 That economic conditions are showing some signs of improvement is evidenced by local building activities and repairs to buildings in progress at the present time. There is the Lindsay Ward dwelling at the Corner of Pine Street and 8th Avenue, the Semineck Micholas, better known as "Speedy," house in Ellerby Square, and the Paul H. Fisher house on McKenzie Hill, No. 7 Highway. Then there is the remodelling of the Rogers apartment building at Pine Street and 8th Avenue, the store front added to the Alf. Thompson building on Pine Street near the Post Office, and the new Super-Test Service Station recently opened by Mr. H. Kaiser at the J. E. Devins corner of No. 7 Highway.

Pine Grove Mills Activities
 Owing to the fall wheat famine in Peel, York, Simcoe and Ontario Counties, Fred W. Hicks, proprietor of the Pine Grove Flour Mills, was forced in order to fill a 6000 barrel contract made with a customer recently, to go to Essex County to find the grade of wheat necessary for the milling of such a large contract. Mr. Hicks made a purchase of 20,000 bushels, 10,000 of which he is placing in his storage elevator at present. According to a statement made by Mr. Hicks there is considerable fall wheat held over from former years by farmers of Chinguacousy, Toronto Gore, Vaughan and King Townships the source from which he usually gets his supply by which he keeps his mill grinding 24 hours daily six days in the week. To meet the emergency caused by the winter killed fall wheat in the Townships referred to farmers took advantage of the situation and sowed the Durham variety of Spring Wheat. The Pine Grove mill with a grinding capacity of about one hundred barrels daily is a relic of the many industries conducted on the Humber River a half century ago.

A young lady, with a keen eye for beauty as well as being possessed of a gift for observation, on a recent occasion commenced conversation with us as follows: "In making a tour of the country, I noticed a beautiful church edifice situated amid the most attractive surroundings I think that I have ever had the pleasure of seeing." We listened intently to her narrative, and it occurred to us that we knew what church she was describing. Finally she revealed to us just what church she meant and it proved to be Christ Church (Anglican), Woodbridge, the one we had in mind.

HIGHWAY COMPLETED THROUGH ROCKIES

Sunwapta drive, the completed section of the Jasper-Banff highway, has become very popular since its opening.

Besides its unusual scenic attractions, which include a close view of the tumbling, roaring Athabasca Falls, where tons of water leap and writhe in a narrow gorge under the highway, this road affords easy access to lovely little lakes and streams where fishing is a thrill. These have been hidden from the main arteries of travel and only occasionally visited by the guided parties.

Sporty rainbow trout have made their home undisturbed in these lakes and splendid fishing can now be enjoyed. Many fine catches already have been made there this season.

Countless other such beauty spots lie along the road. It is a fascinating sport to find these hidden places and Jasper Park with its thousands of acres of woodland, mountain ranges, lakes and streams, still has much to be discovered by the visitor.

PREVENT CHILDREN FROM DANGEROUS FUN

Announcement is made by the Investigation Department of the Canadian National Railways that a drive will be made to stop children from the dangerous practise of stealing rides on freight trains. While this form of amusement is more prevalent in, and about, cities and large centres of population, it also persists in rural districts, children attempting to board long freight trains when they slow down for grades. Freight conductors state that in many instances these juvenile offenders take greater risks than would an experienced trainman. Within the past 10 days a large number of narrow escapes have been reported of children who barely missed serious injury, or death. Over the week-end railway police made a round up of a number of small offenders in the Toronto district and these were handed over to the Big Brothers for correction and to be educated to the dangers of their sport. The Investigation Department asks the co-operation of parents in an attempt to eliminate this practise and states that unless this form of amusement ceases drastic action will be taken to protect the children from their own folly. The average offenders are in the neighborhood of about 12 years of age.

CAPITOL THEATRE

"WALKING" SET CREATES NOVEL MOVIE EFFECTS

A "set that walks around a camera" was the startling new idea in motion picture technique introduced during the filming of "Tarzan and His Mate," much-heralded sequel to "Tarzan, the Ape Man," which again unites Johnny Weissmuller, Maureen O'Sullivan and Neil Hamilton. The picture will be the attraction starting to-day at the Capitol Theatre.

The "walking set" devised by Cedric Gibbons, art director at the studios, who is making his debut as a picture director with the new production, is the first drastic change in camera technique since the full development of the "moving camera."

The setting, representing the interior of a jungle trader's headquarters, is built with walls that move on elevated tracks, so that, as the camera moves from one room to another, the walls can be slid out and in again, giving the impression of the camera literally moving through solid walls. Intricate mechanism times the unique device, on which technicians have experimented for some time.

The new picture, based on Edgar Rice Burroughs' jungle thrillers, continues the adventures of the jungle man and his sweetheart in the mysterious land of the "Elephants' Graveyard." Paul Cavanaugh, Forrester Harvey, Doris Lloyd, William Stack, Desmond Roberts and Nathan Curry rae in the cast.

Many thrills with wild animals and jungle savages, sensational swimming adventures, with crocodiles and hippos adding excitement, are woven into the vivid romance of the primeval.

Catching criminals isn't hard. You just let the governor parole a prisoner and then watch the nearest bank.

ON FEEDING A DOG (New York Sun)

An intelligently trained and properly fed house dog may no more expect to receive titbits from its master's table than to receive a visit from Santa Claus. The creature will not expect anything of that sort until after some thoughtless visitor has broken a household rule, putting into its head notions which it may take long to eradicate.

A healthy dog will almost always snap up any tasty morsel offered it unless it has gorged itself. To keep a dog in good health in the abnormal environment of a city home it is necessary to feed it correct food at regular hours; it is especially important to see that it gets enough without permitting it to overeat.

Among pets it is probable that more canine lives are shortened by overindulgence than by neglect.

DOG OWNERS TAKE NOTICE

That a strict check up of all dogs in Richmond Hill will be made at once, and action taken to enforce the Dog By-law.

EVERY DOG MUST HAVE A TAG. Owners who have not yet procured such tag are asked to do so at once, and those failing to comply with this order will be prosecuted.

By Order,
VILLAGE COUNCIL.
