CHESLEY LADIES GYPED IN BUYING SEEDS

Two ladies residing on Chesley's McGaw street and living in close proximity to one another become somewhat wrathful, and rightly so, whenever seeds, nursery salesmen and choice imported flowers are mentioned.

Mrs. W.—bought some supposedly choice flowers from a Toronto firm but later it turned out to be only the common variety of wild buttercup. Then another lot of seed was purchased as being Russian static, which bears long, spiky flowers. However when the blooms appeared they didn't look much like static and later she was told they were French marigolds. Not satisfied, the lover of flowers called in several horticulturists and every one declared her choice plants were nothing more than ragweed.

Up the street Mrs. C.—purchased some rare shrubs from a young girl who was taking orders for another nursery. Well the shrubs have grown up now to a point where they can be recognized and the tid-bit in this collection is an elderberry bush. The ragweed has now been torn out and consigned to a bonfire and the elderberry bush is expected to join the ragweed shortly.

Nursery salesmen canvassing Chesley in future are going to find it awfully difficult to get anywhere with a sales talk in these two homes, and perhaps others may profit by their disappointing experience and obtain their seed and stock in future from old and reliable companies.—Chesley Enterprise.

Clover Dodder Weed Menace Agriculture

Weed Control Act prohibits sale of clover alfalfa or grass seed containing even one Dodder seed. Complete eradication should be objective of every Ontario farmer, says weed expert.

Do not purchase clover or alfalfa seed that has one Dodder in it, advises John D. MacLeod, Crops, Seeds and Weeds Branch, Ont. Dept. of Agriculture. This weed is a real menace to Ontario Agriculture and will have to be eliminated if farmers are to grow better and heavier crops in the anxious war days to come.

Dodder is a prohibited noxious weed under the Weed Control Act. It is an offence for anyone to sell clover, alfalfa, or grass seed containing even one seed of Dodder and as it is impossible to remove Dodder seed from clover and alfalfa, farmers must be sure their seed is absolutely pure.

Clover Dodder is an annual parasitic weed with slender, yellowish stems and a few minute scales instead of leaves. Plants twine around Red Clover and Alfalfa plants and become attached to the stems by means of suckers. The root soon dies and the stems continue to grow and thrive on the juices of the host plant.

Dodder grows from seed each year. Yellow, thread-like stems appear during the growth of the second crop of clover and alfalfa. They spread from plant to plant until a tangled mass of yellow threads covers a large area. Dense clusters of small, white flowers are produced on these yellow stems followed later by rounded, brown seed pods. Seeds are about the same size as clover and alfalfa seed, greyish brown or yellowish brown in color. They vary in shape and have a dull and roughened appearance. Thousands of seeds may be produced on an average plant, these may live in the soil for several years.

If this weed has made its appearance on your farm do not attempt to produce clover and alfalfa seed until it has been eradicated, says Mr. MacLeod.

Cut infested fields early for hay. This is important and must be done before seed matures. If left too late, rake up the entire crop and burn.

Insist on a clean threshing machine.

As soon as the crop has been removed plough and cultivate thoroughly or burn over the entire area. One cannot depend on the scythe or mower as the least little bit of Dodder that remains attached to the stubble will grow and may live over the winter and start another infestation the following year.

Clean up around margins of infested fields and fence lines in order to eliminate any possibility of plants maturing seed.

Practise thorough cultivation and a short rotation of crops.

The seriousness of the Dodder situation in Ontario cannot be over-estimated. Do not hesitate to ask advice from your Agricultural Representative, or the Crops, Seeds and Weeds Branch, Ont. Department of Agriculture, Toronto.

Patriotic Duty to Hold Match says Association Manager J. A. Carroll

Official announcement was made today that the International Plowing Match scheduled at Brockville from October 10th to 13th would be held as originally planned.

J. A. Carroll, Manager of the Ontario Plowmen's Association under whose auspices the match is held each year, stated that the holding of the event would not be affected by Canada's entry into the European war.

He said the decision to go ahead with the match had been reached after the government's request that citizens should "carry on" as in normal times, coupled with the fact that one of Canada's greatest contributions will be the serving of supplies and food to the Allies.

"This can only be done," said Mr. Carroll, "when agriculture has become geared to wartime efficiency. The International Plowing Match is held primarily to display and demonstrate the most modern and efficient farm methods and machinery. There are no frills or side-shows at the International. It is devoted to educational demonstrations, competitions and displays. It's an 'all-business' event and nothing could be more devoted to the development and promotion of wartime agricultural efficiency and production."

Mr. Carroll said the executives of the Plowing Match had conferred with Dominion and Provincial agricultural heads before reaching their decision. It was believed that plans for wartime farm production were being prepared at both Ottawa and Queen's Park and officials of the Ontario Plowmen's Association were prepared to offer every facility to Government agricultural departments in presenting such plans to a representative cross-section of farm people from Ontario and other parts of Canada.

During the Great War, the Plowing Match was considered of too great importance to be discontinued and only the influenza epidemic of 1918 caused the cancellation of the match in that year. At this time, as a quarter of a century ago, the officers of the Ontario Plowmen's Association consider it necessary and a patriotic obligation that the plowing match be held.

Several branches of the Dominion government will have exhibits and give demonstrations and will thus have an opportunity of showing what is required from farmers under wartime emergency conditions. It is anticipated many department and branch heads will be on hand with important speeches and official statements.

Highlight of this year's competition program will be the trans-Atlantic class, whose value will bring the total prize list to more than $6000. Concentration has been the keynote in designing the layout of the match and demonstrations this year. Most of the plowing will be done within one-half mile of the match headquarters and the mile of streets in the "tent city" has been laid out with a view to easy walking.

Early applications from exhibitors indicate the exhibit area in the tented city will be even larger than the 1938 show, and attendance at the Plowing Match at Brockville from October 10 to 13 is expected to top the 100,000 mark.

It may not matter much to anybody, but 1940 (next year) will see the earliest Easter for any year from 1925 to the 2000. One of those men who spends his time in church by idly flipping the leaves of hymnals and prayer books is the discoverer of the fact. He was at worship the other Sunday when his eyes encountered a list of dates which appeared to regulate the day upon which Easter shall fall over a period of many years. "According to the book," he said, "Easter in 1940 will fall on March 24, the earliest date upon which it has occurred since 1925, and there won't be an earlier Easter date until the year 2000."

SAVING MONEY DAILY
Sandy was all smiles when he returned home. "What's the news, mom?" asked his wife, puzzled. "Wonderful, lassie," said the Scot. "I've just heard that next week they are going to put the local paper up to two pennies." "Oh, mon, have ye gone crazy?" asked his wife. "Why, there's nothing to rejoice about in that." "Oh, yes, there is, Jennie," Sandy went on. "Ye ken that when I used to go to the free library to look through it I used to save a penny—now I shall save two pennies."
