The local interest in the annual convention of the North York Temperance Federation to be held in King United Church on Friday, March 1 is taking definite shape. Oratorical speakers are preparing for the contest and the entire program should prove profitable and interesting. The supper banquet takes place at 6.30 and at 8 p.m. the Oratorical Contest. In this there will be three classes: (a) Temperance address for those over 15 years; (b) Temperance address for those under 15 years; (c) Temperance recitation open to all under 13 years.

Not having attended this event at any previous time we are unable to say much about the convention phase but according to officers and members of the Federation, the affair lends itself to interesting speeches and discussion. We do know an oratorical contest is always a nice entertainment and brings out the efforts of those participating.

We invite any of the hockey association to write a few paragraphs on the progress of King hockey team, which we understand, is making a very creditable showing and maintaining an enthusiastic following. Sports copy with its enlivening vocabulary is entirely out of our line but an interested player or fan so minded could send the correspondent a column for next or following weeks' issues. Thanking you.

Pinkerton, the Dean of Veterinary Surgeons has also arrived in King from several months' visit in Western Canada. A glimpse of him only assured us the Doctor has eaten the West out of house and home and run away with most of the historical data and human interest stories that the place of his visitation afforded. Welcome back to King.
