YORK PIONEERS MEET

The May meeting of The York Pioneers was held on Tuesday in Foresters Hall, College Street, with Professor Keys presiding. An interesting address was delivered by George Dale on the Northwest uprising of the Indians under leadership of the ever troublesome Louis Reil in 1873. Mr. Dale being a member of the forces who went forth to quell the disturbance. It is planned to hold a banquet and a church parade sometime in the near future. The annual pilgrimage to Sharon will take place on Saturday, June 3rd. This will be the last meeting of the season.

We were furnished an agreeable experience on a recent occasion when Henry Robertson, a nearby neighbor of several decades ago, dropped in on us to let us know he was still in the land of the living, and to express his appreciation of the fact that we were likewise. "The world has been entirely transformed since last we met," we both said. There were no telephones in use only by a few business men, no electric cars, no electric lights on farms, no automobiles, no radios, no well paved highways, no moving pictures. In fact there didn't seem to be much that there now is. When we finished discussing these changes we mentioned something about our own particular lives. Mr. Robertson left his family here and went on a prospecting trip to the West. He spent the summer of 1890 in the Neepawa, Man. district, and in July, when raking hay a distance from the farms of his employer, met with an accident in which he sustained a compound fracture of his leg below the knee. He lay for a time unconscious in the hot sun before being discovered when later he was taken to the Winnipeg Hospital where he remained for nearly six months after which he came east to his family who were living in Woodbridge. Owing to the condition of his leg he was unable to work at anything laborious, and what to do at his time of life for he was past thirty, was a problem. He decided on telegraphy and learned to manipulate the keys at the old Woodbridge station of the C.P.R. When he was found capable the C.P.R. Company placed him in charge of High River, Alberta station about forty miles south of Calgary. He remained at High River for eleven years and went to farming once more, this time working 800 acres. He sold C.P.R. farm lands and prospered. He later disposed of his land and went to the State of Oregon where he spent 17 years and is now living in Edmonton. He is spending a few weeks with his many friends here particularly his brothers and sisters, James, Rubin, Charles, Mrs. John Castator and Mrs. Thomas Hamilton.
