Mr. Victor Hall of King was guest speaker and gave an excellent talk on "Insurance", which was very helpful to all. 41 Die From New Remedy

Many Others Suffered Disability — Had Been Shipped to 37 Retailers

The newest and most spectacular specific to come to the aid of ailing man last week caused the death of at least 41 people, the disability of countless more, the probable ruin of a southern drug manufacturer and a nation-wide scare, the like of which had not popped out of medicine cabinets since the Jamaica ginger paralyzed southwestern swimmers in 1930.

Most victims of last week's medical catastrophe suffered from gonorrhoea, some had septic sore throats. Latest remedy for those grave conditions—and a good remedy in case of scarlet fever, erysipelas and cerebrospinal meningitis—is sulfanilamide. Noting a great demand for sulfanilamide, 61-year-old Dr. Samuel Evans Massengill, who compounds veterinary medicines in a good-sized factory at Bristol, Tenn., this summer decided to add that drug to his line. Knowing that his southern customers prefer their medicines in bottles, he sought something in which to dissolve sulfanilamide, which had hitherto been taken in tablets and in travenous injections only. He decided to use diethylene glycol, a close relative of the alcohol used to keep motorcar radiators from freezing, never before put to this purpose. Whether diethylene glycol is poisonous by itself or in this solution was not made clear.

The one indisputable fact was that S. E. Massengill Co. made up several 80-gal. batches of sulfanilamide solution. This was labeled an elixir, a technical pharmacological term for a drug sweetened and dissolved in alcohol, and shipped to 375 retailers. The retailers, one as far away as Puerto Rico, dispensed this "elixir" with and without prescriptions, in reddish brown flasks whose yellow labels read:

Elixir Sulfanilamide, suggested for the treatment of all conditions in which the hemolytic streptococci appears. Dose—begin with 2 to 3 teaspoonfuls in water every four hours. Decrease in 24 hours to 1 or 3 teaspoonfuls and continue at this dose until recovery. S. E. Massengill Co., manufacturing pharmacists.

First warnings of trouble sounded when people who took this medicine for sore throats developed nausea, cramps and inability to urinate. First known deaths occurred in Tulsa, Okla.; next in East St. Louis, Ill.; next at Mount Olive, Miss.; Copley, Ohio; Clayton, Ala.; and St. Louis, Mo. Autopsies revealed destroyed kidneys and livers.

Chief of the Federal Foods & Drug Administration, a pugnacious Kentucky lawyer named Walter Gilbert Campbell, has agents posted throughout the country watching for just such pharmaceutical accidents. Those men last week confiscated every last flask of the Massengill "elixir" upon which they could lay their hands. A Federal agent at Bristol said to Chief Campbell: "The most amazing thing about the company was the total lack of testing facilities. Apparently they just throw drugs together, and if they don't explode they are placed on sale." Dr. Massengill cooperated with the Food & Drug men by sending warning telegrams to all its sulfanilamide customers.

The Pure Food & Drug Bill up before the U. S. Congress last session would have made Dr. Massengill liable to Federal prosecution. But the bill failed and there is no law which makes a pharmacist responsible to the Federal Government for selling untested drugs. However, Dr. Massengill is liable to civil damage suits from relatives of the 41 dead.

At breakfast one morning, the town bachelor noticed some handwriting on one of his three-minute eggs. Examining it closely he made out the following message: "This egg was packed by a girl who is prepared to marry the man who notices this message. She is said to be the prettiest girl in this neighborhood." He wrote: "I would like to correspond with you—object matrimony."

Several days later he received a reply: "I am flattered by your offer, but I am now married and have three children."

MARKS MAYOR'S WIN BY HURLING BOTTLES
Rochester Woman Teacher Acts Up on Railway Train (Daily Star)

So enthused was Mrs. L. Jackson school teacher, of Rochester, N.Y., over the re-election of Mayor F. H. La Guardia that she landed in jail to-day, charged with felonious assault.

Mrs. Jackson allegedly tossed a beer bottle and two glasses at William F. Gossmer, 45, while celebrating in the club car of a New York Central train en route from Rochester to New York city.

Gossmer told police that Mrs. Jackson began toasting the mayor at Poughkeepsie—about 70 miles from New York— and became increasingly elated as the train neared Grand Central terminal. In the tunnel approach to the station, Mrs. Jackson allegedly concluded her monologue with a barrage of glassware.

You can still beat the market by starting with a shoestring. Just tie the shoestring around your purse and leave it there.
