Brainy Police Work Restores Lost Goods

Shrewd "sleuthing" by P. C. Frank Moore led to the restoration to its owner of property found on Mill St., Richmond Hill, some weeks ago, it was revealed through the monthly report submitted by the constable to the regular monthly meeting of the Richmond Hill Village Council.
The lost property, as reported in The Liberal, consisted of boy scout articles, money, and sundry items. Among them were some undeveloped films. P. C. Moore had these developed and prints circulated among local schools. There the subjects were identified by a local student and, as a result, the property was returned to her mother.
Other matters dealt with in P. C. Moore's report were of a minor routine character. A number of convictions for going through the Yonge Street stop light were recorded, mostly against out of town drivers.
