BROWN'S CORNERS

The August meeting of Brown's Corners United Church was held last Wednesday evening at the church. Mrs. Stiver, the president, presided and also took the worship service, her topic being "The Depths of Religion".

Miss Rhea Scott gave a paper on South China, describing the work carried on there by Dr. Victoria Cheung. This proved interesting, knowing conditions as they are in China at the present time.

The September meeting will be held on Wednesday the 13th at the home of Mrs. Norman Reid.

STRANGE BIRD SHOT NEAR FLESHERTON

A strange bird was shot early Monday morning by Jim Kerton at the farm of his uncle, Mr. Hugh Fenwick, near Flesherton. Mr. Kerton sent the bird to The Advance office for us to fathom out what it was. We asked quite a number in town what they thought it was and received answers all the way from a bald headed eagle to a vulture. It was finally decided that the strange visitor was a Turkey Buzzard, a species of the vulture tribe. It had a bald head with dark feathers on the neck, dark feathered body and wings, the latter lighter underneath and short legs with feet like a turkey's, not with talons like the eagle or hawk families. We understand the bird is harmless and lives on carrion. Mr. Kerton thought the bird was a hawk and decided that it was best disposed of. The bird had a wing spread of five feet and did not weigh more than a pound and a half. It is not very often that these birds are seen so far north, it created considerable interest when shown about town.—Flesherton Advance.

HORSES ON FARMS

Are horses in danger of being completely displaced on farms in Canada? asks the Windsor Border Cities Star. Ever since the advent of automobiles, truck and tractors, certain individuals have been verbally discarding these animals from the scene, saying that their day is past.

To be perfectly fair to old Dobbin, let us see just what has happened since the turn of the century, so that we can therefrom predict what may happen in the future.

In 1901, before the West was completely opened up, and before cars, trucks or tractors were being purchased, there were 1,577,493 horses in Canada, according to figures published by The Halifax Herald. But with the growing demand in the West, by 1921 there were no fewer than 3,451,752. By 1931, the number had declined to 3,113,909.

Recent statistics by the Ontario Department of Agriculture, give a clear picture of the trend in Ontario. In 1901, there were 620,343 horses in the province. By 1911 the number was 737,916. The maximum was reached in 1915 with 779,131. but by 1921 there were only 694,237. In 1931 there was a further decrease to 578,157, while last year there were 560,711.

The fact remains, in spite of the decline in recent years, there are only 60,000 less horses in Ontario than at the turn of the century, in spite of the thousands of motor cars, trucks and tractors which are in use. In the meantime, horses have practically disappeared from the streets of large cities. If this is taken into consideration, there are probably as many horses on the farms of Ontario today, if not more, than back in 1901.

In Nova Scotia, there are almost 20,000 fewer horses than in 1911. But there are also 90,000 fewer farm dwellers, so that actually more horses work on the farms of the maritime province, per farm resident, than 30 years ago.

From these statistics, it would seem that the disappearance of the horse from the Ontario farm is largely a myth.

You can tell which of two women is socially superior. She is the one who gets maddest when both appear in public wearing identical hats.

Crop Conditions Throughout Ontario

Hot dry weather throughout the greater portion of Old Ontario during the last half of July was detrimental to field crops. The ripening of spring grains was hastened, particularly in Eastern Ontario, and the development of late crops was retarded. Pastures suffered extensively and at the first of August were badly burnt up, with the result that farmers in the Niagara Peninsula and parts of Central Ontario were forced to do considerable supplementary stable feeding in order to maintain their output of fluid milk. Crops in the northern counties of South-Western Ontario and in most of Northern Ontario, however, made good growth during the month, as the precipitation in the first area was generally sufficient and in the latter area much needed warmer and dryer weather was experienced. Heavy rains during the last two days of July and since over practically the entire province arrived in time to prevent permanent damage to late crops from occurring, but were only of limited benefit to early spring grains, a considerable percentage of which were either cut or ready for harvesting at the end of July.

Threshing results from fall wheat are quite good this season. For the province as a whole the preliminary forecast of yield is placed at 30.5 bushels as compared with 26.7 bushels per acre in 1938 and 26.0 bushels in 1937. The acreage harvested this year amounting to 735,000 acres as against 742,100 in 1938, shows a slight reduction, but total production is up considerably on account of the increased yield per acre. This year's crop amounting to 22,382,100 bushels compares with 19,805,800 bushels last year, and with the exception of the year 1925 is the largest since 1915. The quality of the crop is excellent but the current farm price is considerably lower than that obtained in 1938 or during the preceding several years.

The harvesting of spring grains was under way in all sections of Old Ontario at the end of July and the greater proportion of barley and early oats have now been cut. Yields per acre in the crop district designated Western Ontario which includes Bruce, Huron, Perth, Waterloo, Simcoe, etc., will be very satisfactory, but in most of the remaining counties of Old Ontario the outturn will be below average. In Lincoln, Haldimand, Durham, Hastings, Northumberland, Peterborough, Frontenac, Grenville and Renfrew the average yield of spring grains will be considerably under normal. The stand of spring grains throughout Northern Ontario is quite good with the exception of Algoma, Sudbury and Timiskaming, where crops vary widely in appearance. The condition figures for the entire province as reported by crop correspondents at August 1st showed the prospect for spring grain yields at about ten per cent below average. Recent downpours will be very beneficial to late oat fields.

Potatoes, roots, corn and buckwheat were retarded by a lack of precipitation during July and were in below average condition at the end of the month. Plentiful supplies of moisture during the last ten days have greatly improved the outlook for these crops and have helped to revive pastures which were in very poor condition in Southern, Central, and Eastern Ontario.

MAN BITES A DENTIST

There is a newspaper axiom that it is not news if a dog bites a man, but is news if a man bites a dog. A Mid-West American made the news columns, rightly so, the other day when he bit a dentist because the teeth the dentist supplied him with did not fit.

That is one way of making an "impression" on the dentist and no doubt the practitioner both felt it as well as had ocular evidence of it. Only the wearer can really tell if the dentures fit or not, and he finds it difficult to accept the dentist's word that in time they will be all right. The dentist may insist that the lateral incisors dove-tail into the corresponding positions, but when the whole system of works literally falls down on the job and gets tangled up with objects of mastication, the unhappy patient may have to offer convincing evidence of it.

The wearer in this case adopted a drastic but condign method of demonstration, and one that is not to be advocated as the accepted practice. An "impression" of that kind, however, on the fleshy part of the dentist's darb, should certainly bring results.—(From the St. Thomas Times-Journal).
