APPRECIATES WEEKLY RECIPE Editor, The Liberal, Sir:-

May I express my appreciation for the weekly tested recipe which is given regularly in the columns of your Unionville scribe. I have followed those recipes with interest and have found them all very fine. I write to express my appreciation of this feature which is one of the many fine features of your splendid weekly newspaper.

SUGGESTS UTILITIES COMMISSION

Editor, The Liberal, Sir:-

If you will pardon another imposition on your valuable space by one who has often been accorded the privilege of a contribution to your "voice of the people" section I would draw attention to what I think would be an improvement in our form of municipal administration.

The recent experience of the council in the proposal of improving the lighting of Yonge Street drives home the argument which I have before presented in your paper that the formation of a Utilities Commission to handle the two public utilities of water and light apart altogether from the municipal council is very desirable and in the interests of efficiency.

This commission as in many other centres would be elected, but for a term of three years, with one member retiring or standing for reelection each year. Such a commission thus constituted has a much better opportunity to administer the affairs of our waterworks and electric light system than the ordinary municipal council which is elected for but one year and its personnel continually changing.

I am finding fault with the present council or the heads of either of these committees now operating, as it certainly is gratifying that the present council has tackled the problem and according to your last issue will probably secure for us a reduction in rates, for electric light. But whereas conditions at present, may be entirely satisfactory, I still maintain that the commission form of administration for these two utilities is much preferable to the present system.

THE BABY IN THE PEW By Rev. E. E. Preston, B.D.

Some years ago, the writer's mother entered a sleeping infant in her arms, worshiped a city church to attend divine worship but was stopped at the door by an officious deacon who said, "Madam this is not a nursery!" The words were discourteous and impertinent, but still more were they lacking in the spirit of Christ. Fortunately, such an attitude is but rarely manifested in church life to-day, and the average church is most anxious to get the children to attend. But for some reason or reasons the majority of the small children are to be seen at church. A visit to a number of churches will soon convince one that comparatively few children are to be seen in the average congregation. It is a situation which perplexes the ministry and all who have the welfare of the church at heart.

What is wrong? If the little children are not seen in the church whose is the fault? Scarcely the minister's for the children are too young for him to attract, and not the child's for it is not old enough to decide for itself. The blame must rest squarely upon the shoulders of the parents. If the parents have not trained up their child "in the way he should go" they have no right to expect that "when he is old he will not depart from it." We are told that the small child of primary age "cannot understand the sermon," but that is a good deal like the nurse's boy-man, often heard about but seldom seen. "Little pitchers have big ears" and the smaller children understand a good deal more than we usually give them credit for. Even if they are too young to understand what goes on in church service, the moral effect is such a potent influence for good that no right-minded parent can afford to overlook it.

It is a truism that the children of to-day are the church of the morrow, how important then to get them started right. Taking a godly mother is backward in taking her young child or infant with her to divine worship, being fearful of the child crying or getting restless, and her usual excuse for being absent is "The baby keeps me away" or "The children keep me at home." As a matter of fact however, a very small proportion of little children taken to church cause any trouble for after having been taken a few times, they soon learn to keep quiet. The least whimper sounds to the self-conscious and panic-stricken mother like an Indian war-whoop and she immediately makes a bee-line for the door, when as a matter of fact, no one else has noticed any disturbance.

Mothers! The minds of your little children are prepared soil ready for the seed. What are you going to sow? Take the baby to church and do not be ashamed if you have to leave once in a while. It takes a good lusty yell to disturb the average minister, and he does not get annoyed because baby is restless. Take baby with you next Sunday and see how it works.

PURPLEVILLE CHRISTMAS CONCERT

The annual concert of Purpleville School will be held Friday, Dec. 22nd.

County Council In Session

York County Council opened its November session Tuesday of this week and the members have before them, among other matters, the problem of formalization of the Metropolitan area.

Following some discussion early in the session the question of forcing all municipalities to collect their own arrears of taxes was laid over until January. The majority of municipalities of the county now collect all arrears, but among the municipalities which do not are the Townships of Markham and Vaughan.

Discussing the appointment of a Board of Supervisors for York Township, Reeve McDonald of New Toronto, the stormy petrel of the council declared he was opposed to appointment of such boards. "I am opposed to boards of supervisors because it takes away from the people their God-given right to self-government, because of the ruthless way boards of supervisors cut municipal wages, because financial interests usually dominate on these boards," Reeve McDonald said. "If the ordinary municipal council were given half the powers of the board of supervisors, they would pull the township out of the rut in half the time. These boards are going to prove a boomerang.

Only $36,000 of the overdue 1932 levy on constituent municipalities remains unpaid, and East York township, Leaside and New Toronto, the municipalities still in default, have undertaken to complete their payments before the end of the year, Warden George B. Elliott announced.

Wardens of York County Council it must spend warily from now until the end of the fiscal year, Dr. H. M. Cooke (Forest Hill) at Wednesday's session, urged the members to be frank with deputations from the York Pioneer and Historical Society and the Scarborough United Veterans' Council, when both organizations sought the customary annual grants from the Council. When it was pointed out that a grant to the veterans had been authorized at a previous session, Dr. Cooke said it was a matter of issuing the cheques when there was money to meet them.

Warden G. B. Elliott declared: "Our budget in any case will be overspent between $12,000 and $15,000 by the end of the year, and $100 will not make much difference." Pleading for the veterans, Deputy Reeve G. C. Tyrrell (Scarboro) asked: "If we cannot honor a resolution ordering payment of the grant now, wehn can we expect to do so?"

Again Dr. H. M. Cooke urged that the payments be left to the recommendation of the Finance Committee. Stating the Warden and Commissioners had already interviewed the "powers that be" in respect to paying these grants, he said that the reply received was, "You pay no grants." The question was left over with the veterans assured that they would not be disappointed.

After the Council had decided to hear a deputation from the Toronto Child Welfare Board, which wished to discuss affairs relating to the York Children's Aid Society, Reeve W. E. McDonald (New Toronto) who was not present when the decision was made, asked leave to reopen the matter. "I think it would be most unwise to hear these people in public, as I have every reason to believe that they have complaints to make, which do not concern this Council. We have nothing to do with the society's affairs, these being in the hands of a board headed by Premier Henry. Let them take their complaints to that body," he advised.

Reeve Herman Kidd (Whitchurch), thought it fair that the deputation be heard. Reeve L. W. Dales (Newmarket), admitted that he had been approached. He told of having elicited the information that the deputation had already communicated with the Children's Aid Society, but was not satisfied with the outcome. After much discussion a compromise was arrived at, by which the deputation will be received by a committee of seven. If that body finds that the complaints effect the Council, it will so report, otherwise refer the matter to the Children's Aid Commission. Peddlers' Licenses.

"Even business are peddling for business from door to door in Mimico," announced Reeve Amos Waites in supporting a resolution submitted by Reeve R. H. Corner (Georgina), in which it was sought to raise the license fee on hawkers and peddlers from $50 to $100. Reeve R. M. Leslie (East York), said that the same practice was prevalent in East York with "service at your home." During the debate, Reeve Amos Waites declared that the urban suburbs were pestered with peddlers, 99 per cent of whom were residents of the city. Finally, the resolution carried to raise the fee to $100 per license for a single vehicle used.

Sincerity is best manners.

BOWERY'S FORMER GLORY CREATED FOR SCREEN

Vast Research Brings Back to Life Chuck Connors, Steve Brodie

Re-creating "The Bowery" of New York's East Side just as it was in its hey-day, with all its famous real-life characters, proved to be a gigantic task, but New Yorkers who know their New York of the nineties, declare that 20th Century Pictures, new producing organization releasing through United Artists, has done a magnificent job in its first picture, "The Bowery."

A vast amount of research was necessary before work could begin in New York and Hollywood on "The Bowery." Old files of the "Police Gazette," thousands of old tintypes and yellowed photographs of bygone days, brittle clippings from New York newspapers of the '80's and '90's and scores of books were carefully scanned by the research department of 20th Century Pictures months and months before actual filming started.

Photographs were taken of the old buildings along the present-day Bowery which were once the hang-outs of Chuck Connors, Steve Brodie, Monk Eastman, John L. Sullivan and other Bowery boys. Hundreds of Bowery old timers were interviewed for anecdotes of the past.

Three of the greatest studios in Hollywood — Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Fox and Paramount — also came to the aid of 20th Century Pictures. M-G-M loaned the two stars of "The Champ," Wallace Beery and Jackie Cooper; George Raft was loaned by Paramount, while Fox contributed its ace director, Raoul Walsh.

"The Bowery" will be the feature attraction Friday and Saturday at the Capitol Theatre. It was adapted by Howard Estabrook and James Gleason from the book, "Chuck Connors," by Michael L. Simmons and B. R. Solomon. The cast, besides its stars, Wallace Beery, George Raft and Jackie Cooper, includes Fay Wray, Pert Kelton, Esther Muir, Oscar Apfel, George Walsh and others.

Environment counts much more than heredity.
