Two For Reeveship

council, expressed gratification that the village is in as sound a financial position as the annual balance sheet shows. "Let's keep it in that condition," he declared. "That would be my ambition in council."

A. J. McLatchy announced that he would accept the nomination for council, and would do everything in his power to justify the confidence reposed in him by the voters.
Kenneth Tomlin declared that this was his first opportunity to stand for public office in any community. He viewed the municipality as a large business that requires business like administration. "Richmond Hill," said Mr. Tomlin, "should be the finest residential suburb in the entire greater Toronto area, and if I am elected I will do my best to help make it so."

W. J. Taylor acknowledged the great honor and responsibility linked with public service, and expressed approval of the sentiment that every good citizen should be prepared to shoulder some share of such responsibility. "I may assure you," he said, "that if I am a candidate I will have no axe to grind, and I will make but one promise, namely, that I'll do the best I can to serve you."
Morley Hall, nominated for the school board, expressed a similar sentiment, and said that if elected he would do his best to co-operate with his fellow trustees in the best interests of the children of the village.

Hydro Activity
P. C. Hill, candidate for council and chairman of council's Hydro committee, explained that the electrical department has to its credit $1,500,000 in bonds and a current account. The re-wiring of Centre St. and the wiring of Highland Crescent were undertakings this year that cost $2,000 and $4,000 respectively. Stop lights had been installed and it was only a matter of waiting for a few parts before they would be put in operation. During the year 27 new services had been added. "I consider," said Mr. Hill, "that one of the main projects before us is the lighting of our town, and that will not be neglected if it should happen to be my responsibility next year."

Wes. Middleton, seeking re-election to council, explained how shortages of material and labor delayed road improvements during the present year. "Still," he said, "we opened new roads, widened old ones and put in new drains. But in some ways it was a heart breaking job. For example, we let contracts for repairs to certain roads, and we had every assurance that they would be done, but when the time came the contractor just didn't come as per appointment."
Mr. Middleton, for three years chairman of the roads committee, said he was in favor of a sewerage system, but pointed out that authorities agreed it would be foolish to go ahead with such a project just now. "They would simply be a burden to those who would have to pay for them," he declared. "Imagine a $100,000 estimate jumping to $135,000 and then a proposition that we consider installation on a cost plus basis."

Saved Over $1,000
He told of the construction of the municipal garage for trucks and equipment by village labor at a cost of $1,800 compared with a cost of $3,000 if it had been built by contract. "We saved over $1,000 on that building alone," he said.
He pointed out that he also occupies the post of building inspector, no sinecure considering the fact that building permits issued involve $34,875 new construction and $18,000 in alterations.

He told also of the erection of pre-fabricated houses, and of how they were approved by engineers and by the Ontario Housing Commission. "I haven't what you might call a popular job," concluded Mr. Middleton, "but you can't do it properly without tramping on some people's toes. I would ask anyone on whose toes I have tramped to forget it, and to remember only that I didn't do it to be spiteful."
Ralph Paris who has had charge of the parks and arena pictured the future of the arena as a great community centre. "I have tried over a period of four years to improve it in every way possible, and, as you all know, it has now a new floor. The day will come when it will be used for concerts, dances and all sorts of recreation," he prophesied.

Mr. Paris said that he definitely favors a sewerage system, but that it should be held in abeyance until prices stabilize. If he should run for office again this year, he would promise the same sort of service he had given in the past.
Alan Bales, chairman of the waterworks committee, said that 43 new services were added during the year and ten old services renewed. In 1945, the consumption of water had been 22,700,000 gallons, but this year much more would be used, and new sources of supply would be a necessity.

Mrs. Barbara Langstaff, nominated for the school board, said her three small children would soon be ready for school, and her ideal would be to make Richmond Hill public school the equal of the best in the city. "Our children," she said, "should have all the opportunities city children are given."
James Pollard, also a candidate for the school board, cheered his auditors with the hope that the addition to the school would still be possible at the price planned.

Paul Angle, who is retiring from the board after 18 years service, wished the members of the new board every success.
Mrs. P. C. Hill announced that although not a candidate she would like to call attention to the trend of development on Yonge St., a change evidenced last year for the first time in a quarter century. "Yonge St. is having its face lifted," she said, and it suggests the necessity before us of developing some plan for the growth of our entire community. "Are we going to let it become hodge podgy or make it one of the finest suburbs north of Toronto?" she asked, urging the advisability of forming a planning committee with the services of an architect. Mrs. Hill told of a highly interesting plan being followed by Leaside with respect to the raising of funds for the building of a hall.
