About Books And Reading

By the Thornhill Librarian

FOR FIRE-SIDE SAILORS
Scientists tell us that our blood has almost the same salinity as the sea — that our rhythmic blood pulsations are not remotely different from the rhythm of the oceans. Does this suggest man's everlasting interest in the sea?

It will be conceded that sea stories have by far a greater appeal to men and boys. Men who follow the sea and have great adventures thereon are separated from health and home, and the love of the sea is therefore inimical to domesticity. However, it is possible to have vicarious adventures on, by and under the sea in a hammock in the garden which is much more comfortable than a hammock on board a lugger.

Let us open a few sea-going books on our library shelves. I again commend Jan de Hartog's books reviewed a few weeks ago by Ralph Edwards, but The Cruel Sea still runs the top favourite and little less than the classic of the little ships of the North Atlantic patrol. If you have not read our own Canadian Thomas Raddall's "Pride's Fancy" there remains a reading treat for you. Incidentally, in Pride's Fancy there is a wonderful description of the building of a wooden ship 150 years ago. Raddall took infinite pains to make his description technically correct and he discussed the craft of ship building with still surviving old ship masters on the Nova Scotia coast, but particularly with the ancient mariner Captain Nickerson, one of whose sons lives on Bayview.

In these days our adventures are not confined to the surface of the sea. Jean Cousteau will take us into "The Silent World" safely equipped with his underwater breathing apparatus. He introduces us to a silent and wonderful world, with all the possibilities of exploration that the Spaniards had who followed Columbus. Those who heard him lecture last winter in Toronto were completely enthralled by his pictures. And of course Rachel Carson's "The Sea Around Us" will remain a favourite until the bottom of the sea is as well charted as the surface. Her earlier book "Under the Sea Wind" is running into frequent new editions.

Many years ago, I picked up a copy of Captain Slocum's "Sailing Alone Around the World". No man has it. The book was out of print for years, and I was delighted to see a new edition, with an introduction by our old friend Arthur Ransome.

It has just occurred to me that I have never read a poor sea story. I think the explanation lies in the fact that only a writer who loves and knows the sea would venture to write about it.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Stonehouse, David and Edward have been vacationing at Lake Simcoe.

Haliburton visitors over Civic Holiday were Miss Ellen Boynton, Ellen Hooper, Mary Gough, Ted Gough, Dave Boynton, Wilbur Brumwell, Mr. and Mrs. A. Latimer and Lee.

New residents have taken over Mrs. B. C. Sleser's home while she is abroad. We wish them a pleasant stay.

A new building is being erected at No. 7 highway and Don Mills Road, which will be used as a delivery point for Brown's Bread.

Congratulations to Mr. George Arnold on the passing by council of his new $1,000,000 subdivision.

With a new township garage and offices nearing completion, and a new business section in the offing, Buttonville should grow by leaps and bounds.

W. I. Activities
This month W. I. members are again practicing for the A. C. W. pageant in Maple Leaf Gardens on August 21, 22.

The monthly meeting, however, will not be sidestepped on this account. Mrs. Ken Stotts and Mrs. Alf Miller are laying plans for a meeting to be held in Mrs. Miller's home on Thursday, August 20, at 8 p.m. The roll call on that occasion will be a favourite canning or pickling recipe.

had a lovely holiday and best of all was that she landed a 8 lb. 2 oz. pickerel.

Farm Holiday
Dave Snyder, John Bird, Bob and Russ Petrie of the Highland Park Boys Club were taken on a trip to see Causy DeClerq at Trenton. The boys enjoyed seeing their former baseball coach and he did his best to coach him in the art of milking cows, but by all reports they are better baseball players.

Harold Sanders returned with the boys after spending a grand holiday on the farm with the DeClerq's. Several local boys, pals of David, have visited there this summer.

From Scotland
Miss Helen Keith, Edinburgh, Scotland, is visiting with Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Rutherford, 21 Drury Ave. Miss Keith attended the recent marriage of her brother Bill at Windsor, Ont., and will return home early next month on completion of her visit.

FOOTNOTE
Wearing unsuitable shoes when doing much standing or walking can make life pretty miserable. Fatigue, soreness and various foot troubles may result from wearing those high heels or fragile affairs that look so pretty in the shop window but which lend little support to the feet. We depend on our feet to support the weight of our bodies and provide locomotion. While they do withstand a great deal of abuse, they finally become strained or distorted with corns and bunions as the result.
