THE OTTAWA SPOTLIGHT

By Wilfrid Eggleston

Ottawa, May 3—A tax on foreign-built boats brought in to operate on the Great Lakes is on the way. It will come in the form of an amendment to the Canada Shipping Act. Yardowners claimed that unless they could get a few building orders for ships they could not even afford to keep their repair yards running, and the trade along the Lakes would be under a severe handicap. Other amendments designed to throw the lion's share of the Canadian grain trade in the path of Canadian boats are also being prepared.

The map of Canada has been carved up into 245 constituencies ready for the next general election, but the Opposition don't like the patterns in two provinces, Quebec and Saskatchewan. They threaten to stage a filibuster in the House if the government attempts to go through with the present map. There is talk of shelving the bill till next session, but Premier Bennett is said to be anxious to see it through. One never knows these days when it might be wise to call a general election. The party tacticians don't want to appeal to the people on the old map.

(A Fall Session?)

Will there be a fall session? The feeling now is that the present one should be wound up without delay, so as to give Premier Bennett plenty of time to prepare for the World Economic Conference, from which so much is expected by everybody since the 'little conference' at Washington was so hopeful. If valuable agreements are reached at London in June, will Canada want to wait a year before putting them into effect? Likely not. Hence the talk of a session this fall.

Sentiment is getting better but business is still pretty weak, and unemployment very high. In March the relief bill for the unemployed was eight million dollars, covering federal, provincial and municipal expenditure. The number of people securing relief was 1,429,000. That means 13 out of every 100 people in Canada. With summer coming on the number showed decrease for a while.

War veterans employed in the civil service are not to lose either their salaries or their pensions. The government, after consulting veterans' associations, had a change of heart. Pensions are to become subject to income tax, but not this year.

(Some Tax Changes)

A few changes in the budget taxes were made last week, mostly downward. The excise tax on perfumed spirits was reduced from $2.50 a gallon to $1.50; on cigaret tubes from 50c. per 1,000 to 40c. Shaving soaps and shaving creams were made taxable at 10 per cent (hitherto free); the tax on automobile tires was changed from five per cent to the value to two cents a pound weight; on inner tubes from five per cent to three cents a pound. The maker of 'home-brew' gets some relief with a reduction on unfermented wort from 25 cents per pound to 10; the tax on malt syrup and similar ingredients comes down from 50c. per pound to 20c.

The radio commission has been under fire in the House and out. The foot trouble seems to be that it is now three years since private ownership was free to improve and expand. Many sets have become obsolete, and with a sort of sentence of death hanging over their heads, private operators have just plugged along at a minimum of expense. The radio fans are clamoring for action. They want a lot of new powerful stations and some high-class programs. But a still wider section of the public are in economical mood, and protest anything in the nature of 'luxury' expenditure. It's a tough life, being a servant of the public. Lots of people wanted 'Judge' Rutherford off the air. When he was silenced, there arose a cry of persecution and suppression of free speech. Every time the commission alters wave lengths, there are protests from affected fans.
