TO HELP OTHERS

Next Wednesday the Richmond Hill Lions' Club makes its one big appeal to the people of this district for financial support of its widespread community welfare and war work. Every day in the year the local service club is on the alert, ever ready to lend a helping hand where help is needed. It may be glasses for a needy child, an operation which parents cannot afford, or it may be supplying milk and cod liver oil to undernourished children. It may be the call from overseas of parentless children suffering pain and hardship and needing the clothing and comforts your dollars can supply. Whenever and wherever there is need, the Lions stand ready to help. That they may continue to carry on their great work they ask for your generous support of the Street Dance which will be held next Wednesday. This is everyone's opportunity to help the Lions help all who need helping. Lions ask no questions as to creed, color or religion. They extend a helping hand wherever it is needed. We feel sure that as in the past their annual appeal will be rewarded with a generous response.

BUY THEM OVER THE COUNTER

Last Saturday War Savings Certificates went on sale at the counters of all chartered banks and at all Post Offices. Citizens are now able to walk up to the wicket, lay down their money and walk out with a War Savings Certificate. This speeds up the savings transaction over the old method of mailing the stamps or money to Ottawa and waiting several days for the certificate. This over-the-counter sale of Certificates has been greeted with general approval.

MORE RATIONING

The announcement that Tea and Coffee are now added to the list of rationed goods in Canada emphasizes once again that changes must be brought about in our way of living. We think the people of Canada welcome this new ration order, and it sort of makes us feel good to know that in this at least we are out-rationing our cousins in the British Isles. It sort of helps our war spirit to know that we are going to get along on less Tea and Coffee than the Britishers. That it was coming to Tea and Coffee rationing has been evident for some time and that there has not been any hoarding is too much to expect. However most people would not trade a clear conscience for the dubious enjoyment the hoarder will get from a few extra cups of tea or coffee. This new rationing order will help bring home to all the seriousness of the war situation. It may help dispel that silly idea that we can't lose the war, and drive home the fact that we can lose the war, in fact have been losing it for some time. We're going to win it, but it's going to take a lot more sacrifice on the part of everyone. Before victory is ours we will know the true significance of Churchill's "blood, toil, sweat and tears."

DRIVE OUT THE HOARDERS

The suggestion has been made that in every community an organization be formed to make surprise visits to inspect pantries and cellars in a campaign to drive the hoarder out into the open. The hoarder when thus found and exposed should be ostracized by the people of the community. The hoarder is an enemy of the country, and a selfish fifth-columnist who deserves no better fate than such people receive in the enemy countries. We don't know any hoarders in this or any other community but we are told there are such and we certainly favor harsh measures in dealing with them.

CARS JAM YONGE STREET

Despite gasoline rationing, a rubber shortage and higher income taxes there was a traffic jam on Yonge Street last week-end such as has not been seen in years. Some say they save their gas all week to go on the week-end. Others explained the situation by pointing out that it was Civic Holiday and tired workers and their families just had to get to the country. The best explanation we heard was that people are just going to keep on living as they like just as long as they can and that nothing short of rationing is any good in any conservation campaign in a democracy.

HELPING THE FARMER

The action of the Mayor of Toronto in offering the help of civic employees to harvest crops was a splendid gesture which will be appreciated by rural Ontario. A drive through the country and a few chats with farm friends here and there is all that is needed to show that many farmers are going through hard and trying times. Harvesting a heavy crop short handed is about as tough a job as we can see around these parts.

WHITEWASH DIDN'T STICK

Controller Saunders and the Toronto City Council apparently are not satisfied with the whitewash job carried out by the special committee of York County Council appointed to investigate the affairs of the Toronto and York Roads Commission. Sufficient evidence has been brought out to date to warrant a thorough clean up of the whole outfit, and if York County Council fell down on the job we're glad to see the City Council taking up the task. We hope the City Council goes ahead and has an investigation which will mean something and result in an overhauling of this large spending body which has been going "high, wide and handsome" for many years. Once more York County Council has added an argument to those who say county councils should be abolished.

THIS IS FREEDOM

We heard this good definition of Freedom this week: "It is you, being yourself."

Lieut. F. F. Moyle With Years of Experience In Frozen North Is Now Serving With Canada's Armed Forces

Is A Nephew Of Miss Anna Moyle Of Richmond Hill

A photo of Lieut. F. F. Moyle, formerly of Didsbury, Alberta, and a nephew of Miss Anna Moyle of Richmond Hill, appeared in Tuesday's Globe and Mail with the following interesting write-up:

"Ten years of thrill packed adventure in Canada's far northwest is behind Frederick Francis Moyle, 31, of Didsbury, Alta., who stepped into the army recruiting office on Adelaide Street West the other day.

Moyle thought his work on the fringe of the Arctic would mean little or nothing as far as army qualifications are concerned. But Captain N. J. MacCrimmon, M.C., in charge of recruiting for area No. 1 M.D. 2, has convinced him differently. Moyle is going into the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps, which will make excellent use of his experience. He will retain his lieutenantancy which he obtained in the 15th Canadian Light Horse following C.O.T.C. studies at the University of Alberta more than ten years ago.

Handling freight under the most adverse conditions — temperature often 50 below and facilities inadequate—will stand him in good stead as a transport man with the service corps. The tougher the going, the more Moyle is going to like it.

Born at Brantford, Ont., Moyle went west as a youngster with his parents. Leaving the University of Alberta after a year of study, he spent the summer of 1932 prospecting in Northern B.C. He "worked" lonely, isolated regions, travelling with pack horses.

His real adventure began when he went north "down" the Peace River to Great Bear Lake. The boat was damaged on the trip and he took a job with a northern transportation company, handling thousands of tons of freight.

Moving freight up in that country spells untold hardship, calls for ingenuity and invention. Broken by infrequent trips "outside," Moyle subsequently worked in various capacities — freight handler, traffic manager, paymaster, in remote outposts such as Fort Resolution, Tukiyoktuk, Fort Vermillion. He saw to the delivery of goods by dog-teams, tractor train, plane, canoe and pack horses.

While he never "took off" or landed a plane, Moyle often took over the controls in the air and guided bush pilots over country where "every little lake looks the same."

Moyle offered his services to the army when the war began but was told that his regiment was not recruiting. He went back north and came out to try his luck again now.

He hopes to see service on the west coast or Arctic regions and believes that if he can find a useful spot in the army there are many other experienced frontiersmen whose services will prove valuable.

"I'd like to get some of my buddies into the service corps with me," Moyle said. "These fellows are used to making the most of makeshift conditions and in the bush you learn to do things for yourself."

Was it cold back where Moyle came from? On Cameron Bay, on the east shore of Great Slave Lake, the mercury once dropped to 76 during one of his visits.

But after this war is over Moyle wants to go back. "You make great friendships back there," he pointed out. "It's a vast place but it's no more lonely than a big city — if you're a stranger in the latter."

Flies Are Serious Menace To Health

Flies, especially the common house fly, are a menace to health, particularly during the summer and autumn. The part the house fly plays in spreading dangerous diseases such as infantile diarrhoea, typhoid, and tuberculosis is fairly well known. Flies have long been suspected as possible carriers of infantile paralysis (poliomyelitis), say officials of the Division of Entomology, Dominion Department of Agriculture.

In the summer of 1941, scientists working in Connecticut and Alabama demonstrated the presence of the virus of poliomyelitis in mixed collections of blow flies, house flies, and certain other species of flies taken in two localities where cases of infantile paralysis had occurred. This fact adds emphasis to the importance of fly control. Flies breed in garbage, manure, and other animal matter, and thus can be most effectively controlled by properly treating and disposing of such materials.

Measures should be taken to exclude flies from dwellings, and to protect foodstuffs from those that may gain entrance. The flies should be destroyed promptly. Leaflets containing further details on fly control may be obtained by writing to Publicity and Extension Division, Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.
