Thornhill District News

A Decoration Day service in connection with the cemetery was held at Thornhill Anglican Church on Sunday. The service was conducted by Rev. J. H. Colclough, the Rector, and had as their guest speaker, Rev. A. C. McCallum, B.A., B.D., Vicar of St. John's Anglican Church, York Mills. The church, one of the oldest landmarks of the district, will celebrate its anniversary this year. Its typical old English cemetery, which lies behind the church, could reveal many thrilling and historical tales that have happened well over a century ago. Some tombstones that have been exposed to many winters can be traced back as far as 1830, some possibly older than that, but are too old to be deciphered.
One stone, which holds a thrilling story on its face, is reminiscent of the McKenzie rebellion and would thrill the most modern person. Although quite pitted and green with age, the inscription can still be made out quite distinctly. The inscription reads: "Sacred to the memory of Lieut. Col. Robt. Moodie, late of the 104th Regiment, who on the night of December 4th, 1837 was shot by a party of rebels, while on his way to Toronto to give information to the Government of their intended attack upon the city.
Many stones mark the burial place of early English settlers, pioneers of Ontario and ancestors of many throughout the district. Several inscriptions are in old English scroll.
Several other stones mark the resting place of victims of the devastating Asiatic plague of 1832. This deadly disease took the lives of three members of the Maxwell family within five days time. They were John, Thomas and Elizabeth, died July 27th, July 31st and August 2nd respectively.
The first rector of the church was buried in this cemetery. His obituary on his grave stone reads: Sacred to the memory of the Rev. George Mortimer, A.M., late of Queen's College, Cambridge and rector of Thornhill who departed his life June 15th, 1844 on his 61st year of his age. (Preached 33 years).
The Iris Show put on by Thornhill Horticultural Society was held on Monday night in the Thornhill Public School. There were seventeen exhibitors and the following were the prize winners:

MADAME HOLLAND HONORED PRIOR TO LEAVE TAKING
A very happy occasion was observed at the home of Dr. and Mrs. G. D. McLean last week when the members of the 1938-39 choral class met to enjoy a final evening with their leader, Madame E. Holland before her leave taking. A number of ex-pupils were also present for the event.
The rooms were very attractive with iris blooms and one, in particular, presented an especially "June-like" appearance with pink and white decorations. It was here that the chief event of the evening took place when Madame Holland was the recipient of a handsome walnut cedar chest and a variety of individual gifts. In recognition of these tokens of goodwill, and of the pleasant associations of the years, she spoke with deep appreciation. The hours following were spent in singing and friendly intercourse and the evening terminated with the serving of a delightful luncheon. Much of the success of the evening was due to the efforts of Mrs. Johnson, choral class president, who supervised the organizing and also presided for the presentation.

Racing at Listowel on Tuesday "Chestnut Bars", owned by Mr. L. Watson of Woodbridge, placed first in three successive heats. "Chestnut Bars" was driven by Chappie Chapman. Congratulations to Mr. Watson are in order.

COMPARISON OF VARIATIONS IN DANISH AND CANADIAN HOG PRICES
This chart shows the actual dressed weight prices paid for hogs in Denmark and Canada, week by week throughout 1937, and indicates the price fluctuations that occur in both countries.
MANY farmers believe that Canadian hog prices fluctuate more than those of other important countries supplying bacon to the British market. This is not true. The graph clearly indicates that Danish hog prices are subject to similar fluctuations.
Variations in the price of bacon on the British market are largely responsible for these fluctuations.
In addition to these weekly fluctuations, the chart shows prices to be higher during the summer months. Similar variations occur year after year. This suggests that many Canadian farmers might consider how to take advantage of this condition—by adjusting their breeding practice so that more pigs will come to market when prices are normally highest.
