County Police Are Shifted

Barracough Goes to Aurora, Taking Charge of North

Placed in charge of the policing of the northern areas of York County, Detective Sergeant Sidney Barracough was transferred from his location at Richmond Hill to the town of Aurora by the York County police committee.

Other charges effected by the committee were: Patrol Sergeant William Shadwick, from Sutton to Toronto; Constable A. McCallum, from Toronto to Virginia, and Constable A. Fleury, from Aurora to Richmond Hill.

The rest of the officers on the county force will be stationed as follows: Inspector William Brimacombe, Toronto; Detective Sergeant George Stuart, Toronto; Constables R. Watt, N. J. Meyers, A. Crouch, W. Stewart and M. Sanderson, all in Toronto.

Mrs. James Culham

Mrs. James Culham, aged 76, of Nashville, who died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. T. Maw, on Monday, March 7th, was buried in Nashville Cemetery on Thursday with Rev. C. J. Bailey, Kleinburg, and Rev. J. C. Ross officiating. Pallbearers were Albert Dick, W. F. Allen, Arthur Johnston, Charles Thomas, Charles London.

Mrs. Culham was born in England and came to Canada when a child. She was a member of Central United Church. Her husband predeceased her 33 years ago and surviving are five daughters and three sons. They are: Mrs. J. Donnerall, Maple; Mrs. J. T. Maw, Mrs. Albert Palmer, Nashville; Mrs. Elmer Ross, Detroit, Mich.; John, James and William, Nashville. There are 26 grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren.

She Wrecked The Newspaper

Among hazardous occupations should be included that of the rural newspaper editor who publishes each week brief resumes of his town's history. There is dynamite in those little summaries variously entitled "Ten Years Ago," "Twenty-Five Years Ago," and "Fifty Years Ago."

A most careful editor called his items each week, omitting all that he felt might offend some subscriber. One bit in particular he studied for a long time. It was to run under the head of "Fifty Years Ago," and it told that on this day fifty years ago, Miss Irma Clemens began her studies at the public school. The editor would, of course, not have dared to run such a dangerous piece, but he knew for a fact that Irma had been dead for many years. Further, he knew she had no close relatives still living. In his innocence, the man decided that here was one bit of news that could harm no one. So he ran the piece and it appeared in the paper the following Thursday.

Friday morning he had a caller. She was white-faced with rage. "How do you do, Miss Crane," the editor said ingratiatingly, clearing seventeen exchanges and five mats from a chair. "Will you sit down?" "I will not sit down," said Miss Matilda Crane. "And, what's more, I want to cancel my subscription. The gall of you! Printing that piece about Irma Clemens starting public school fifty years ago! It's libel, sir."

"But poor Miss Irma Clemens is dead and gone," returned the editor, wringing his hands. "It can't injure the deceased to give out that she was born more than fifty years ago."

"Maybe it can't hurt Irma," said the steely-eyed Miss Crane. "But how about the fact that everybody in this town knows I was always just two years older than Irma?"—The Printed World.

THORNHILL

Langstaff Public School Hold School Fair

On the evening of March 10 the Junior Red Cross Society of Langstaff School held its second annual School Fair. A large crowd of parents, friends, ex-pupils and pupils of the school gathered for an enjoyable evening. A large display of children's work attracted a great deal of attention. Art, writing, maps, fancy work, knitting, mending, wood work, etc., were displayed in the junior room. In the basement pets such as dogs, cats, pigeons, rabbits, etc. were displayed. In the corridor a fish pond, candy booth and ice cream stand did a thriving trade while the pupils' money lasted, although the profit was rather small. The school also exhibited the miniature village worked out as an enterprise in the new course of study, and displayed sample sheets of the history of Langstaff and vicinity which should be completed shortly. In the senior class room two plays were put on by the senior pupils as dramatizations from the readers, "King Henry VIII and Catherine Parr" and "A Hundred Crowns for a Song" and the junior pupils did a Health Play, "Adventures of Health Land." Singing by the junior and senior choirs was followed by a most interesting and instructive illustrated address on Jamaica by Mr. Lemasum of Langstaff. The school is most indebted to the following for assistance in making our Fair possible: T. Eaton Co., donation of candy; Neilson's Ltd. and Wrigley's; Shredded Wheat Co., samples; Mr. A. Crush, Langstaff, donation of two silver trophies for the pets; Mr. Aston, Mrs. Carter and Mrs. Little, prizes.

The Thornhill Horticultural Society held a bridge and euchre in the Memorial Hall on Monday evening. There were five tables of bridge and five of euchre played. Those winning prizes for euchre were: Ladies, Mrs. Thomas, Miss F. Cluskey; Men, Mr. Williams, Mr. B. Heslop. Per Bridge: Ladies, Mrs. Roswell, Mrs. Jackson; Men, Mr. W. Ball, Mr. M. Boyle. Each received a notched plant.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Davies, Langstaff, have taken up residence in Thornhill. Welcome back. Visitors at Locust Lawn on Sunday were Miss Laura Kerfoot, Aurora, Miss Mary Kerfoot, Toronto, Mrs. W. Clabine, Miss Jean and Ross of Bradford, Mrs. George Lowry, Mr. and Mrs. George Lowry, Jr., Toronto.

Noted Kingston Musicians Will Live in Thornhill

Professor and Mrs. Oscar Telgmann are taking up residence on John St. in the late Mrs. Frank Robinson's home, after being associated in musical life of Kingston for nearly fifty years.

"I have been teaching music in Kingston for over sixty years," Professor Telgmann said, "and it is with regret that I am laying down my baton the latter part of March for our new home in Thornhill."

Professor and Mrs. Telgmann are modest regarding their accomplishments, but the residents of Kingston know that were it not that they, at a great financial loss to themselves, many times brought to Kingston some of the great artists of the day, including Ovide Musen, the great German violinist, who visited Kingston fifty years ago, the Limestone city would have missed much in the line of good music.

Among the outstanding bands brought to Kingston under Professor Telgmann's sponsorship were the Godfrey Band, the Cold Stream Guards, and the Irish Guard bands of the Old Land as well as some of the great orchestras.

While Professor Telgmann taught piano, the violin and other stringed instruments, his wife is a graduate of the National School of Elocution of Philadelphia and has taught Elocution to hundreds in Kingston and district.

During the last twenty-five years Prof. Telgmann has conducted the Kingston Symphony Orchestra, one of the leading musical organizations in the city. The conductor of the Ottawa Symphony orchestra is now playing a violin which was made by Prof. Telgmann. The Telgmann family are all musically inclined; Mignon of Toronto is a talented violinist. Mrs. (Dr.) D. Campbell of Toronto, until her marriage was a concert artist; John, their only son, is the leader of a Kingston orchestra; Mrs. Leola Sharpe is a teacher of dancing, while Cormen, who resides with her parents, played the cello in her father's orchestra.

The moving pictures and talks put on by Mr. Sharpless from the Canadian Pacific Railway Company on Monday night was a decided success. Mrs. Hoffman, president of the Y.P.U. was in charge. Miss Marion Halfyard read the scripture and Misses Loraine Davidson and Mary Morton played a piano duet. The offering added greatly to the finances of the Young People's Union.

Late Mrs. James Culham

Mrs. James Culham, aged 76, who died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. T. Maw, Nashville, on Monday, March 7th, was buried in Nashville Cemetery on Tuesday, March 10, with Rev. Mr. Bailey of Kleinburg officiating. Mrs. Culham was of English birth and came to Canada at an early age.

Women Should Feel Qualified

By Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt

I feel that we need to increase the number of women in public office. However, I would never want a woman to take an office which she did not feel herself well qualified to fill. She will be under constant scrutiny and, in addition, a greater effort will be made to use her by unscrupulous elements and less credit will be given her for intelligence. She will be constantly proving herself and if she makes a mistake it will injure not herself alone but all women. This may seem very unfair, but we might just as well face facts.

I do not think that women in public office should try to do the same kind of work that men do. Just as in the home a woman supplements the work of a man, and a man supplements a woman's work, so in government the two points of view should supplement each other.

A woman can only be of value when she is sincere and gives the best that she has in whatever she is doing. This holds good in public service as well as in private life.

I think emotion is the contribution which women have to make. They can at times be objective and analytical, but they can also feel things in a way that is rarely given to men to feel. They are also more adjustable, having had to adapt themselves for generations to different circumstances, and therefore can understand a variety of situations. The man drives in his own particular groove, and knows his own particular job and the conditions surrounding it. The woman may know a multitude of things that are entirely outside of her routine existence. In the political field she can be of very great value by interpreting the human element in a machine age.—Courtesy Independent Woman.

EDGELEY

The Y.P.U. met in the church on Sunday night in charge of missionary convener Marie Giffen. Scripture lesson was read by Kathleen Whitmore, prayer by Sadie Bishop. Solo by Gladys Smith accompanied by Ruth Smith. The topic was very ably taken by Miss Doris Cook of Maple who spoke on China and the work of the missionaries there.

Next week the meeting will be in charge of Wilbur Walker.
