abreast of the times no one will deny. Reactionary and time-worn policies implemented by little men have no place in the rapidly changing districts adjacent to the City of Toronto. Every public body must learn to move and march with the times.

At the same time in areas where there is a definite lack of industrial assessment public bodies need to use extreme caution in handling their finances in order that they may avoid the pitfall of over-expansion. They should keep a careful check on their yearly taxation potential and then draw their budgets up accordingly. Only so much can be accomplished Councils must balance their outlay for efficient and economical administration.

Everybody wants increased The fact that our councils must keep educational facilities, additional services, and in general everything that goes to make the community a better place in which to live, but no one wants these things at the expense of a bankrupt administration.

In many cases energetic Councils after careful scrutiny can eliminate certain features of a project at a saving to the public, and without noticeably altering its main purpose. As much as we might like to have the "extras", grim necessity often dictates otherwise. The members should examine every request and expenditure with care and wherever possible keep these expenditures at a safe minimum. each year and still keep the community in The goal of every public body should be a healthy state financially. Re: New Garage

Dear Mr. Editor It has come to the writer's attention that the new Markham Township garage that is to be built in Buttonville is to be built on a cost plus basis.

Not only is the location absurd but to be built on a cost plus basis is positively ridiculous. Once a cost plus contract is signed no one can control the cost but the builder, and the more he can increase the cost, the more profit
