York County School Fairs in keeping with the new policy of the Department of Education, will be somewhat different than in years gone by, in that competitive exhibits in school work will be replaced by exhibits or displays. For the past few years, schools have been doing project studies and this year each school or room will have a small "booth" in which to display its work with pupils taking turns on duty at each display to make any necessary explanations for the benefit of the spectators. Classes for livestock, poultry, grain, vegetables, flowers, fruit and contests remain as formerly. School displays will illustrate a variety of subjects such as health, writing and art, transportation, national customs, insect pests and plant diseases, craftsmanship, soils and fertilizers, processing of agricultural products, value of milk, history of coal or any one of a thousand they might be interested in. A great deal of interest has already been shown and the prospect of something new and original promises to prompt an increased attendance of adults this year. Eleven Fairs are held in this County with 125 rural schools taking part, representing 4500 pupils. A special educational feature at each Fair has just been announced by Agricultural Representative W. M. Cockburn, Newmarket, who directs the School Fairs with the assistance of the school inspectors. This is a demonstration on soil testing and instructions will be given on how to take soil samples for analysis as a guide for purchasing commercial fertilizers for next year's crops. Mr. F. F. Morwick who is in charge of soils works at the Ontario Agricultural College, will be present with an exhibit and will have a supply of report forms and containers for free distribution to those wishing to have their soils tested later. This is part of the soil testing and soil survey work initiated by the Agricultural Com. of York County Council and full details will be supplied to the teachers of all rural schools.

The dates of the Fairs which commence in the northern part of the County this year, are as follows: Sept. 8—North Gwillimbury, Sept. 8, North Gwillimbury at Belhaven; Sept. 11, East Gwillimbury at Sharon; Sept. 12, Georgina at Egypt; Sept. 13, Whitechurch at Vandorf; Sept. 14, East King at Temperanceville; Sept. 15, West King at Schomberg; Sept. 18, Vaughan at Vellore; Sept. 19, York and Etobicoke at Thistleton; Sept. 20, Stouffville at Stouffville; Sept. 21, Markham at Unionville; Sept. 22, Scarborough at Agincourt.
