THORNHILL

An oddity of nature was born on the farm of James Pearson here last week. A cat named 'Jiggs' gave birth to four Siamese kittens. Each of the kittens are about three inches long and are joined together at the base of the tail. Mr. Pearson told The Liberal that the cat was a stray that had wandered into the barn last fall.

"I didn't know anything about the freak birth until I heard them mewling in the hay mow where they had bedded down," he said. "I think that I will have to have them destroyed because of their inability to get around." The back legs of each of the kittens are undeveloped, otherwise they are completely normal. One of the kittens is black and white, another grey, and the two others are black.

Thornhill United Church Young People's association held their closing service for the season Sunday night. Miss Gladys Webster, guest soloist from Toronto sang 2 hymns, My Task, and Trust and Obey, and the Rev. Kingsley Joblin gave an inspiring message emphasizing the fact that in each and every person the Kingdom of God is present. The Young People are now holding recreational and social evenings in place of their Monday night service.

No special services for the arrival of the King and Queen will be held Sunday morning because of the celebration service to be held in the afternoon in the public school grounds.

Woodbridge School Board have made plans to transport all local school children to Toronto by trucks on the occasion of the Royal visit, according to W. J. Blake, school board secretary. The board plans to have a trustee and a teacher accompany each vehicle.

York county reforestation committee decided last week to purchase 150 acres of land near Holland Landing to add to its reforestation area. The committee also agreed to accept an invitation from Simcoe county for an inspection of its reforestation area on May 24.
