NEWS AND INFORMATION FOR THE BUSY FARMER

Care in Fertilizers
Every farmer hopes to obtain the best possible results from the fertilizer which he will buy this spring. The results depend of course on good drainage of the land, the quantity of humus in the soil that will hold moisture, the suitability of the fertilizer for the crop on which it is to be used and the placement of the fertilizer when it is applied. Experiments disclose that the proper placement of fertilizer is about as important as the plant food content of the fertilizer itself and that when broadcast much waste of plant food is bound to occur. Realization of this fact is becoming more general every day and farmers are advised to study the fertilizer placement question with a view to obtaining better results. Information regarding this may be obtained from Dominion Experimental Farms and the Agricultural Colleges.

Carriers of Disease
Even though the laying flock was apparently healthy last year, the pullets are apt to suffer severe losses if the laying house is not kept thoroughly cleaned and disinfected. Many times some of the hens are carriers of highly infectious disease germs which may infect the pullets, yet little affect the old laying stock. For this reason, pullets should always be housed in separate quarters. To prepare the house for the pullets the litter and droppings should be removed and all extraneous matter scraped loose from the floor, walls, dropping boards, roosts, feeders, waterers, and other movable equipment. These parts of the house should then be well soaked and scrubbed with a good disinfectant—using lye water solution at the rate of one pound of household lye to 12 or 15 gallons of cold water. If tuberculosis has been in the flock in the past, it is well to spray the house with a cresol dip.

It should be remembered that even a good disinfectant cannot penetrate large cakes of filth and kill the hiding disease germs. Complete removal of all dirt and filth is necessary. It is well to move the roosts, nests, and other equipment out in the sun for a few days after they are cleaned and disinfected.

Cod Liver Oil For Pigs
Pigs may be fed successfully during the winter if conditions and feed are satisfactory. One of the most common difficulties confronting the winter feeder is crippling.

At the Dominion Experimental Station at Scott, Sask., several tests have been made comparing the use of cod liver oil and pilchard oil for the purpose of preventing the crippling of pigs in winter. It had been observed that the trouble usually appeared among pigs which had been exposed to very little sunshine. Some of the early tests were conducted with fall pigs which were farrowed in August and allowed to run outside until the cold weather came, with the result that no crippling occurred and practically no difference in gains resulted from the different treatments with or without oil. The following year, fall pigs were confined to buildings from birth where no direct sunshine was received. Soon after weaning, these pigs were divided as evenly as possible by placing pigs from several litters in each pen and weighing each pig individually. The same grain ration was given to each lot. Cod liver oil was added to the chop for one lot at the rate of one ounce per pig daily and the second lot received no oil. A third lot was given the same ration of chop with one ounce of pilchard oil per pig daily. The lot getting no oil showed marked signs of crippling early in December and one pig from this lot died on the 35th day of the test, and 11 days later, another was lost from the same lot. The trial was closed on the 89th day when the six remaining pigs were all lame and two required assistance to reach the trough. In the two lots getting oil, there was no sign of crippling and the average gain per pig was 108 pounds in the cod liver oil lot, 101 in the pilchard oil lot and 79 pounds each for the six remaining pigs in the lot which received no oil.

These oils, practically equal in value, can be purchased for about $1.00 per gallon but the pilchard oil is usually a little cheaper. Both oils leave an undesirable fishy taste in the pork unless discontinued about six weeks before marketing or killing for pork. This may be done even in mid-winter without danger of crippling if the oil has been fed for some time previously. The crippled pigs which had not received any oil were given oil in the chop at the rate of one ounce per pig daily, after the test was completed. No further deaths occurred and all pigs recovered from their lameness in a short time and were eventually marketed, although some joints were still crooked.

NEWTONBROOK

A very enjoyable meeting was held in the Sunday School room of the United Church last Friday night for the Investiture of the "First Group of Boy Scouts." Those invested were Bob Wiltshire, Gordon Hewitt, Ralph Hedding, Max Douglas, Berton Saver and Charles Morris, with Mr. K. Freeman as group leader. Most of the boys' parents were there to witness this very impressive service. We wish the boys the best of success.

The W.M.S. will hold their Easter Thank Offering meeting in the Sunday School Hall of the United Church Tuesday, March 16th at 2.30 p.m. under the leadership of Mrs. James Murray, vice-president of the local society. The guest speaker will be Mrs. T. A. McFarlane, vice-president of this district of the Toronto Centre Presbyterial. All the ladies of the congregation are invited.

Next Sunday, March 14th, at 11 a.m., Professor J. M. Menzies of Chee-oo University, China, will be the special speaker in the United Church. Don't fail to hear this very outstanding missionary. He will be assisted by the pastor.

The Girls' Mission Circle met on Wednesday night of this week at the home of Miss Irene Smith.

The Woman's Association of the United Church are putting on an Irish Supper in the Sunday School room on Thursday evening, March 18 commencing at 6.30 o'clock. Remember the good time we had last year. This will be just as good. The Supper will be followed with an entertainment of moving pictures. Be sure and come.

We are sorry to report the death of Mrs. Youngman, mother of Mrs. H. Duggan of Connaught Ave. We extend sincere sympathy to the bereaved family in their great loss.

The annual "Good Friday" service for this area from the City Limits to Thornhill will be held in the Newtonbrook United Church March 26th at 11 a.m. Rev. Gordon A. Sisco, M.A., the newly appointed secretary of the General Council of the United Church will be the special preacher with the local ministers taking part in the service.

We are pleased to report at time of writing that Mrs. Halbert who has been ill for the past ten days is recovering.

May we take the liberty of extending to all the people of this community, regardless of church affiliations, an invitation to attend during the Lenten and Easter season, some church, the church of your choice. Don't forget you owe a debt to the great Redeemer of the world.

VELLORE

The Vellore Women's Institute held their annual social evening or "family night" on Tuesday evening of last week. Supper was served to around one hundred and fifty in the early part of the evening. The programme that followed consisted of Community Singing, readings by Miss McKenzie of Woodbridge, tap dancing by the Misses Ring and MacKay and two plays, namely, "Free Wheeling," presented by the Purpleville ex-pupils and a two-act play presented by Upper Sixth ex-pupils followed by guitar music by George Carley and Idrus Price. These numbers completed a very jolly and entertaining programme. The evening was brought to a close by singing God Save the King.

We are pleased to report that Mr. Jas. Brownlee is improving nicely and will soon be home again, after suffering severe injury from a fall.

Calling a job property doesn't help much, anyway. You don't keep on owning a piece of property after you give it up.

Correct this sentence: "We could win that way," said the general, "but we'll accept defeat rather than violate the decent rules of warfare."
