

CARRVILLE

Hallowe'en passed very quietly around Carrville, most of the young people went to Richmond Hill to the Hallowe'en party in the arena. There were two men (?) calling on some of the Carrville people and asking for work. One of the gentlemen (?) was sporting a nice little black mustache and on one of their calls while eating an apple ate the mustache as well, there could have been no pain as it came off as he did not know it until told.

Urge Uniform Methods For Marketing

When public stock yards were established it was thought by having all commercial live stock assembled on such yards, by applying uniform methods of marketing, by weighing over Government inspected scales, and by having stock yards operate under government supervision that prices arrived at would be a fairly accurate reflection of demand and supply conditions at any given time.

When practically all live stock was shipped by rail more uniformity prevailed in marketing methods, but since the motor truck has come into general use for transporting live stock to market, certain practices have grown up which are distinctly injurious to the farmers' interests. When truckers sell direct to the abattoirs the effectiveness of the stock yards, in improving the farmers' bargaining power, is destroyed. By securing a large part of their supply direct from the trucks, packing houses are able to carry on to some extent independent of the public market. This, in turn, results in a lessening of demand on the live stock exchange, and a consequent bearing down of prices.

In order to establish uniformity of marketing methods which will assure the farmer better bargaining power and fair prices, the directors of the United Farmers Co-operative Company, Ltd., have resolved to request our governments (Federal and Provincial) to take such action as will require all commercial live stock (except that sold for local consumption) to be marketed through live stock exchanges or where exchanges are not provided, through live stock exchange agencies. This would mean that selling direct to the packing plants would be discontinued.

In suggesting that regulations governing live stock truckers be enforced, the directors point out that the stock yards, the commission firms and the railroads are required to conform to established regulations in the handling of live stock and ask "Why should not the truck drivers comply with similar regulations? Live stock commission houses, they explain, are bonded, and are under the supervision of government officials both as to their financial standing and as to their qualifications and ability as salesmen, whereas truck drivers, selling direct to the plants, have done so without any license and without being required to provide any financial security to the producer. In their resolution the Directors request strict enforcement of the Act compelling all drivers of live stock transports and truckers to carry a Bill of Lading signed by the producer or owner of live stock showing to whom consigned and stipulating that when all expenses are paid, the net proceeds shall be sent direct to the producer or owner.

A third recommendation they make is to encourage a four day market. There has been a tendency, they point out, to oversupply all live stock markets on Monday with a large percentage of stock remaining unsold at closing hour. Under such conditions there is a tendency on the part of buyers to mark time rather than to transact much business during the early stages of the day's trading. At the same time, in the case of the Toronto market, reports are flashed by wire to other markets in Canada thereby depressing prices on these markets. By establishing a four-day market and encouraging shipments more evenly divided over the four days, a regular supply would be assured and excessive feed charges from day to day as at present eliminated.

HUMORS OF THE PRESS

Classified Ad: "The Ladies of St. Paul's Church have cast off clothing. They may be seen in the basement from 3 to 6 o'clock."

Excerpt from a near-by paper: "It is proposed to use the donations to purchase benches for the park as the old ones are in a very dilapidated condition."

Two rival editors fought bitterly for years. One died and the other sought to make amends in the obituary. But unfortunately the item became mixed up with the report of a fire and it read: "When the beautiful casket was lowered to the last resting place, lurid flames shot upward."

A local read: "Mrs. Gallomp has been taken to the hospital for an operation. Her gasoline station will be closed indefinitely."

"We want your eggs and we want them bad" an advertiser informed the public, and on another occasion, "I am now in a position to hatch your eggs."

The trouble is that you can't prove a fool driver until the coroner is sweeping him up.
