14 Billions on Arms in 1937

More Than Three Times the Amount Spent in 1913

These are busy days for armament makers and Europe will this year spend from $13,000,000,000 to $14,000,000,000 in a mad race for defence—or for what?

This cost is several billion dollars more than was spent by the whole world on arms during 1936 when the international bill for armaments rose to 11 billion dollars.

It is more than three times the total spent by the entire world in 1931 and more than triple the amount spent by the world during Europe's armament race in 1913 which preceded the World War.

Some economists and diplomats estimate 20 billion dollars as being nearer the true bill for Europe's defence purposes in 1937, but conservative estimate is more reliable. No absolutely accurate figures are obtainable since neither Germany, Russia nor Italy reveal the extent of their armaments budgets.

France spreads her costs under deceptive budget headings, while currency values, especially in currency-controlled countries made difficult the fixing of a genuine common denominator of exchange.

But never in mankind's tortuous bloodstained annals have nations diverted so vast a proportion of their energies from productive to destructive purposes.

Science, and invention, the fecund genius of mankind, have brought Europe in 1937 to that stage where men's energies are bent toward conscription of not only able-bodied men but toward teaching children, dragged from innocent play, the art of killing.

The financial resources from the labors of men must strain anew under taxation and new loans for war preparations; airfleets burdened with terror and death are launched from laboratories, and factories established for the production of poisonous gases and other hellish horrors of modern warfare, are spinning at high speed.

The budgets of all European powers have been unbalanced by their sudden expenditures for arms.

Governments are thus being forced into shouldering colossal debts. The entire populations of several countries are being subjected to continuous military preparations, both physical and moral. Industrial machines are being harnessed to the needs of state for military purposes not only in Russia, Germany and Italy, but even France which is nationalizing the armaments industry gradually in Britain. In the latter nation industries are being established to provide machinery, materials and ammunition for the "long pull." Many distressed areas are receiving artificial industrial impetus from armaments factories.

Impoverished European nations bristle with new fortifications, re-sound with bellicose speeches from government ministers, and dictators and strive behind tariff barriers to make themselves self-sufficient. They disregard their low standards of living.

Fear, distrust and jealous rivalry are therefore rampant throughout Europe today.

But what has caused this sudden mad spurt to pile up arms?

Each nation declares its armaments are based on policies of peace. They state they must have the armaments to protect themselves against sudden aggression especially from the air.

The greatest terror over Europe to-day is that deep fear of bombing from the skies, of the sudden death rained from swift, hostile, winged fleets seeking targets.

Statesmen of different European powers offer different explanations for the present arms race.

A careful study of international expenditures for armaments reveals that the present sudden upward spurts in "future death" spending have come close upon these historical events:

1. The advent of Adolph Hitler to power and Germany's withdrawal from the disarmament conference with restoration of conscription in Germany and launching of Nazi air force.

2. Hitler's throwing over of other Versailles shackles and his military march into the demilitarized German Rhineland.

3. Bolshevick Russia's huge augmentation of air and land forces, the strengthening of her eastern and western frontiers.

4. Italy's expansion into Abyssinia threatening British lines of communication with various parts of her colonial empire.

5. The failure of the League of Nations to restrain Premier Mussolini's colonial ambitions.

6. Germany's demands for restoration of her colonies.

To these must be added the signing of the Franco-Soviet pact reviving the pre-war Franco-Russian alliance and the termination of the Washington and London naval treaties, which were the only disarmament pacts that ever worked out.

German-Italian co-operation in the Spanish civil war against what they charge is an attempt to establish another Soviet state in Europe is another strong factor in the push to arms supremacy.

"Guns before butter" is the slogan in Germany but "guns before butter" threatens to become the practice of all great powers.

The machinery of destruction is being erected full blast and irrespective of economic consequences. In this regard Neville Chamberlain, British Chancellor of the Exchequer, said:

"Piling these terrible burdens on the shoulders of nations is an incredible folly of civilization. If something isn't done to reduce them they are bound to pull down the standard of living for generations to come."

To say nothing of the physical peril the world arms race presents to the generation that is here—the peril of war.

INTERESTING MEETING AD-DRESSED BY DR. DAY

Those who attended the public meeting held in the High School "gym" last Friday evening heard a very interesting and thought inspiring address by Dr. F. J. Day of Toronto who spoke on the subject 'Pathways of Peace'. The meeting was sponsored by a group of local citizens interested in furthering the cause of peace. Reeve J. A. Greene acted as chairman.

TESTON

Everyone is busy getting ready for seeding. Seed grain is cleaned and implements overhauled for the work on the land.

There was a good attendance at the Missionary session of the Young People's Union on Sunday evening last. Frank Robson was the convener and after the opening Miss Dorothy Castator read the lesson. A feature of the evening was the quoting of passages of scripture giving chapter and book from which passage was quoted. Slides on missionary work "Interesting Africa" proved very instructive showing native life and the effect of the gospel when the people accepted it. Mr. Chas. Robson operated the lantern and Munro Stimers read the explanations. Miss Boys of Laskay brought a message and invitation for the Y. P. U. to visit Laskay on the evening of the 29th which was accepted.

Mr. D. C. Murray of Port Hope who has been staying here for some time owing to heart condition and nerve trouble is gradually improving. He has sold his Dairy Business in Port Hope on that account for a good money value which includes a brick house in Hamilton, two lots and a heated garage for nine cars. Mr. Murray may have to build on at least one of these lots in the near future.

Mr. Roy Bowen has spent some time in Port Hope.

Miss Joyce Jones of Maple visited her cousin, Miss Rilla Kyle.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Huston of Toronto visited with Mr. and Mrs. George Taggart on Monday afternoon.
