Large Crowd At Junior Farmers Annual Carnival

In spite of a week's postponement due to the icy roads, the York County Junior Farmers' Carnival which was held in the Richmond Hill Arena on Thursday night, proved to be one of the most largely attended carnivals the juniors have conducted. Bill Champion, of Unionville, President of the County Junior Farmers, welcomed the visitors, members and judges and called on Reeve J. A. Greene of Richmond Hill to assist W. M. Cockburn, Agricultural Representative, in running off the various classes.

With a good turn-out of costumes, there was keen competition but the judges, Mrs. Lou Stong, Miss May Sanderson and Mr. James Butler, all of Richmond Hill, made popular decisions in awarding the following prizes:

Best Lady in Costume: 1st, Ina Shaw, Newmarket; 2nd, Ila Haines, Newmarket.

Following the skating, the members of the various Clubs formed happy groups for lunch and there was quite a rush for the coffee cans when Fraser Gee and his helpers arrived. A number of the young folks lingered for half an hour to polish up the ice for the rink management by dancing on the ice.

The next County event will be the inter-club competition in Dramatics when the Junior Farmer Clubs will each put on a one-act play at Pickering College during Easter week.
