They returned to King City on Sunday.

Anniversary
Mr. and Mrs. Irving L. Scott will have a happy occasion of their own to celebrate on Coronation Day. On June 2, 25 years ago Mary Lawson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Lawson, Tannery Hill, was married in the little stone church at Strange, to Irving L. Scott, Toronto. Theirs was the first wedding to be solemnized in this church, and the officiating clergyman was Rev. James Miller. Mr. and Mrs. Scott have made their home in King City since the death of Mrs. Scott's parents a few years ago, and they are very popular residents. We extend hearty congratulations and hope that their silver wedding will be a very happy day for them both.

The installation of the new officers was conducted by Mrs. Paul Snider of Edgeley W.I., who also gave a report on Resolutions from the Conference held in Guelph recently. A thriving society should be able to present a good resolution to improve our standards each year. It is a precision tool that can be used.

Mrs. Bert Cook also gave a report from Guelph on Home Economics and Health. Several doctors reported at the conference on food and lack of proper nutrition among children because of insufficient knowledge about vitamins. It isn't the cost of foods that makes for well-planned meals. Low cost meals are quite often more adequate.

Woodbridge Asks For Annexation Possible 1500 Ac.
At a recent meeting of the Vaughan township Council, members of the Woodbridge village Council met with Vaughan Council to discuss the possibility of annexing a large area of the surrounding territory to the village. Depending on the boundaries accepted, the village might annex as much as 1500 acres providing the annexation meets the approval of the township, the ratepayers concerned and the Municipal Board.

Woodbridge Council pointed out that the village was running out of property for new growth. A land development company has approached the Council with an offer to develop a large tract of land providing schools, sewers and water at company expense. The company wishes to develop a particular 260 acres of land and village council feels that out of fairness to others also wishing to subdivide they should take in a larger area. If the project goes through the development company plans to erect nearly 1000 houses and a 10-room school.

In speaking for the Vaughan Council, Reeve Marshall McMurchy pointed out that if the township was going to lose some of its assets in the form of excellent land, it would like to part with a few of its liabilities in the area, to which Woodbridge Council agreed.

Reeve McMurchy advised the Woodbridge Council that Vaughan Council would give full consideration to the matter but that both the municipality's position and the local situation would have to be thoroughly investigated before a final decision could be given.

Orchids For Road Men
Reeve W. J. Taylor and members of council at Monday's meeting had words of praise for Councillor Wesley Middleton and his roads committee for the fine work done on village streets this spring. In acknowledging the words of commendation Councillor Middleton gave credit to village foreman Fred Bovair and his staff for their excellent work.
