The High School Cadets

Congratulations to the Richmond Hill High School Cadet Corps on the excellent showing it made at its recent annual inspetcion. Congratulations, too, to its instructors for the results achieved by their painstaking work.

Nobody is going to say, unless they have little regard for the truth, that the local cadets were as smart as the Grenadier Guards. That is neither expected or desirable. Neither the boys or their instructors have time or inclination to make seasoned professional soldiers out of a group of lads who have plenty of other things to learn to fit them for life's battle.

But what is important is that those who wear the cadet's uniform have grasped two important fundamentals. One that preparedness is the duty of all citizens. War, it is to be hoped, will never come again. But in the troubled world of today there is no guarantee that it will not. A citizenry prepared and trained to defend its homeland is less likely to be called on to de'inquency, lads ready and willing to assume discipline and leadershp. The esprit de corps engendered in such an organization as the cadets is a healthy thing for the business and social life of a country.

Cadet training is not designed to create professional soldiers or militarists. It is designed to make self-respecting citizens of those boys who spend part of their time in gaining some degree of fundamental training in defence.

In playing their part along these lines both the cadets and the instructors of the Richmond Hill High School Cadet Corps are serving their country and their community well.

The Horticultural Society's Plans

If plans in the minds of executive members of the Richmond Hill Horticultural Society come to fruition the village will be greatly in the debt of the society.

Speaking to The Liberal recently, Mr. C. E. Little, president, outlined some of the projects which he considers will be of benefit. These projects, it must be understood, are only in the "consideration" stage at the present and require study and approval before definite action can be taken. Nevertheless it is good to know that they are at least being thought about.

Beauification of the grounds of the Community Hall if, as and when that institution comes into being are, of course, a major project. Work around the waterworks pond, which has become quite a haunt of ornithologists and where wild ducks have made a home, is another endeavour which is being mulled over.

But probably the most ambitious and certainly the most spectacular of the society's undertakings which is under consideration is that of the beautification of the entrances to the village. We have pointed out on several occasions that there is little to indicate to the traveller on Yonge Street that our community is one of the leading rose-growing centres of the Dominion. To many it is just another town on the road, with little or nothing to demonstrate its true character.

There are of course a number of factors to be considered before any type of programme can be considered. The removal or retention of the old street railway tracks is one of them. It is to be hoped, however, that as soon as such matters are settled the Horticultural Society will be able to proceed with its plans for beautification and will receive the support of all those citizens who take pride in a community which nature has endowed richly.

Few towns in this province have such a glorious natural setting as Richmond Hill. Few towns, also, have such an intimate connection with flowers and all that they mean. It is to be hoped that the Horticultural Society will be able to formulate and carry out plans which will display to the world the true beauties of
