WIDE VARIETY OF VEGETABLES AT NORTH YORK

Every common vegetable was to be found at North York Market on Saturday, and the majority of them could be bought for 5 or 10 cents each. Cucumbers were there at one cent each, though 2 for 5c. was most generally quoted; while the long variety, so superior in texture and flavor, were 15c. each, and small pickling cucumbers sold in six-quart baskets, the price varying with the size. Tomatoes were 35c. basket; little cherry tomatoes, a specialty with the man who had the long cucumbers, were 10c. a quart. Plum tomatoes were 10c. a box. Silver skin onions were 15c. and 20c. a quart.

Early Brussel sprouts fetched 15c. pint, 2 for 25c.; cabbage sprouts were 15c. a box, and cabbages, 5c. each and 2 for 15c. Cauliflowers were few, selling at 7c. and 10c. each. Celery was 10c. and 15c. bunch; Swiss chard, 5c.; marrow and squash, from 5c. up. Carrots and beets were 5 bunches for 10c., and large white onions, 5c. bunch. Head lettuce were 5c. each; radishes, spring onions, 4 for 10c.; watercress, 5c. bunch. Broccoli was 5c. bunch; beans, 25c. basket; peas, 40c.; broad beans, 15c. quart, or shelled, 25c. pint. A large puff ball soon disappeared at 15c. a big slice. Okra was 15c. a pint; herbs, 5c. bunch. Potatoes were 20c. basket; small ones selling at 15c. Corn was 15c. a dozen.

There were some nice black currants which sold well at 25 a quart; $1.25 for 6 quarts; raspberries were 10c. pint; 18c. quart; 2 for 35c.; red currants, 10c. quart; gooseberries, 15c. box, 2 for 25c.; thimble-berries were 10c. a pint, blueberries, 20c. a quart. Red Astrakan apples were 35c. basket; Duchess and Transparents, 20c. and 25c.; peaches and plums, 10c. box; chokecherries, 25c. a basket.

Poultry was good; fine capons, some weighing well over 6 lbs., were 30c. lb.; roasting chickens were 28c. and 30c.; and nice boilers, 22c. Ducks were 30c. and 32c. lb.

Chick'n Chats

By H. E. LeMasurier

The most serious disease encountered this year has been laryngotracheitis, or more commonly called tracheitis. The disease took a heavy toll on the younger chicks, but seems to be disappearing as the summer progresses. Some poultrymen are congratulating themselves on keeping free from the infection. They are to be congratulated, but should not lessen their precautions, as pullets and older birds are very susceptible to it and usually the mortality in older pullets is very high and is accompanied with a severe decrease in egg production.

The disease is caused by an invisible virus, which causes a severe inflammation of the trachea (windpipe). This in turn produces a heavy secretion of mucous and in most cases, death is caused by the mucous collecting at the bifurcation or branching of the windpipe, and so completely shutting off the air supply as to cause strangulation. Of course, some birds may recover from the disease, but their condition will be so poor that other diseases may arise to cause a still greater mortality.

Vaccination is the only sure preventative, but its use is prohibited at the present time in Canada. The following treatment has proven helpful, but is only an aid to the bird in fighting the infection and not a cure by any means:

1. Add additional Cod Liver Oil to the ration.
2. Spray with a eucalyptus mixture. (this seems to help the birds to breathe more easily)
3. By any means possible, keep the birds eating and drinking. Buttermilk is a great aid here, as the bird will drink it instead of water, and by so doing receive much nutrient, as buttermilk is a high source of protein. It can also be employed in wet washes etc. to entice the birds to eat.
4. Practise the usual sanitation program. Have pens dry and clean and pay attention to everything contributing to the bird's comfort.

In concluding, remember that tracheitis is an infection and not a condition. It has to be introduced and the following are points to observe if precautions are to be taken:

1. Do not introduce strange birds into your flock, as some birds act as carriers after they have fully recovered from an attack.
2. Keep out all visitors who have been in contact with other flocks as the disease can be carried on clothing and shoes.

Questions on any subject pertaining to poultry will be answered through this column. Address your questions to "Chick'n Chats", c/o The Liberal, Richmond Hill. We invite you to tell your poultry problems to us.
