Woodbridge Man Injured By Truck

When Councillor Cecil Shannon of Woodbridge cranked his large oil truck in Watson's garage Tuesday night, he discovered it was in gear after it had plunged through the garage wall with him on the front. The truck smashed through a work bench, scattered tools, removed the wall from the rest of the garage and finally stalled outside the garage with Shannon and part of the wall resting on the front of the radiator. Shannon was removed to Toronto Western hospital, where his condition is reported as fair to-day.

Leaving his truck in for repairs, Shannon went out for an hour or so and returned about 8 p.m. to take it out, according to John Watson, proprietor of the garage.

"It had apparently got in gear somehow and shot forth like an arrow without warning," said Mr. Watson. "It smashed its way through the work benches, just missed loaded acetylene cylinders, and went through the end of the garage. It stalled when the front part got outside. I thought he must have been crushed to jelly, but when I got to the end of the garage Shannon was sandwiched in the front beside the fender and was still conscious. We rolled him out, and called Dr. Garnet McLean, who had him removed to the Toronto Western hospital in a car."

Shannon suffered back and internal injuries, Dr. McLean stated today, after an X-ray examination. He is a married man with children and a well-known member of Woodbridge council.

"Just two things averted a tragedy," said Mr. Watson. "The acetylene equipment was just out of the way and we had put in a rear wall of light construction, pending possible extension of the garage. Had the concrete wall been continuous he would have been crushed to death. Had he hit the acetylene equipment it might have blown everything to bits, or burned us out."

In making their tour of the world Ontario's Ex-Premier G. Howard Ferguson and Mrs. Ferguson visited Bonnie Scotland and among other places of historic values, spent some time in Rosshire where they discovered a picture of King Alexander the III of Scotland in association with John Fitzgerald the Chief of the McKenzie Clan, both of whom were on a deer hunting expedition. The King on being attacked by a huge stag called to the Chief in the Gaelic language "Help the King." The Chief rushed to his assistance but not before the stag had the King grounded and viciously goring him. However the Chief succeeded in rescuing the King from the hazardous plight he was in. The picture discovered by Mr. Ferguson is entitled "Help The King" and is a production of the scene just described. Mr. Ferguson remembering that he had a friend in Woodbridge named Donald McKenzie, a descendant of the McKenzie Clan whose ancestors were natives of Rosshire, very thoughtfully purchased the picture and on a recent visit to Mr. McKenzie made him a present of it, something of which the recipient is justly proud.
