An Independent Weekly - Established 1878 Subscription Rate, $2.00 per year; To the United States $2.50 Member Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association

> J. E. SMITH, M.P., Publisher Telephone, Richmond Hill 9

Visit The Trade Fair

every line of merchandise and in addition many feature entertainment attractions, beautiful floral displays and hundreds of lucky number prizes will go to lucky ticket holders. The array of lucky ticket prizes is in itself a collection worth seeing and cer-services. That such goods and ser-Richmond Hill Trade Fair nrst vices are as good or better than ofheld last year, was an outstanding fered anywhere we have no doubt, success, and there is every indication but on this occasion the business that this year's Fair on Friday and people invite everyone to come down Saturday of this week will not only to the Richmond Hill arena as often live up to the records of last year, as possible on Friday and Saturday but will be in every sense bigger and and see for themselves. better than ever. There will be displays of almost

The Trade Fair sponsored by the Richmond Hill Business Men's Association merits the support and whole-hearted co-operation of the people of the district. Seeing is believing, and at this Fair Richmond Hill business people show what they have to offer in the way of goods and Sunday is Father's Day.

There will be the usual frivolous editorials, cartoons and neck-ties.

The light-hearted approach has become both traditional and characteristic of the difference between the way we celebrate Father's Day and the much more full-hearted warmth we associate with Mother's Day.

There is an obvious reason for the distinction. The editorialists, cartoonists and jokesters are all fathers themselves. It is, therefore, natural enough that they exploit the more sentimental adjectives when paying their annual tribute to the nation's Mothers, and just as natural that they reach for the funny adjectives to cover their self-consciousness about the idea of taking Father's Day at all seriously.

Behind this surface levity there is, however, a begrudging admission that when the laughs are all over at Dad's expense, the basic idea of a small annual tribute to Fatherhood is worth at least a passing nod.

Comical as he may look in his favourite bowler (long since outmoded),

We extend congratulations to our contemporaries, The Aurora Banner and the Newmarket Era and Express on winning two major awards in weekly newspaper competition, and elsewhere in this issue we are pleased to announce that this paper was awarded third place in the competition for weeklies in Ontario and Quebec published in towns of 4,500 or

The annual competition is sponsored by the Ontario-Quebec division of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association and the results were announced at the annual convention held

Expansion of the armed services and of defence industries has caused a labor shortage in some fields, particularly agriculture, logging, and the skilled metal-working trades. As Canada's defence program gains momentum, shortages may be expected to grow. Yet unless the country is willing to undertake military conscription and compulsory allocation of labor, it would be putting the cart before the horse to institute national registration at this time. The recommendation by the government's Advisory Council on Manpower, that national registration is not needed at this time, is sound. Unless the government was prepared to act upon such a registration, little would be accomplished. The information ob-

> there would be a service charge of $2 per quarter in addition to the gallonage levy. Members of the Elmwood Park (West Section) Ratepayers Assoc- reported to be making preliminary iation learned a lot about land- sketches for the Palmer Ave. water scaping their home surroundings area and for grading and gravellat the June meeting last week. in of Ruggles and Lawrence Aves. Speaker was Ernest Kohler of the In a most interesting talk, Mr. laws was read. The Association

Kohler described methods or soil had requested details on this matpreparation, establishing a lawn, ter, mentioning the matter of temthe various types of shrubs and porary residences in particular. The shade trees most suitable for this Council said that the Building Inarea and also discussed flowers and spector had been requested to in-Members also heard that some cil on his findings.

vegetables. progress is being made in installing water meters in homes in the new water area. The master me- A general meeting of the Oak ter at Church St. S. and Markham Ridges and Lake Wilcox Ratepay-Rd has been installed. They were ers Associaton andthe Lake Wilcox also informed that the domestic rate would be 60c per 1,000 gals.

Association will be held in the comare today bisecting the Saguenay and for pulp mills.

Association will be held in the comare today bisecting the Saguenay and for pulp mills. said that it was understood that of the two associations.

Landscaping Talk

Thornhill Horticultural Society.

Engineers for the township were Correspondence with the Township Council regarding building byspect the area and report to Coun-

WILL MEET SUNDAY

tainly worth winning.

The Trade Fair is a community project designed to foster a healthy and active interest in local business and as such merits the support of all interested in community betterment.

The best way to support the Fair now is to talk it up to your friends and neighbours and invite friends from other communities to attend. The best way to support the Fair Friday and Saturday is to attend as often as possible. You will be made very welcome by Richmond Hill business people and we know you will not be disappointed.

Father's Day

or incongruous as he may seem in his new beach-robe (the very height of fashion), and willing as he so often is to allow the female of the species her unnatural claim to the bright plumage - he is still the Head on the Family, the Bread-Winner, the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Domestic Relations.

His rewards are small, but important. He is the "pater familias" of a small world which he calls Home and Family. Here he has the pleasant fiction if not the actual fact of power, authority, the final word. In the larger world he may have none of . these things. More likely than not he .s the victim of them in all his working hours at office or factory-a fact by the way which explains why he so seldom abuses his power and authority at home. If he is a farmer, of course, he has the great intangible asset, never fully understood by city fathers, of exercising the traditional prerogatives of his estate in all his hours more fully than the Chairman of the largest Board.

It is one of his cutest tricks to pretend that he actually has no auth-

Congratulations

Newmarket, won the Walter Legge Memorial Trophy for the best all round weekly in the two provinces,

and The Banner, published at Aurora,

the Stephenson Memorial Trophy for the best weekly published in towns of board of examiners with competition points being awarded for general news coverage, typography, features, photos, advertising, general make-up,

The newspapers are judged by a

To win prizes requires enterprise

The Era & Express, published at in Montreal last week.

4500 or less.

etc.

ority whatever at home. His partner in the dual-monarchy of the family dons the mantle of imperialism with more flair than he does, and he senses that the psychological uplift of the purple does her far more good than it would ever do him.

Hence the fiction of Father as The Little Man, a fiction which he not only invented but keeps alive with a cunning obstinacy. It solves a lor of problems, saves a heap of argument.

We are thinking, of course, of the North American Father. Europeans tell us that they find him impossible to understand. They keep saying that we let our womenfolk dominate us. "In Europe it is different. We keep women in their place."

Perhaps. But we North American Fathers think we also do a pretty fair job of keeping our women in their place. And if it is high on a pedestal at times, if it takes all we can earn in a day or a week or a year to keep them there, if it is idealistic, atavistic, maternalistic — we are content.

We think we know what we're doing.

Sure, we'll settle for a neck-tie on Sunday.

on the part of the publishers and the co-operation and the best effort of loyal staff members, contributors, correspondents and readers.

It is noteworthy that three major prize winners in a competition open to the two provinces of Ontrio and Quebec should come from this immediate district in the County of York.

Again congratulations to our contemporaries on winning first awards, and to our staff, contributors, and correspondents thanks for loyal co-operation which enabled us to win such a high rating among the weeklies of two provinces.

Guest Editorial

(Ottawa Morning Citizen)

tained would not even be of much use in a future emergency, for the employment picture continually changes.

A national registration would classify each Canadian as to occupation, with a view to directing individuals either into the armed forces or into essential work. It is not needed in order to obtain information on the country's labor requirements, for much of this information is already obtainable through the National Employment Service.

If Canada could not meet its present defence commitments without conscription, or if the country became engaged in all-out war, then the compulsory direction of labor would no doubt become necessary, and national registration would be needed. Men not engaged in essential occupations would be directed into the armed forces or into defence plants. But this stage is far from being reached. In the first three months of 1951, about 26,000 immigrants entered Canada. This is twice as many as in the same period in 1950. As manufacturing in some lines declines, due to overstocking, credit restrictions and shortages of materials, workers are being diverted into more essential industries. The Labor Department estimates that at least 100,000 persons will be looking for work in Canada during the summer. The need for the regimentation that goes with compulsory registration of labor is not apparent. Until it is, national registration seems unnecessary.

Vast Resources In North

Strait. Appraising the Saguenay jackpot, in a June Reader's a year are expected. of titanium. The region's poten- Falls, a hundred miles east of Untold resources of metals Creek, once nothing, now the and hydroelectric power are now capital of Canada's new mineral being uncovered in the Quebec empire. By the time the railroad and Labrador Saguenay country, gets there in 1954 it will find stretching north from the Gulf mines ready to deliver, for men of St. Lawrence to Hudson flown in. Ten million tons of ore

Digest article condensed from Grand Falls, in Labrador, is New Liberty, Keith Munro says one of the world's biggest catarthe area has become the world's acts, with a potential five million largest producer of luminum and horsepower (equal to three Niaghas the greatest known deposits aras). The smaller Muskrat tial of hydroelectric power, and Grand, is capable of developing perhaps of iron-ore resources, one and a half million horsepower. Eventually this tremendous Canadian and U.S. companies force will provide energy for (The village of Richmond Hill will m. Sunday, June 17 for the purpose costing $100,000,000, primarily to Saguenay ore runs as high as charge the Township at the rate of of nominating officers for the com- bring out iron ore. Shorter spurs 69 percent iron, the article says, 25c per 1,000 gallons as registered ing year and discussing matters of track will tap titanium de- and most of it lies right under by the master meter.) It was also connected with the amalgamaton posits. At the northern end of the moss, ready for open-pit minthe 360-mile stretch lies Burnt ing.

U.N. Staff Buys Food for India

Within two weeks after receiving an appeal to aid famine-stricken India, United Nations staff members had contributed over $11,000 to buy grain for India. Here, Dr. Ralph Bunche, Director of the U.N. Trusteeship Division and Chairman of the U.N. Secretariat's Committee for Food Relief to India, presents a check to George E. H. Marshall of UNICEF. Looking on, from left to right, are: T. A. Raman of India, Secretary of the U.N. Secretariat Committee for Food Relief to India; U.N. Secretary-General Trygve Lie, and Assistant Secretary-General Shamaldharee Lall, also of India.

Jack Smith, M.P. North York

Canada is to provide a pension of you money to all at the age of 70 without a means test. Registration for the new pension will commence throughout the country on July 1. This was announced in the House this week by Prime Minister St. Laurent.

The government will also shortly introduce legislation to enable it to make agreements with the provinces to provide old age security to persons in need between the ages of 65 and 70 years.

the application of this new old age security program are already present receiving old age pengoing forward. Registration sions. The Department of Naforms with respect to the un ver- tional Health and Welfare plans sal pensions plan are being pre- in the six months, between July pared and it is proposed to have the necessary supplies of these 1952, to deal with these applicaforms printed within the next few weeks. A small amount of additional staff will very shortly be recruited to deal with applications for the universal pensions which will be administered by the federal authorities.

discussed with the various provincial governments to take from their present old age pensions records the information which will be required to pay the universal pension after January 1, 1952, to the approximately 300,-000 persons now receiving old age pensions under the previous legislation. For these persons, no additional applications for the universal pension will be required.

Arrangements are now being

The government wishes to be in a position to commence as soon as possible after July 1, registration of the others - probably some The administrative plan, for 400,000 persons - seventy years of age or over who are not at 1 of this year and January 1, tions through the present family allowance offices with the small additions to staff which are contemplated, and to have their records in shape to enable payments to be made in the first month of the new calendar year.

DR. ARCHER WALLACE

ingly attracted to autobiography. Readers want to know what life has taught men and women and if the lessons have value for them. It is a healthy sign of the times.

One thing is clear; of those who contemplate their career, nearly all agree that life has been strewn with blessings in disguise; experiences which at the time seemed crushing and devastating but which, seen after the lapse of years, proved to be steppingstones to a better life. What one wrote of history can be applied to individual lives: "The crooked lives of history are the masterstrokes of God."

The list of those whose apparent misfortunes turned out to be for the best, is a very long one and includes many of the most illustrious people who ever lived. From among them let us take the case of Thomas A. Edison.

When Edison was a twelveyear-old boy, he became greatly interested in making chemical experiments. Some of these tests were not enjoyable. For instance, he persuaded his chum that if he took enough Seidlitz powders, the gas generated would enable him to fly. The boy tried the experiment with disastrous results.

Still keen on experiments and anxious to earn enough money with which to buy chemicals, Edison persuaded his parents to allow him to sell newspapers and ing," magazines on the train that ran between Port Huron and Detroit. He also sold bread, candy and fruit, and soon he was able to buy all the chemicals he needed. At this time a seemingly fortunate thing happened. His interest in chemical and electical experiments was so keen that he had secured permission to use part of a car as a laboratory; and as the train journeys were long, I have been afflicted." (Psalm he spent many hours in that car. 119:71). One of the most valu-One day a sudden jolting caused able functions of religion is to a stick of phosphorus to fall from help us take long views of life. the shelf to the floor, where it What can happen to others may burst into flames and set fire to the car. The conductor, who was a quick-tempered man, boxed Edison's ears so soundly that the lad became deaf - an infirmity which remained with him thoughout life. The conductor was so enraged that he put the boy and hi, en-

The reading public is increas- reached Mount Clemens. Edison's delicate health and his slowness at school had seemed a severe handicap. Now added to this was deafness, which threatened to make his progress in life harder than ever.

His expulsion from the train was a humiliating experience for Edison, but he was by no means discouraged. Once more he fitted up his laboratory at home and resumed his experiments. There were many protests from some members of the family who feared chemical experiments, but his mother had great faith in him News and met objections by saying: Thomas is all right. Nothing will happen to him, God is taking care of him."

It was unjust for the conductor to hit young Edison as he did but the deafness which resulted had its compensations. He was able to concentrate on his inventive work, so that he became known the world over as "The Wizard of Invention." When he was well advanced in years, this is what he wrote about his affliction: "This deafness has been a great advantage to me in many ways. When in a telegraph office I could hear only the instrument directly on the table at which I sat, and unlike the other operators I was not bothered by the other instruments . . . Again, my nerves have been preserved intact. Broadway is as quiet to me as a country village is to a person with normal hear-

The experience of Edison was not unusual, but because he was so famous the facts are well-

There is nothing new in all this but it is something of which we need to remind ourselves again and again. What a devout Jew wrote years ago is a common experience: "It is good for me that well happen to us. This knowledge should check our impatience and relieve our despair.

* * * * Our quotation today is by Oliver Goldsmith. "Our greatest Cartoon glory is not in never falling, but tire laboratory off when the train in rising every time we fall."

Telephone Richmond Hill 500

Shows Daily at 7 and 9 p.m. Saturdays & holidays continuous from 6 p.m.

FREE PARKING AT REAR OF THEATRE

Entrance from Church Street. Walkway on north side of Theatre Building

Saturday: Matinee at 2 p.m.

Doors open at 1.30 p.m.

Friday & Saturday — June 15 & 16

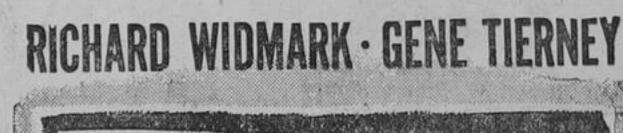

Technicolor Featurette Cartoon

MIRECTED BY STUART HEISLER SCREEN PLAY BY LIAM O'BRIEN

SUGGESTED BY A STORY BY J. REDMOND PRIOR

Monday & Tuesday — June 18 & 19

Cartoon

Featurette

Wednesday & Thursday — June 20 & 21

Featurette __