Seed Cleaning Plants

Seed cleaning plants have been established in many centres and by their use the grain being sown is much improved in quality and in freedom from weeds. These power plants not only make an excellent job of grading the grain so as to give a uniform sample, but by use of the proper screens and various attachments the weed seeds are practically all removed and it is possible to fairly well separate the different varieties of grain. The Government ass 1 Iron Scuffler sists in the purchase of these machines when they are used for custom work. Up to the end of 1937 there were 63 seed cleaning plants in operation and last year over 700,000 bushels of grain were cleaned and nearly 41/2 million pounds of clover and grass seed; 11,794 farmers were served by these plants. There are many farmers in the vicinity of these plants who might advisedly make use of them, but there are yet many cen-3 Buggies tres where cleaning plants are not available.

The ordinary fanning mill did good service in its day, and with the use of the proper screenings and adjusting the wind blast a good job can be done with the fanning mill, but lished by the larger power unit.

T.B. Cleanup Campaign

Ontario farmers are becoming increasingly conscious of the necessity of eliminating bovine tuberculosis 1 Table from their herds. Breeders of purebred cattle have for years had their herds tested under the accredited herd plan and have received compensation for reactors, but under the restricted area plan for T.B. cleanup now well under way, owners of both grade and pure-bred cattle receive compensation for reactors. In Ontario there are sixteen counties under the restricted area at the present time, six counties have completed the educational campaign and circulation of petitions. A campaign is tion of the county council to proceed with the preliminary work leading to a T. B. free area. The request first comes from the cattle owners and two-thirds of the cattle owners must be in favour of the area test AUCTIONEERS before the work is undertaken.
