Public Relations For Hunters

Driving through Perth County in Southern Ontario, one will notice a farm posted with bright new signs which read "Trespassing — With Permission". These signs should gladden the heart of any true sportsman looking for a place to hunt in autumn or winter.

Why should a landowner have to spend money on signs asking "sportsmen" to secure permission before trespassing? Should not we, as sportsmen, be the ones to create better sportsman-farmer relations? After all, it is the sportsman who stands to benefit. If all landowners put up "No trespassing" signs, hunting days in southern Ontario would be over!

When an inspection is made of farms frequented by hunters, one can easily see why landowners would like to know who is taking the privilege of trespassing on their land. In some areas, fences have been broken down and even cut with wire cutters. Bottles and other refuse have been thrown about, plants trampled, and trees slashed. Immediately, the farmer condemns all sportsmen, and the next time a sportsman visits the area, he is confronted with signs of "No Trespassing".

Sportsmen must attempt to foster the relationship which will lead to "Trespassing — With Permission" signs. If you are a true sportsman, and a good citizen, you will ask permission to go on his land, the farmer will realize that you are not a "hoodlum", and most farmers will welcome you.

Remember, a hunting licence does not give you permission to trespass. Only the owner or tenant has that right.

Back To Normal

When we think of fall, scenes of brightly coloured landscapes, corn roasts and thanksgiving come to mind but there is something else that is synonymous with autumn that we rarely notice, it's that readjustment that we all make between winter and summer. Few people give it a second thought, but, nevertheless, it is as characteristic as red leaves and turkey dinners.

We call it 'back to normal' because the summer actually takes up only a quarter of our year's activities and after the rush and bustle of summer is over we have a sigh of relief at the thought of getting back to the old familiar routine.

A glance around the village will prove our point. Women's organizations, clubs and church groups have resumed activities that lapsed at the end of last spring and old familiar faces can be seen around the village or at a meeting.

The churches alone are experiencing their annual return to worship; Sunday school are active again and congregations are noticeably larger each Sunday. In fact all the social and service groups whose activities were almost nil during the summer have resumed their programmes or in the process of doing so.

Yes indeed, we are settling down to another year, be it in the home, the school or the office. Many are looking forward to a few restful evenings at home in contrast to such a busy summer, and when the winter catalogues are out, then is a sure sign that we are beginning to settle down to the "swing of things."

School Area No. 1 Markham - Vaughan

Mr. Keith Richan, chairman of School Area No. 1 Markham-Vaughan has announced that this year's total registration figure is 1063 pupils, which is a sizeable increase over last year's opening day total of 820 pupils. School officials expect this figure may be further increased with late registrations during the first few weeks of school. The Board has 33 teachers on the staffs of the six schools which comprise the area. This number is made up of 31 regular teachers and two supervisors.

Increased Registration At Unionville Public School

Alfred Hill, principal of the Unionville Public School has set this year's total enrollment figure at 148 pupils. This is an increase of nine over last year's figure. There were 25 beginners registered who are starting school for the first time. New additions to the teaching staff include Miss Ruth Bailey of Toronto who has had six years teaching experience in other schools, and Miss E. Gray of Leominster who is commencing her first year as a teacher. Mrs. Somerville of Markham has returned for her second year.

Archeological Soc. Hopes To Find Indian Village

The Ontario Archeological Society with headquarters in Toronto have made application to Markham Township to excavate for a former Indian village on lot 30, concession 1, which is in the Doncaster District. The Society had hoped to begin digging around September 15. Reports indicate this property is not owned by the township, therefore any negotiations will have to be carried on between the individual property owner and the Society.

Edgeley United Church Sunday, September 14, 1952. Sunday School at 9:30 a.m., worship service at 10:30 a.m.

Re-opening Service

Edgeley United Church was filled with morning and evening on Sunday for the Re-opening services. It had been closed for a month and extensively repaired and redecorated. During the morning service the minister, Rev. P. J. Lambert led the congregation in the prayers set forth for the re-opening of churches, after which the appropriate sacred number "Bless This House" was rendered by Mrs. Sydney Stevenson.

The preacher for the evening service was Rev. E. E. Kent of Thornhill. His forceful message will long be remembered by the congregation.

Mrs. Alfred Bagg presided at the organ for both services and was assisted by the choir of Edgeley United Church.

At the evening service the special singers were the Kinsmen; Messrs. Jess Pike, Oliver Pike, Peter Steckley and Arthur Raymer. Their Gospel songs brought great inspiration to all present.

At both services the minister thanked all who had so willingly helped to make the church so beautiful, especially the members of the decorating committee: Allan Poole, Percy Usher, Art Avery, Mrs. James Bagg, Mrs. Art Avery and Mrs. Fred Hendry.

For the day, the church was beautifully adorned with baskets of gladioli and ferns placed there by Mrs. Percy Usher and her helpers.

Leather Work

Mrs. Chas. Agnew has many admirers of her fine leatherwork on Friday and Saturday of the first week of the Exhibition, and also on the closing day, countless other people had the opportunity to view her work as she demonstrated the art of hand tooling leather handbags at a booth at the Ex. Mrs. Agnew used her favorite apple blossom design and, needless to say, her fascinating work caught the eye of many who passed her way.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Peeler were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Talman of Toronto on Saturday evening.

Congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Norman Bagg on the second anniversary of their marriage, September 16.

The choir, under the leadership of Mrs. Alf Bagg, served lunch to the visiting singers in the Hall after the Sunday evening Re-opening service.

Her many Edgeley friends will be interested to hear that Mrs. William Watson of Agincourt was a prize winner in the baking contest at the exhibition-winning first prize for her date and nut loaf.

Obituary

Late Mrs. Annie Mortson

Death claimed one of Edgeley's oldest residents on Monday night, September 1, when Mrs. Annie Mortson passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Clarence Stong, after a lingering illness.

Mrs. Mortson, formerly Annie Lavina Agar, daughter of the late Samuel Agar and Mary Hardy, was born in Elgin Mills and spent the early part of her life in Headford, where she met and married J. J. Mortson. Mr. Mortson predeceased his wife 22 years ago.

Mrs. Mortson was a member of the Victoria Square United Church and in her younger days was very actively connected with the Women's Missionary Society. She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Clarence Stong of Edgeley and three sons, Herman and Gordon of Victoria Square, Harold of Richmond Hill, and one sister, Mrs. George Middleton of Lang, Sask.

The funeral service conducted by Rev. P. J. Lambert of Maple and Rev. A. C. Huston of Victoria Square, took place at the Wright and Taylor Funeral Home, Richmond Hill on Thursday afternoon and was very largely attended. The beautiful flowers were a silent tribute to Mrs. Mortson's faithfulness to her family and friends. The pallbearers were: Harvey Colford, Cecil Nicholls and Frank Brunwell, all of Victoria Square and Sydney Broadbent, Elmer Stong and Donald Elliott of Edgeley. Interment took place in Victoria Square Cemetery.

The sympathy of the whole community is extended to the bereaved family.

The regular meeting of the Edgeley Woman's Association will be held on Thursday afternoon, September 18, at the home of Mrs.
