Richmond Hill Old Boys and Girls now living in other centres will be invited to attend and in the afternoon preceding the banquet a reception will be held when old acquaintances and friendships will be renewed.

Fire Destroys Carrville Mill

Last Thursday afternoon shortly after three o'clock, fire completely destroyed the Carrville Grist Mill, owned by Mr. Ross Bowes. This mill is an old landmark, having been built over a hundred years ago. Mr. Bowes had put some oil on the stove, which had very low fire in it, to heat, and gone to look after something else. Some boys who were in the mill put on a hot fire, causing the oil to boil over, and in a few minutes the mill was all in flames. The Maple Fire Brigade responded to the call, but there was quite a brisk wind, and nothing could save it. They had great difficulty in saving the house. Mr. Bowes received very bad burns on the hands fighting the fire. Mr. Bowes also received some very painful burps on the neck. There was no insurance on the mill. Mr. and Mrs. Bowes have the sympathy of the community in their serious loss. Mr. Bowes is setting up a temporary grinder and expects to be ready for business the end of this week.

This old mill which was commonly known as Cook's Mill was built in 1826 by Michael Fisher and transferred to the Cook's in 1831.

The party were on their way to the C.N.R. when the tow boat carrying their deer, and luggage was swamped.

The men had difficulty in landing their launch, and only salvaged the deer and lighter luggage as they were washed to shore.

They suffered severely from cold during the night, and in the morning had to paddle four miles for assistance. They arrived home Thursday p.m., not much the worse for their experience, declaring never to hunt again.
