BIRD CHATTER

Last Saturday proved to be a very "birdy day" at the local waterworks pond. On our way there we were fortunate enough to see a beautiful male cardinal and a yellow warbler while a killdeer flew overhead. In the larch trees along the path leading to the woods we saw goldfinches, white-throated sparrows, song sparrows, Nashville warblers, numerous ruby crowned kinglets, a Baltimore Oriole and a female rose-breasted grosbeak, although we were not fortunate enough to see the male. At various places along the path we saw the Least Flycatcher or Chebec, a pair of Chipping Sparrows, Barn, Tree and Rough Winged Swallows, a pretty little Maryland Yellow Throat and a voluble catbird. Perched on reeds near the water were the usual number of Red-winged Blackbirds. Flying above the water were Spotted Sandpipers while Mallard Ducks swam placidly about. In the woods were a great many warblers, namely, Black and White Warbler, Black-throated Blue Warbler (of which we had an excellent view), a Myrtle Warbler which can easily be recognized by its four yellow spots on crown, sides and rump, the Blackburnian Warbler and lastly the Black-throated Green Warbler. Two members of our party were fortunate enough to see a Cape May Warbler. Also in the woods were a Winter Wren who is very like his cousin the House Wren but is smaller, and with a shorter tail; and a fastidious pair of tame Downy Woodpeckers. A startled Veery flew across our path and showed his cinnamon-colored upper parts. An Olive-backed Thrush obligingly sat for some time on a dead stump where we had a good view of his eye rings and spotted breast. Altogether we saw thirty kinds of birds and we think that rather a record, don't you?

Yes, our dear young ladies, we do, but we think the number of birds seen in our own garden from the den window while convalescing from the flu might compare favorably with it. We were able to see the ruby throated hummingbird in almost every position imaginable. His red throat was as bright as the red tulips and he even perched on a small limb of the plum tree so we could see his green back and get a general impression as to his size. The flower garden seemed to be full of thrushes at times until we became confused but did recognize the hermit, veery and olive-backed. Jumping and scratching vigorously at the loose leaves and roots were several white throated sparrows and later on we heard its wistful, plaintive song coming to us across the evening air. A junco flew by the window and alighted long enough to let us know we hadn't mistaken the white outer tail feathers. Our joy was complete when a pair of black and white warblers appeared in the lilac shrub looking for food. Their actions are very much like the creeper. You can't mistake them—they are such a clear black and white. A flicker who has a nest not far away was searching the garden for food as were also at times a purple grackle, catbird, chipping sparrow and robin. We mention the robin because he already has a little family to feed in a nest in our maple tree. The house wren flies to the shrub nearest our window when we are there and sings quite lustily. We imagine he is asking for his last year's house which blew down during the winter and hasn't been repaired. We were also fortunate in seeing the Nashville Warbler in the lilac shrub and later the Blackburnian Warbler and Cape May Warbler in the soft maple. The Baltimore Oriole attracted our attention by his bright color and we saw and heard the Goldfinches in flight. Now and then a crow, gull and chimney swift flew within our vision. These birds were not seen all in one day but over a period of four days. So regardless of the miserable weather and our inability to get outside we have had a very interesting time, we think, don't you?

JUNIOR FARMERS' JUDGING COMPETITION

The York County Junior Farmers are just completing plans for their annual Live Stock Judging Competition and Girls' Achievement Day on Friday, June 4th. Headquarters for the day will again be Richmond Hill with the girls arranging their display in the Sunday School room of the United Church while the boys will register at the Municipal Hall at 8.30 D.S.T. As most of the live stock will be judged on farms in the southern part of the county, it is suggested that the boys might arrange to register at the first farm to be visited.

We understand from W. M. Cockburn, Agricultural Representative, that the plans will be completed before next week so that announcement can be made as to where registration might be made without having to drive to Richmond Hill. This will cut down on the amount of driving necessary for the contestants.

The usual prizes for the day will be presented but as yet no definite arrangements have been made regarding a suitable programme for the evening. It is hoped, however, to have the usual banquet at Richmond Hill. In order to encourage a good turn-out of junior judges, oral reasons will only be given on five classes of stock instead of ten as was done in former years.

As usual the mammoth picnic put on by the Junior Farmers will follow a week later when the various clubs will bring out their favourite softballers, sprinters, etc. to Musselman's Lake on June 11th. Supper will follow at 5.30 and conclude with a dance in the evening. Max Boag's Orchestra will be in attendance and all Junior Farmers are most heartily invited to attend both events.

90TH ANNUAL SESSION OF ANGLICAN SYNOD MEETS IN TORONTO

Clergy and Lay Representatives from many parishes in Ontario attended the 90th annual session of the Synod of the Diocese of Toronto held during this week. The Rev. W. F. Wrixon, Mr. P. C. Hill and Mr. W. Charles represented St. Mary's Church, Richmond Hill. The highlight of the session was the address given by the Primate of Canada, The Most Rev. D. T. Owen, D.D. on his recent visit to the Canadian Forces in England. A packed hall of hundreds of delegates listened to the inspiring message of the Archbishop, who flew to England in a bomber and returned by ship just a few days before the opening of the Synod. During his visit the Archbishop visited many centres of the Army and Air Force, spoke to great numbers of our men, saw the Canadian Air Force bomber crews leave on their nightly runs over enemy territory, and was on hand to greet those who returned. The Rev. W. F. Wrixon has announced that he will tell more of this important visit during his sermon on Sunday morning next. Relatives and friends of men in the Forces will hear what the Archbishop thinks of Canada's War Effort and Canada's Fighting Men. Both services next Sunday will be in keeping with the spirit of the 24th. All are invited.

VICTORIA SQUARE

Remember the date July 5th for the "Big Night" in Victoria Square. The W.A. have secured the well known speaker Miss Ethel Chapman, editor of the Women's Section of the Farmer's Magazine, to speak in the United Church at 8.30. Other interesting items will be added as a full evening's program is planned. Miss Chapman will speak on the subject of Federated Agriculture and all the ladies and gentlemen of the surrounding community are invited to come to hear Miss Chapman on this very important subject. Watch for further announcement later, but in the meantime remember the date, July 5th.

Sgt. William Thompson, wife and daughter, of the R.C.A.F. of Brandon visited with old friends over the week-end.

The W.A. semi-annual convention will be held in Glebe Road Church in Toronto on Friday, May 21st. All ladies are asked to attend. Be sure to take your own lunch, tea and sugar. At 10.15 in the morning.

A number of the ladies met at the home of Mrs. L. G. Stoutenburgh on Wednesday afternoon to hold their May W.M.S. meeting. The ladies are all pleased to know that Mrs. Stoutenburgh feels well enough to have meetings in her home.

The Mission Band met at the home of Mrs. Ralph Boynton on Saturday afternoon, a meeting that is always a treat for the children of the community.

The Red Cross Nursing Reserve held their meeting at the home of Mrs. R. E. Perkins on Monday evening and intend to meet again at Mrs. Perkins on May 31st. All members are urged to attend this meeting for several items of business will be discussed.

Mrs. Louis Nichols, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Nichols, Miss Vera Nichols, Mr. Wilfred Anderson, Mrs. Wellman, Miss Marjorie Wellman, Miss Mabel Sanderson, Mr. Bert Sanderson were all bedside visitors of Mrs. Douglas Gee on Sunday.
