

RICHVALE

There was a good attendance at Sunday School last Sunday. Do not forget the Sunday School picnic to Lake Wilcox on Wednesday, July 24th. Sunday School children free. A charge of 15 cents to boys and girls not belonging to the Sunday School. The truck will leave the church, Spruce Avenue, between 1 and 3:30 p.m., D.S.T. Misses Ivy and Gertrude Kellam have returned from Camp where they spent an enjoyable holiday. We are glad to report that Charlie Hill has had the cast removed from his foot but will not be able to walk around for a week or so. Mr. Ross, who has been ill, is much better and able to be around again. Mrs. Millard and ten girls from Toronto are camping in the country for two weeks. Mrs. Underhill is able to be around again after having a sun stroke. The many friends of Mrs. Hayes, who is ill in the hospital, hope for her speedy recovery. The Japs are making it easy for China, like the kind-hearted man who cut off his dog's tail a little at a time.

A cow with sales resistance has been found by Robert Scollie, a salesman. Scollie was demonstrating mechanical milker on a farm near Stanley, Ontario. The prospective purchasers were in a buying mood but Bossie kicked and Scollie's leg was broken. What a world! If he boldly steal $10, he is a dangerous man; if he is short $50,000, he is a poor unfortunate overcome by temptation. If he buys her a smaller diamond than he can afford, he will always have money—but his wife won't get much of it. You can say one thing for the bandit. He doesn't clear his conscience with the thought that his bonding company will pay it. Another way to develop fast foot work is to be caught in a revolving door section that is already occupied. Let us be thankful for the ladies. In a world without women, few men would have the bath habit. Wearing nothing but two sloppy garments indicates shiftless poverty, unless they are called beach pajamas.

OBITUARY

Rev. Alex. H. Halbert officiated. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a gown of tea rose pink mousseline de soie made on silhouette lines with Peter Pan collar and short puffed sleeves and a blue sash. Her pink mohair hat was trimmed with blue ribbon to match the sash and she carried butterfly roses and fern. Miss Hazel Brett, sister of the bride, attended as bridesmaid wearing a frock of sky blue mousseline de soie similar to that of the bride's, with the exception of the sleeves which were three quarter length and finished with a tight cuff and carried Briar Cliff roses, lilies-of-the-valley and baby's breath. Mr. Ernest Brett supported the groom. Mr. Clifford Brett and Mr. Raymond Round acted as ushers. The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion by the teachers and superintendent of the Sunday School. A reception was held afterwards, the bride's mother wore a navy crepe with white hat and accessories and a corsage bouquet of roses. The groom's mother wore a white costume and wore a bouquet of tea roses. The SNAPSHOT GUILD BIRTHDAY PICTURES

It's never too early to start taking pictures of the babies and in later years they will prove to be one of your priceless possessions.

TOO many parents look upon their children's birthday anniversaries only as a time to give them a party or a present. No one will argue against that angle of birthday celebrations. Birthday parties and gifts were in vogue long before our time on this earth and will continue long after our demise, but there can be another feature of the celebration from which both parents and children will get long-time enjoyment, to wit: the birthday snapshot.

Suppose you are to be parents of one of the quarter of a million babies to be born in Canada this year. It won't be easy to remember exactly how that baby looked ten years from now, but a few snapshots will keep the likeness for you. True, if you are the father, you are lucky in these prophylactic times, to be permitted to see your newly-born heir for several days after Sir Stork has delivered his package, unless through the heavy glass of a well guarded window or door. But when the nurses and doctors finally concede that you are not a common carrier of encephalitis lethargica or what other germs you are supposed to have, you should exercise your authority. Tell them you are determined to shoot the baby, then laugh lightly, and walk in with your camera.

Every month is usually considered a birthday in a baby's life until he is a year old. At least a picture a month should be made of the new boarder for the first year. You will be surprised and delighted in seeing the changes which the pictures record. After that one of you should see that the camera is always loaded, for you can never tell when your baby is going to take his first cautious, faltering step—and what an event in your life, even if it means nothing to the baby just yet. The baby is quite matter-of-fact about this adventure, but you get all excited, let out a couple of whoops, gasp, laugh and probably scare the infant so thoroughly that he falls down and has to do it all over again. The chances are that you will not be prepared for that first step, or if you should happen to be holding the camera in your hand you will, in your excitement, probably have it turned the wrong direction and get an out-of-focus picture of your mid-section. But don't miss this moment of moments the next time. Have your camera and yourself ready for action. There never seems to be enough of these baby pictures to go around, for there are grandmothers, aunts, cousins and friends in distant cities who are always looking forward to receiving a snapshot of the newly arrived commander of the "infantry."

nothing to the baby just yet. There never seems to be enough of these baby pictures to go around, for there are grandmothers, aunts, cousins and friends in distant cities who are always looking forward to receiving a snapshot of the newly arrived commander of the "infantry."

There's always the "first time" for everything and this applies to thousands of events in a baby's life. There is the first time he discovers he has toes, and immediately decides in his own little mind that they are something good to eat. His first smile, and then that great moment when he reaches out with his chubby little arms and says, "Blah," which is at once interpreted by the parents to mean "Daddie" or "Mommie," sometimes depending on who is governor of the hacienda. Volumes could be written about baby pictures but space is limited here. Whatever you do, however, don't forget that snapshots of the kiddies are important right now and in later years they will prove to be one of your priceless possessions when your children become mothers and fathers and you are among those known as grandparents.
