

WEDDING

McGARRY-GRIMBLY

A pretty summer wedding was solemnized on Saturday afternoon, June 1st, at Thornhill, when Naomi Margaret, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Gribmly, was united in marriage to Mr. Frederick McGarry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank McGarry. The bridal altar was set in the garden, in a bower of pink apple blossoms, blue iris and white lilacs. Rev. W. A. Cameron officiated, and the wedding music was played by Mr. Frank Idle. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was lovely in her mother's wedding gown worn 25 years ago. A simple veil of silk tulle was caught to her dark hair with orange blossoms and finished with a madonna strap, the hand crocketed gloves were embroidered with seed pearls and she carried an armful of white lilacs. Miss Gwendolyn Gribmly attended as maid of honor, in a frock of mousseline de soie in turquoise blue. Miss Evelyn Groff, Miss Barbara Gribmly, Miss Mary Gribmly and Miss Irene McGarry made a colorful procession of bridesmaids wearing blossom pink frocks. Their flowers were apple blossoms. Little Miss Shirley Haynes was a charming flower girl in a ruffled frock of turquoise blue mousseline de soie. Like other attendants, she carried apple blossoms. Mr. Joseph C. McCann was best man, and the ushers were Mr. Edgar Burton, Mr. Harry Haynes, Mr. Cecil Townsend and Dr. John Verth. During the signing of the register Mr. McCann sang. A reception was held immediately following the ceremony, when Mrs. Gribmly received wearing a pastel pink frock with a coral jacket. Her broad brimmed hat was in pink. Later in the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. McGarry left for their honeymoon, when the bride travelled in a geranium red boucle suit with Irish lace blouse, white felt hat and mink scarf, the gift of the groom.

DOCTORS DISAGREE

The fact that doctors disagree is nothing new, nevertheless their differences of opinion continue to be a source of amusement or surprise to many. And yet, why should they not disagree? People outside of the medical profession do not invariably agree on all subjects. Such disagreement means that there is no absolute proof in support of either argument.

Doctors disagree about some things but they agree about many more. You will find them unanimous with regard to the value of vaccination against smallpox and of immunization against diphtheria, also as to the need for early diagnosis of tuberculosis and cancer. They agree upon these and many other subjects, because the scientific evidence is so overwhelming that it is accepted by all with the exception of that irreducible minimum which is not open to conviction.

There are no secrets in medicine. Every discovery is given out freely so that it may be put to use for the general good of mankind and not for the personal gain of the discoverer.

In that sense, all medical knowledge is open to every medical practitioner. The diagnosis and treatment of disease are not based upon a simple formula. Calling upon his knowledge of medical science and his own personal experience, the physician reaches a conclusion that is based upon a consideration of all the facts as they are revealed to him through his examination of the patient and the study of the condition.

It is obvious that the opinion expressed by a physician is a personal one. For the simple reason that, as human beings, members of the medical profession vary as do other human beings in their experience and their skill. It is not to be wondered at that, in the very complicated fields of diagnosis and treatment, there are differences of opinion.

These differences are not so great as they may frequently appear to be. It is quite possible that both opinions are right because there is often more than one way of successfully treating a disease, and it is a question of personal judgment as to which of several is the best method to use in any one particular case.

No medical practitioner claims to be infallible. Years of training supply the foundation upon which each one builds. Continuous study keeps the physician in touch with the newer knowledge, and experience gives to him what he cannot obtain in any other way. Medicine is a science and an art, but it is, above all else, a service to mankind.

Questions concerning Health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College Street, Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.

LETTER OF A PRESENT DAY FATHER

My Dear Daughter:

You asked me if I think your husband should stay on in his present position at an "adjusted" salary, but you forget to tell me what he would do if he didn't. You and he couldn't very well come here just now. Your brother Sheridan's salary has just been "reconsidered," so he moved into his old room and brought his wife.

Your sister Eloise telegraphed the next day that Wilfred had just been offered a new contract that was an insult, so your Mother is airing out her room. Wilfred never could endure insults. Your sister Frances, you will recall, has been a private secretary. She wrote last week that if anybody thinks she is going to drop to the level of a common typist, he is mistaken, so we expect her any day.

What with these and the younger children, I imagine that as long as Rupert's salary is merely being "adjusted," he had better stay. An adjustment is nothing like a reduction. It's hard for me to keep up with the new language of big business, but as I understand it, an "adjustment" is the equivalent of a raise. Of course, Rupert wouldn't know that; he has been working only since 1928; he should ask some old-timer to explain what a raise is.

My own business is coming along fine. It was for sale on the courthouse steps last Friday, but there were no bidders, so the sheriff let me keep it. That makes the best month since the upturn.

Your Affectionate Father.
