Guild Gossip

By Glad McLatchy

"Getting along with other people," was quite an appropriate title for a talk by Rev. Dr. Archer Wallace to the Evening Guild last week. To really get along with other people seemed like a good cake recipe, with a measure of friendliness, thoughtfulness, and genuineness, mixed with a generous portion of humor, and iced with a pleasant smile, would enable each one of us to share that magnetic word "fellowship", thereby filling to the full our own measure of happiness.

Tolerance, Dr. Wallace pointed out, was one of the finest qualities one could possess, as it always brought out the best in people, like a soft answer turneth away wrath.

To be courteous and grateful for courtesies, to be humble instead of "nig-nat", to be a good sport instead of a grouch, in short to do unto others as we would that they should do unto us, and if you haven't anything good to say about a person, then don't say anything, for as we all know, people in glass houses should undress in the dark.

We believe that Dr. Wallace is one human being who makes others stop, look and listen, by his broadmindedness, gentle wit, and honest-to-goodness charm which rates him in our opinion, a true Christian gentleman.

May 3rd means money, which concerns you and you and you, so bring along that pot of gold coupled with a good yarn about how you mined it.
