like that-" field said. "That tall fellow-what if I had the right to spoil you."

She laughed rather sadly.

got all sorts of vices."

been at the Faun.

"I don't believe you."

Julie caught her breath.

snow-capped mountain tops.

He told her quite frankly.

-quite a lot of money-"

"Lucky you!" Julie said.

Julie said.

whom I could be perfectly happy."

"I told you to send him away." "You didn't. You told me to say fallen overwhelmingly in love with what I liked, so I said you would be

"Go with him yourself then." "I would have done if he had asked nothing!"

Julie lay back on her pillows. "Where's the tea?"

"Just coming. Is your head very

"The very devil." Julie followed kills. Another man, Lawrence Scho- "How on earth do you manage to look ence." fiield, wants to marry her, in spite of so fresh at this ungodly hour?" she grumbled.

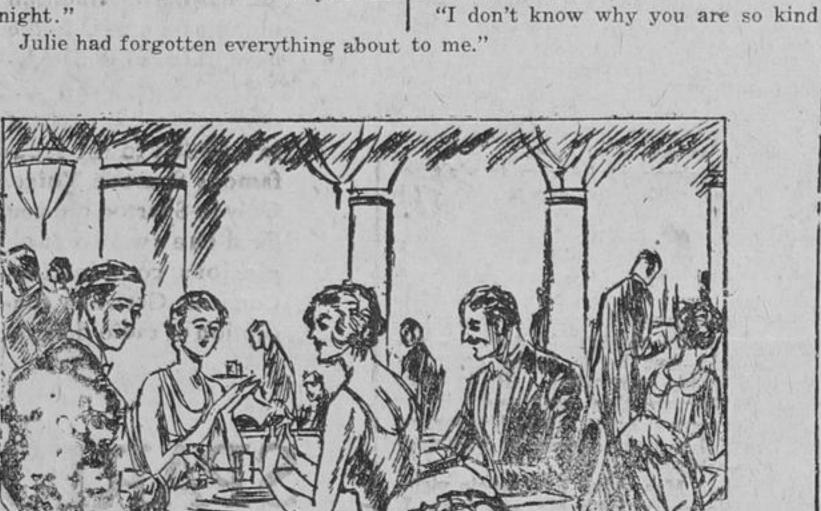

> Bim turned round with a faint smile "I don't drink too much for one thing," she said lightly.

Schofield came for Julie in a big car "It's awfully good of you to come," ment in silence; she felt as if she saw

"It's awful good of you to ask me," not young, as he had told her, and he "Oh . . . well-if you will wait a Julie said. She looked at him and was not good-looking, but there was moment. May I give her a message?" was touched by the genuine pleasure something in his face—a steadfastness "Are you living in town?" she ask- poured into her aching heart.

> the moment," Schofield answered, and will just let me see you - often! and we all want, I suppose you can't blame them very well." then added: "I think I told you last be your friend."

Giles found himself unable to keep his eyes off the "other Julie" when they met at dinner that night.

tirely forgotten by our custom- last night except those little cameos "I am being kind to myself." ers if pick-ups and deliveries of pain in which Giles Chittenham from her lashes.

"Of course you did," she said hurity in our drivers to see that riedly, and racked her brains to remember what else he had told her. They lunched at Claridge's.

> "It was perfect waste," so Julie told Bim afterwards. "Sinful waste taking me to such a place. I had no appetite the sight of the food almost these years?" she asked impulsively. unnerved me. However, I managed to make some sort of a show, but I'm afraid he was disappointed."

But in spite of no appetite and a headache, Julie quite enjoyed herself. There was something about Schofield If you will have laundry ready when which it was impossible not to like. driver calls, you will assist us in giv- He was so anxious to please, so attentive and kind.

"Are you a married man?" Julie asked impulsively, and he flushed and very lucky," and his eyes were on her shook his head.

"No-my wife died . . . not long to hold," he added.

She drummed her slim fingers on Julie said. You are the kind of man the table, conscious of Schofield's eyes who would spoil a woman terribly," upon them.

"You . . . you are not married?"

he asked. "Good Lord no!" Julie laughed. 'No, thank you," she said again loud-

"Why do you say that?" She flushed and looked away.

"Why? Oh, I don't know. I prefer independence, I suppose."

"But if you met some man who . . . who thought the world of you-some man who would be kind and . . . and

"Are there any such men?" she was his name—Chittenham?" asked cynically.

"There is one here," Schofield said. She turned her head slowly and him." looked at him in blank amazement. "I beg your pardon," she said at last. Schofield's honest eyes met hers unfalteringly.

before somewhere, but I can't quite remember. If I were a woman, he is "I said there was one here," he re- the kind of man who would attract peated. "I suppose you are surpris- me." Ontario ed. I have not forgotten that we met "He detests all women." last night for the first time, but di-

"I tell you be does-ask any one who knows him! he's a woman hater." for it."

Julie broke in excitedly:

"Conceit, I should think!" Julie said flippantly. "He imagines that all women are running after him."

Schofield looked surprised at her vehemence.

"It sounds rather as if you dislike find you."

Julie shrugged her shoulders. There was a little hard look in her pretty if there is no other man you care for

"I don't dislike him," she said, "I'm Chittenham broke. just quite indifferent."

"You're not . . . you're not asking of her than he wished to see. At first man?" "Some day I want to ask you if you he had accepted her invitations in the hope that perhaps Julie might also be Julie felt as if she were dreaming, included, but he had always been disappointed.

Once when he had mentioned her back to it when the case was over." name to Doris she had frowned.

"Oh, Julie! I think I've shown her at last that her room is preferable to her company. She's really too impossible. You know who she is running she had agreed to each go their separabout with now?"

"Lawrence Schofield." "I don't know him.

"You do. You were introduced at the Faun one night. He's a harmless sort of man with heaps of money, but his wife has only been dead about Lombard looked relieved. a month, and it's a bit soon, don't you

"Soon for what?"

"To get married again." There was a little silence, then Chittenham asked quietly:

and sincerity which was like balm

tended to marry."

Doris laughed.

It was the next day his mother telephoned him. He could not go with her.

Giles wondered as he hung up the ature courses. Judges. receiver, what his mother would have said had he told her that his engage ment was to meet the other Julie Farrow whom his brother had loved.

The invitation had come about in quite a casual way.

called in at the hotel where he was Phone 27 staying.

"Will you come along and have some dinner with me this evening? "Then there must be a good reason Quite a small party," he had said. "Ladies?"

"Two-one of them Julie Farrowthe real Julie this time," he added rather maliciously.

Giles frowned. "Did you tell her I was coming?" "I said I should ask you if I could

"And she made no objection?"

"None. I think she was entertained at the thought of meeting you." There was a little silence which

"There's one point I can't get quite Since his introduction to Doris at clear," he said. "This Julie - the fathe Faun, Giles saw a good deal more mous one-isn't she a married wo-

"She was. There was a divorce." "I see, and she still calls herself! Farrow?"

"It was her maiden name. She went made for weeks and perhaps months of medical attention with nothing Giles laughed shortly. coming in? Accident Insurance re-

"It seems to be the fashion," he lieves financial and physical suffering said, and he remembered that Sadie had done the same thing after he and ate ways.

"Well, I'll be there at eight," he said. "And—Chittenham . . ."

"Yes." "What about-do you ever run a cross the other Julie?" "I have met her once or twice."

"I'm glad to hear that. I thought . . well-you seemed so upset when we were in Lausanne . .

"What the devil are you driving at?" "Oh, nothing. nothing . . . only you cut up rough with me if you remem-"Is he to marry Miss Farrow, then?" ber. You cut up rough over that mis-"So people say. He's years too old take I made. And it was quite parfor her, of course, but he seems abso-donable on my part. You'll see for "I don't want you to say anything lutely devoted, and she says it's only yourself to-night. They're very much "I am only staying in an hotel at now," he was telling her. "If you his money she wants, and as it's what alike—especially if you don't know

> It was quite true. Giles found him-"I suppose not, though I understood self unable to keep his eyes off the Miss Farrow to say that she never in- "other Julie" when they met at dinner that night.

(Continued Next Week)

And the laziest guy in the world is the fellow who hires a caddy on mini-

SHEPPARD & GILL LUMBER CO.

Dealers in LUMBER, LATH, SHINGLES Only the night before Lombard had \SHPHALT ROOFING, GYPROC. Richmond Hill

McClarey's

HOES, RAKES, SPADES

DIGGING FORKS FORKS and RAKES

C. N. COOPER

Hardware

tichmond Hill

ACCIDENTS-

AND YET MORE ACCIDENTS

ntario

Supposing something happened to YOU. What provision have you

A. G. SAVAGE

Office in the Post Office Block TEL. 118 Richmond Hill

ELECTRICAL CONTRACTOR Phone--Willowdale 96W POYNTZ AVENUE

LANSING, ONT.

2% of TOTAL FARES to CANADA ADVANCED BRITISHERS

in Canada may now bring forward their Families, Relatives and Friends on Easy Terms.

For full details apply:-J. D. CAMERON

Dist. Supt. Colonization Canadian Pacific Railway, Toronto BRITISH RE-UNION ASSOCIATION

1 IIIIaquipilla or St. Louis

Get Every Thrill of the World Series Through

Less Tubes

MADE IN CANADA

All Features

GRID, TONE CONTROL SCREEN SUPER DYNAMIC SPEAKER

> FINEST DE LUXE CABINETS Mohawk Radio Limited, Toronto

Licensed by Canadian Radio Patents Ltd. Harold Reid's Service

ELGIN MILLS,

PHONE 102-W