Miss Edna Izzard of the local High School Staff has been attending the O.E.A. convention in Toronto this week. The speakers and discussions at the different sessions were most interesting, Miss Izzard reports. After a panel discussion on the Upper School English Examination results throughout the Province, four recommendations were sent to the Minister of Education one of which is that the Department seek from two Boards of Education the release of two outstanding teachers of English for the next school year with a view to having those teachers visit schools in the province to aid teachers of English who have difficulties in teaching English.

He spoke then of the experiment of Woodrow Wilson, the League of Nations, of Lenin's brotherhood of man and Adolf Hitler. "The first time I saw him was in Munich in the early twenties, some months before the famous Brown House 'putsch' which landed him in prison. I think I was the first ever to publish his name in an American newspaper. One evening I was taken by an old German friend to hear him speak, and I was not impressed. I had heard many tub-thumpers in my day, and he seemed to me to be just another. But I noticed that his audience stirred uneasily when he began, and finally roared approval of his venom and diabolic half-truths. As we left the hall my friend asked what I thought of him. Lightheartedly I answered 'the man is a lunatic'. With a wisdom and foresight I have never forgotten, he replied: 'Yes—but I am afraid of a lunatic who speaks so well to empty stomachs.'"

Mr. Percy Philip Addresses O.E.A. Convention

One of the highlights of the O.E.A. meetings held in Toronto this week was the speech delivered before the English and History section of which Miss Edna Izzard was president, by Mr. Percy Philip, Ottawa correspondent of the New York Times. Mr. Philip gave his address the title "The Tomorrows That Sing". In it he reviewed his experiences as a newspaper correspondent in various states of Europe during the past 30 years, 20 of which he spent in France. He said in part:

"I have lived to see and to report the efforts of three great would-be reformers of human society who all promised that they would so arrange things that men would live in peace with one another and the world would have such harmony and prosperity as our ancestors believed could not exist outside heaven. I do not wish you to think that I in any way class these three men and their ideas in the same category, nor do I wish you to think that because their efforts failed we should be discouraged. I would rather present that failure as a challenge to the next generation to do better than their fathers did. It should be your business to examine why these great experiments in human organization and government failed, and to seek out the remedies—otherwise there will be for the children you teach no 'Tomorrows that sing.'"

Mr. Philip's reaction to the German people is very interesting. "When I went the first time to Germany in 1910, I found myself admiring their dynamic way of living, their energy of mind and body, their thoroughness and the bright shining appearance of their country. Then one day I suddenly awoke of it all and dashed across the frontier into France and back to England; for I felt an urgent need of re-establishing my faith in the human soul. I needed the twilights on the banks of the Seine and the peace of English meadows. I needed them to counteract that garrulous, brittle life of the body and mind that did not admit the existence of any of those virtues in which I had been taught to believe—humility, charity and kindness."

In spite of the disillusionment which Mr. Philip has witnessed he has faith that our Tomorrows may be free from the constant repetition of struggle for mastery by one nation over others, and will permit growth without such dreadful violence and cruelty in the name of doctrine or principle. "Out of this tragic turmoil, then, what we must ask for must be a form of world government which will have that authority which the British Empire had in times past, which will secure the rights of all nations to their independence within the law through a new democratically organized League. It must be a law that will permit to each nation the form of government—monarchy, republic or communist—that it finds most acceptable and most practical, that will best provide for its people laughter and fantasy, the pursuit of happiness and beauty, and the personal right of a man, if he so desires, to be a vagabond sleeping in the shade below a hedge as long as he is not a nuisance to his neighbours. To maintain the law we must have force—a force drawn from all countries if possible. But if any again refuse, in the name of national sovereignty or for whatever reason, then there must be formed a force of all men of goodwill, whatever their country, who have the courage and the heart to serve humanity."

NEWTONBROOK

The Easter services were well attended in the churches last Sunday notwithstanding the heavy downpour of rain. However the weather cleared about 10 o'clock. Bright Easter music featured the services.

Newtonbrook United Church held the 19th annual Good Friday Union Service and as usual was filled with a capacity congregation. Ideal spring weather prevailed and many came from a distance. Rev. A. H. Halbert conducted the service and was assisted by local clergy Revs. F. N. Bowes, M. C. Tait, A. MacLean, and C. B. Jeffrey. Rev. J. C. Cochran, D.D., of Toronto, gave a dynamic Easter message. Newtonbrook United Church Choir sang two anthems, "There is a green hill" and "When I survey the wondrous cross". Master Robert Connor, boy soloist, sang a solo, "Eternity". The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion with spring flowers and pink hydrangeas. The offering amounting to $30.00 was given to the Hospital for Sick-Children in Toronto.

Gunner Frank Gillespie of Petawawa Military Camp spent Easter-tide with his parents.

The Girls' Mission Circle held their Easter Thankoffering meeting last Tuesday evening in the United Church school room with the Auxiliary members as their guests. Miss Pearl McPhail presided. An Easter devotional service was conducted by Miss Doris VanLoven. Mrs. Harold Moore and Mrs. Glen Shaw sang a duet very acceptably. Mrs. A. H. Halbert introduced the guest speaker, Miss Jessie Murray, who gave a very interesting address on the study book "The church in the city streets". It was arranged to hold a shower for the missionary bale at the next regular meeting on May 19 at the Parsonage.

More Than Taxes

One public organization in the province of Ontario in publicizing the Fourth Victory Loan Campaign among its members, reduced its thinking to the following words:

"It takes more than taxes to conquer the Axis".
It is interesting to observe how plain ordinary words are often grouped to drive home simply a very important truth. We can take the greater part of Finance Minister Ilesley's able budget speech, analyze it, and find that the sent ence quoted above sums up Mr. Ilesley's thinking remarkably well.

If all Canadians thoroughly understood that all our taxes, heavy though they may be, are not sufficient to give our boys in uniform what they need to batter down the citadel of Berlin, the successful sale of Fourth Victory Loan Bonds, totalling $1,100,000,000 is assured.

Our Canadian heroes will not travel three quarters of the way to Berlin and then call off their mission. Neither will the folks back home stop short of the full financial objective needed for Canada's complete war effort. Tax payments take us only half way. Bond purchases will enable us to go all the way.
