Crop Improvement Association Plans Twilight Field Meeting For Friday Evening August 17

The York County Crop Improvement Association has arranged two twilight field meetings in the county for Friday night of this week, August 17, in the Markham-Scarboro district and Monday evening next, August 20, in the Keswick, Sutton, Pefferlaw area. Owing to the rush of harvesting operations with the farmers busy all day, the association has booked these gatherings or tours to commence at 7.30 D.S.T. to provide an hour of daylight before sun down and all those on hand before the zero hour will be eligible for the draw for a "gate prize."

The meeting at Markham will convene at the farm of Harold M. Coakwell, on lot 4, concession 3, Markham, one concession east of Markham village and a mile and a half south of No. 7 highway. Mr. Coakwell last year worked out a plan for picking up his swathed grain with the forage harvester then blowing it into the threshing machine at the barn. He has had enquiries from all over Ontario about his system and he will demonstrate this starting at 7.30. Then the group will move to Scarborough to see how E. A. Creighton is carrying his dairy herd with grass silage and see a grass silage stack. Professor H. Goble of the Ontario Agricultural College will be present to discuss the Hessian Fly, Saw Fly and Wheat Smut.

For the Monday meeting the assembly centre will be at Frank Jarritt's Keswick. From there the tour will proceed to the Oat Variety Test Plots at Irwin Winch's farm at Belhaven. Hay pasture fields seeded in 1950 on the farms of Wm. Latimer of Sutton and Ted Arnold, Pefferlaw, will be visited next on a hit and run schedule. Following this the tour will end up at a flood lit trench silo which has been filled with grass silage. Dr. W. E. Héming of the Ontario Agricultural College will explain the life history and control of the Hessian Fly and other insect pests as the group sits around for a discussion period.

W. M. Cockburn, secretary of the Crop Improvement Association, states that it is most important to start the programme at 7.30 owing to the necessity for daylight to see the subjects to be demonstrated and suggests being on hand a few minutes early.

100 New Lockers At Cold Storage

A fur coat, ear muffs, and mittens is hardly the garb for mid-summer when the temperature is near eighty degrees, but that is the dress of Doreen Wise, sister of Fred Wise, owner of Richmond Hill Cold Storage, Markham Road, Richmond Hill, who has recently installed 100 new lockers. There is just one catch, however, — she is in the deep freeze of the plant in a temperature of twenty below zero.

Her job is to re-sort the fruit and vegetable containers after they have had a quick freeze for approximately four hours, placing them in the respective lockers of each of the storage plant's many customers. These cardboard and plastic containers run in various sizes from pint to quart size, with each customer buying about one hundred and fifty. The locker holder takes these containers home, fills them with fruit or vegetables, then brings them back to the plant to be processed. This is just one of the many services available at Richmond Hill Cold Storage.

The one hundred new lockers which are now ready for use brings the total number to three hundred and eighty, each one holding two hundred and fifty pounds of meat, vegetables or fruit. A great many local farmers, said Mr. Wise, have large lots of chickens and capons and have been enquiring for prospective customers. At the present time Fred has five thousand chickens on hand and has sold to buyers in this district and Toronto seventy-five thousand day-olds and tarters this year. This business is in conjunction with his Cold Storage Plant, and every three months he kills approximately eight hundred chickens which he processes and stores away for his customers.

Various cuts of meats are sold in quantity lots at Richmond Hill Cold Storage, and says Mr. Wise "when meat is bought this way, the price is much cheaper and a better grade of meat purchased." "Beef," he said, "will be in plentiful supply and cheaper in another month." He finds that those who have purchased lockers are more than pleased with results and services rendered and purchase now only wholesale meats.

On his arrival home from three weeks in the hospital Mr. McAllister found that in his absence nothing had been done to his 30 acres of hay except that it had been cut and left to spoil, with the general condition of his farm leaving much to be desired. As a result Mr. McAllister was completely incapacitated to carry on management of affairs.

His worries were soon over, however, when word of the situation was circulated, for in no time twelve or fourteen York County Guernsey Breeders were at Glenorchy Farm with their mowers, rakes, balers, tractors and wagons and with the help of a couple of good neighbours had cut, raked, baled and stored safely away over 3,000 bales of good hay for next winter's feed.

This act is not only a renewer of faith in humanity but bears out what Mr. McAllister has always said "it isn't so much the Guernsey cow but the folks who own her that make working with her worthwhile."

Proving his statement that the reason he is such a booster of Guernsey cattle is not so much the Guernsey cows but the type of people who own and work with Guernseys, D. G. McAllister of Glenorchy Farm, Richmond Hill, was assured once again last week of the great kindness of these Guernsey breeders.
