Henry Given A Rough Ride

Premier George S. Henry, metaphorically speaking, stepped into a hornet's nest in his own riding of East York, Tuesday night. Over 1,000 people jammed the hall of the Danforth Park School, in East York, to hear the Premier defend the Conservative Administration at Queen's Park, and it was apparent at the outset he was in for a “rough ride.”

Feeling ran high throughout, but the climax was reached when the Chairman, Sidney Woodhams, took exception to a remark of the Premier and used forceful language.

A member of the large audience questioned the Premier about the York County Children's Aid probe.

“I believe my friend's name is Wylie—” the Premier commenced in answering.

Just as the Premier got the words from him the Chairman jumped up, banged the table with the gavel, and shouted at the guest of the evening: “I protest. What do you mean by coming out with that? It is a breach of confidence.”

Mr. Henry looked aghast. “To — with you,” shouted the Chairman, glaring at the Premier.

There was a dead silence in the hitherto noisy hall. Whatever retort was in Mr. Henry's mind he withheld. He stepped toward the front of the stage, away from the Chairman's table.

“I happen to know this man Wylie,” the Premier declared by way of explanation, “I know him and merely named him.”

“Be a man. Be fair,” retorted the Chairman, and sat down, but still glaring at Premier Henry.

“I'm going to say this,” went on the Premier, “that as long as the Children's Aid affairs are being investigated by Judge Parker I do not propose to say anything about it.”

Premier Henry chose to ignore the remarks of the Chairman, who is President of the Danforth Park Ratepayers' Association, under whose auspices the meeting was held. He put on his coat, made a brief private remark to the Chairman, shook hands with those at the Chairman's table and left the hall.

Following a brief address by the Premier, in which he dwelt entirely with the question of unemployment and relief measures as they relate to East York and other municipalities, the meeting was thrown open to questioning and for fully an hour and a half they were hurled from all sides some serious and some otherwise.

Shouts of “Shame,” “Hokey,” were frequently heard as the Premier attempted to provide answers.

When he entered the hall he was received with a mingling of cheers and booing.

Premier Henry declared that in a municipality such as East York the building industry was of major importance. He regarded the sharp fall in building activity as one of the main reasons for present difficulties. In a normal year, he said, there should be about $300,000,000 of building in Canada, but last year the figure reached only about $30,000,000. He spent some time explaining the system of relief and relief work the Governments had agreed upon, and explained the works of the Campbell report.

“I hope,” he said, “that we can work out some system of a voucher based on volume of food rather than price.”

He was heckled when he declared that since last April the decline in unemployment has been in the neighborhood of about 15 to 20 per cent.

After explaining these things the Premier said: “That is pretty well the picture as I would like to give it to you.”

“You have,” someone shouted.

“No one thing,” declared the Premier, “is taking so much of my time as matters pertaining to unemployment and the provision of adequate relief. The situation is that no one is prepared to move in the building industry. When the move is done there will likely be a boom beyond our needs. It would encourage too many to enter the trade.”

“What trade?” asked a hearer. “We'll make Premiers of them,” the listener added.

In several questions asked the Government was accused of sending troops and tanks to Stratford during the strike of furniture workers to protect private property.

This the Premier stoutly denied, stating the assistance of the Government was asked by the municipality, and that troops were sent wholly to protect life and property generally. He denied that tanks were sent, saying they were a sort of gun outfit, which always moved with the unit.

WILL ROGERS— SOLDIER OF FORTUNE
Famous Comedian—Philosopher..

Circled Globe In Quest Of Adventure and His Livelihood
So much has been written about Will Rogers' early days with the circus and his long years on the stage that few people know of the period in the comedian's life when he was a soldier of fortune with a story as colorful as a Richard Harding Davis yarn.

When he was about sixteen years old, Will became a cowpuncher in his native Oklahoma, then the Indian territory. After about a year he had acquired a small herd of cattle of his own and was planning to buy a ranch, when he was bitten for the first time by the wanderlust that in later years sent him flying about the world as America's ambassador of good will.

Selling his cattle, Will shipped to the Argentine and after a few gay months in Buenos Aires, hired out as a gaucho on one of the great ranches of the pampas, where he punched cows for $4 a month until a revolution bankrupted his Latin boss. Rogers, after a taste of this minor warfare, decided that he had been cut out for a soldier.

Accordingly, he shipped on a cattle boat from Buenos Aires to Capetown to get into the Boer War, which had just broken out. Will says to-day he doesn't quite remember to which side he was going to offer his services.

But neither the British nor their Dutch antagonists had the chance to recruit the young cowpuncher. For the day after Will arrived in Capetown, peace was declared.

Flat broke, Will decided he'd have to get a job of some kind before he began looking around for another war. A “Wild West” show was playing in Capetown and the Oklahoma cowman was hired as a trick rider and roper.

It was this outfit which, by the way of England and Paris, where his newly attempted monologue routine won him a vaudeville offer.

Travel has always held a fascination for Rogers and the final shot of his films is usually the signal for an airplane jaunt about the country.

His latest production for Fox, to be seen at the Capitol Theatre this week, is “David Harum” in which Louise Dresser, Evelyn Venable and Kent Taylor have the principal supporting roles.

RULES FOR RULERS

One hundred years ago Macaulay wrote: “Our rulers will best promote the improvement of the nation by strictly confining themselves to their legislative duties, by leaving capital to find its most lucrative course, commodities their fair price, industry and intelligence their natural reward, idleness and folly their natural punishment; by maintaining peace, by defending property, and by observing strict economy in every department of the state. Let the government do this; the people will assuredly do the rest.”

Elm Park Starts Season's Activities

The season's activities started at Elm Park on Saturday night under management of John Eagelson. There was a record crowd of young folk in attendance from Toronto, Mount Dennis, Weston, Brampton, Bolton, Schomberg, Maple and other points attracted by the numerous advantages offered by this amusement resort. It is but a few years ago that this bright spot at the Southern entrance to the Village was a mud hole, sometimes planted with potatoes. Elm in goodly numbers grew and flourished each summer as they do now, but unnoticed for their beauty and usefulness. This, like all other things, has changed. The park through the interest of Mr. Eagelson has reached a point in attractiveness that the beauty of the Elm is admired and talked of by motorists as they pass by. In addition to the Elms, Mr. Eagelson placed in the ground a large number of willow twigs and they have made such rapid growth that at present they are not only good to look at, but provide shady nooks close to the banks of the Humber where shelter from the penetrating sun rays in the heat of summer can be had. “Do you see that Elm there by the edge of the river?” asked Mr. Eagelson as he pointed to a tree whose branches had a spread of at least fifty feet, and whose shade covered nearly a quarter of an acre of ground. “I do,” I replied, “and isn't it a beauty.” “Do you know,” said he, “I wouldn't take five thousand dollars for that tree.” And I agreed with him.

Mrs. Watson Farr who spent more than three weeks in St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto, where she underwent an operation, has made splendid recovery and was able to return home.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Smithson were guests at the euchre party sponsored by Malton Lacrosse Club on Thursday night of last week. Mrs. Smithson won a good sized bag of flour as lady's first prize.

A cast composed of members of Christ Church A.Y.P.A. presenting the three act comedy “Her Step Husband” journeyed to Bolton last Friday night when they produced this play under the auspices of the Bolton branch to the delight of a large audience in the Town Hall.

Central United Church Reopening

The reopening entertainment of Central United Church following its interior decoration was held on Tuesday night, April 17th, when a delightful program was carried out by St. Clair United Church. The old time quartette with Mr. Chapman as conductor, Mrs. William McClure, elocutionist, Brampton, and Mrs. M. Cole, Toronto. Rev. S. T. J. Fortner presided.

Central United Church was formed about thirty years ago when Shiloh at Tormore and the Coleraine Methodists joined and built the present House of Worship on the farm of Mr. Norman Black from whom an acre of ground was purchased.

A force of twenty men have been at work repairing the Canadian Pacific Railway bridge crossing the Humber a short distance South of the Village. Among other things done a new top of British Columbia red fir ties has been installed.

Mr. Norman Black of the Nashville District has been a patient in Toronto General Hospital for some time. His many friends will be pleased to hear he is making satisfactory progress toward recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Cousins spent Sunday with friends at Streetsville.

Thistleton Women's Institute

Thistleton Women's Institute held the April meeting at the home of Mrs. Robert Stewart on Wednesday last with a good attendance and Mrs. Harry Gardhouse in the chair. Mrs. William Hogg read a paper on “Talents,” Mrs. W. O. Duncan answered the “Question Drawer” correctly, while musical numbers were given by Miss Annie Gardhouse and Mrs. M. Thompson.

At this date in April it is windy and cold. There is no growth. Farmers should be well advanced with their spring work. There is a tremendous shortage of feed for cattle and no pasture in sight which is so badly needed as farmers depend so much on dairying in some form or other.

Woodbridge Women's Institute Hold Musical Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of Woodbridge Women's Institute was held at the residence of Mrs. S. Plunket and Mrs. Mamie Farr, 8th Ave., on Tuesday afternoon, April 17th. There was a good average attendance and Miss Lillian McNeil presided. The program was musical and included a paper by Mrs. G. W. Shore on Ancient and Modern Musical Instruments, a piano duet by Orpha Farr and Ruth Mayhew, an article on the value of music by Mrs. Russell Ward, a musical contest by Mrs. Ed. Castator. Refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Susie Jones, Mrs. Thomas Rowntree, Mrs. A. W. Hollingshead, Mrs. G. W. Shore Mrs. Arthur McNeil and Mrs. E. Castator as members of the program committee.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Shore spent the week-end with friends at Kitchener. Mr. Fred W. Hicks, proprietor of the Pine Grove Flour Mills, is the first to report spring seeding activities. Mr. Hicks sowed ten acres of mixed grain on Monday last and states that the ground worked into a seed bed with less labor than usual.

Late Mrs. David Evans

Mary Jane Evans, aged 47, wife of David Evans, died at her home, Albion Road, Clairville, on Monday afternoon following many months illness. Mrs. Evans was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Kitchener, natives of Gloucester, England, who came to Canada about sixty years ago and have lived in the Clairville district ever since. The funeral, largely attended, took place on Wednesday with interment in Riverside Cemetery Weston, Rev. Frank Sullivan officiating. Surviving are, her husband and three daughters, Mrs. Robert Rowntree, Woodbridge, Misses Gladys and Gertrude at home. Her mother, eight brothers and one sister also survive, they are, William, Sidney and Cecil at Clairville, Albert and Ernest, Woodbridge, Thomas, Manitoba; Frank, Toronto; Ross, Islington and Mrs. Allen Moody, Clairville.

Pine Grove is enjoying a young boom in real estate and home building. Mr. Joseph Smith, Superintendent of Hicks Flour Mills, built a new house this spring and three cottages are in course of construction in the summer colony.

THE STORK AS I KNOW HIM

By Neil Burton

The stork is a bird and when in captivity he makes his home in Zoos where he occupies a private pen as he prefers to live alone. His bill is about six inches long, and is pointed very sharp at the unattached end. This part of his anatomy might be used as a railroad spike. When he is asleep, which he usually is in daytime, his bill finds a resting place on his overgrown neck. He has two legs, one on each side, about three feet long and resemble broom handles. When he takes his daily nap he stands on one leg with the foot of the other tightly clasped around the leg he stands on about midway between his body and the ground. He never moves an eye when visitors at the Zoo in passing his pen stop to look him over and as they do they view him from every angle, and even when they refer to his peculiar habits and funny appearance, he keeps on sleeping or pretending to be sleeping. You can even poke him with your cane or umbrella and yet he refuses to be disturbed. The principal reason for his existence, so it is said, is to find homes for babies. In regard to such human service he should join the Childrens Aid Society as his service would prove most valuable. He is never seen flying about in daytime. He works quietly during the darkness of the night. At any rate whatever else he may or may not be he is good for a laugh any time. FOR SALE—One jar of either Cress Corn or Bunion Salve. Apply immediately BELFREY'S DRUG STORE.
