Fishermen's Bait

When anglers tire of telling tall tales about the big ones they have landed, they can always retreat to a discussion of what bait brings the best results. They'll have to go at some clip, though, to match the yarn from an Ontario camp, where one youngster is reputed to have caught a 14 1/2 inch small-mouth bass, using toothpaste on his hook.

Egyptians, who hadn't been introduced to the wonders of toothpaste, used a stout vine with a burr attached to get their fish. For catching tuna, deep-sea fishermen tend to rely on a herring or mackerel with bones removed. Muskies are said to be enamored of big minnows, while trout may go for flies and bass for the speckled or leopard frog. As for the garden-variety worm, obtainable via the nocturnal ex-posure into the backyard, he serves on general purpose duty for any and all comers.

In an age of substitutes, however, artificial lures provide stiff competition for minnows and worms. Many anglers are swinging to the "eeler" — an artificial edition of the small eel — for all-round efficiency. The "daredevil" red-and-white striped spoon — is popular for snaring pike and muskies. The crazy crawler plug equipped with wings and plug, which "pops" when it hits the water is also in demand.

And then there's the artificial lure in the shape of the mermaid. This, it may be safely assumed, should hook more fishermen than fish.

ANTICIPATING THAT LUNCH PAUL

School days will soon be here again and that lunch will be a daily rite once more. With a few basic nutrition rules, mother can exercise her ingenuity to introduce variety and change in menu. Provincial and local health departments have a variety of suggestions for lunch boxes so that nutritional values may be kept in mind while whipping up those tempting mid-day meals that keep the youngsters happy.

In the matter of accommodation three of the four trustees present felt an 890-pupil school would not be necessary for several years. A majority of the school board have asked for approval of an 810-pupil school. Trustee Smith: "Only 300 to 400 pupils will be accommodated in the new school in the first year."

The Board hopes to have the school built by September 1954. Trustee Smith estimated it would take six years to completely fill an 890-pupil school. The Board has estimated," remarked Mr. Kinnee, "that our total Thornhill enrollment will reach 3000 pupils within five years."

Regarding the impact of the proposed debenture issue, Deputy-Reeve LeMasurier stated, "These additional debentures will raise our over-all debenture debt to a point where we could well be unable to sell future issues to cover needed public school expansion."

Continuing, the speaker remarked, "I have serious doubts that the other councils would be willing to finance a gymnasium without the assistance of a provincial grant."

In the matter of the cost of the 13-acre school site, water and a road into the new school, Mr. Kinnee stated nothing had been added for these items. However the board hopes to make a sufficient saving between the estimated and actual cost of construction to cover these items.

At one point Councillor Lennie suggested that the board proceed with the construction of the $540,000 purely academic school. He felt that a gymnasium and practical optio could be added at a later date. Deputy-Reeve LeMasurier wondered if it would not be better for the board to erect a 15' room school and add to it as required.

SUNDAY AFTERNOON

MAKING FRIENDS WITH LIFE
There is a striking passage in Paul's letter to the Philippians. "I have learned," he writes, "in whatsoever state I am, therewith to be content. This is what Dr. James Reid calls: 'Making friends with life.'"

Paul had more than his share of rough experiences. He was the object of bitter and fanatical prejudice and hatred. He never knew when some violent storm would drive him to loneliness or suffering but he had discovered the secret of inward peace.

Some people are suspicious of life; maybe they even hate it. They have suffered so many setbacks and frustrations that they expect trouble and invite it. We once heard a woman say: "Only children and fools are cheerful; other people know better. It is unfortunate when people become so bitter."

There are situations we cannot alter and we had better accept them. The old proverb runs: "What cannot be cured, must be endured." There are things which

TODAY'S QUOTATION
Our quotation today is by Alice Hegan Rice:
"Often the people to whom we complain are struggling with a burden greater than ours."

cause friction, perhaps in our occupations or even in our homes. The one foolish thing to do is to try and escape from life instead of meeting each day with courage and hope. I have long been convinced that here lies the appeal of alcohol. It offers a means of escape. A man who had got himself into a kind of trouble through intemperate habits said: "Two glasses of whiskey and I feel a lot better; four or five glasses and I wouldn't call King George my first cousin."

We do not want to sneer at a man like that but we know that he is seeking a means of escape which is terribly disappointing.

The sensible thing to do is to make friends with life; to convince ourselves that nothing can harm us unless we give our consent. It has always seemed to me that one of the finest passages in literature is the speech that Socrates made to the judges who had just condemned him to death. "Know this, O Judges, that no evil thing can befall a good man." There is nothing from outside which can crush a man's soul if his inward life is secure. Once that truth has been grasped a gateway has been opened to peace and tranquility and supreme satisfaction.

I want to repeat here, something I wrote in a book several years ago. My excuse for doing so is that it is true in every detail.

Several years ago, at the request of a man and his wife living in California, I went to see a lady living at the Home for incurables in a Canadian city. More than thirty years previous to this these people had been children together, playing happily in an Ontario village. Some strange malady, unforeseen in childhood, had laid this woman aside. I found her in a somewhat bare room and made known the reason for my visit. I told her that her distant friends had not forgotten her; that they were thinking about her and praying for her also I handed her some money they had sent for her comfort.

I had seen some inmates of the institution out on the verandah and asked the lady how often she was able to go there. "I have never been out on the verandah," she said, "I have a spinal disease which prevents my being moved. This seemed a cruel condition and I asked, 'How long have you been here?' 'Twenty-six years.' I thought of twenty-six years and all that had happened in my own life in so long a time. 'Do you mean to tell me,' I said, 'that you have never been out of this small room in twenty-six years?' 'I have never been over the threshold since I was brought here, twenty-six years ago,' she answered. There are times when conversation seems out of place and this was one of them. It seemed to me that anything I might say would sound formal and insincere. Then that woman said something that I never forgot. 'It only comes a day at a time and God is so good. Twenty-six years of almost continual suffering — the nurse told me afterwards that she was seldom out of pain for more than a few hours at a time — and yet to talk about the goodness of God.'

"Dear Mr. Editor"
Re: Richmond Hill Wrestling Fans
Dear Mr. Editor:
Last Tuesday evening, August 11, at the local arena, Mr. J. Rice, member of the Village Council and Chairman of the Parks Committee, handed me a letter telling me most abruptly and with absolute no warning that the Council had decided I could no longer promote wrestling shows in the arena.

I was completely dumfounded and asked Mr. Rice for an explanation. In all fairness to Mr. Rice, he did try to explain that there had been a lot of trouble and informed me that I had been warned previously by the police constable, which was not true, as I had positively not received any warning either verbally or in writing that we would be closed up if the drinking, loud noise, profane language, etc. did not cease.

Mr. Rice, during the discussion, made several remarks that I will not take the space to repeat here, although I must say that although they were said, I am sure that Mr. Rice did not actually mean them for what they sounded. I think perhaps that he was trying to make me feel a little better and that there was nothing personal in the letter he had just handed me.

I am also certain that when the council voted to close up the wrestling they acted in what they felt was the best public interest.

Mr. Taylor the reeve, told me Wed. morning that both police constables reported drinking, fighting and profane language on at least two occasions and there was a prosecution in one case.

No one regrets more than I that these events took place, and especially on a wrestling night.

But I certainly do feel that at least the council should have given me a chance to do something about these conditions. After all I am paying for the use of the arena and I am sure that they wouldn't close up any other business without a hearing.

I know that last Tuesday was a very quiet night with no incidents reported, and I have made extra precautions that there will be none in the future.

If after this coming show the council decides that they wish to stop the wrestling in the local arena, and that the village does not need the revenue derived from these shows, I will certainly stop the wrestling because after all, I didn't mind so much being closed up as the way it was done.

Although this letter is primarily for the fans, I would like to thank Mr. W. J. Taylor the reeve, Mr. Jack Smith our M.P., and also Mr. J. Rice for their consideration and efforts on my behalf.

Now in regards to the opinion of some people in authority who seem to feel that the average fan is a cheap drunk and hoodlum I have this to say.

I find the wrestling fans of Richmond Hill and district fine people and darn good sports. Perhaps they do get a little noisy and excited but that's what they pay their money for and as far as I'm concerned they are just as well behaved as a lot of hockey and baseball fans and better than some I have seen.

At any rate whether I am permitted to run or not I would like to thank all the fans for their support during the past years when we have struggled to keep the sport alive here.

Pavilion Operator Wants Sunday Dance

Stewart Patrick, owner and operator of Glendale Pavilion at the south side of Musselman's Lake appeared before Whitchurch Twp. Council recently to request council to reconsider its ban of Sunday dancing in the township. Mr. Patrick contended that the report of the council's action would lead the public to believe that the lakeside pavilion was breeding bad people.

"We're not having any trouble, there's no drinking, we don't stand for it. I promised to pull off my juke box and I did, but others opened theirs," Mr. Patrick stated.

"We're only upholding the Lord's Day," said councillor Legge. "You are making out that we have a bad element," said Mr. Patrick. "But we're very strict, you're driving the young people out on the road."

Mr. Porter who was brought to the meeting by Mr. Patrick as a witness to his contention of a well conducted dance place, stated that he thought the dancing was a good thing to keep the youth away from drinking and gambling. "At least we know where they are," he said.

"There may be quite a difference of opinion there," stated Reeve McLaughlin.

"It's caused ill feeling at the lake. I've got a big investment there $150,000, and I can't make it operate just with picnics; you're taking away the recreation," stated Mr. Patrick.

"Everyone doesn't view this as you do from a business angle, for I don't approve of Sunday dancing," declared Reeve McLaughlin.

Mr. Patrick contended that people played golf on Sunday at Wilcox Lake.

"There's a lot different type of people playing golf than hang around dance halls on Sunday," added the reeve. "That's our own stand in the matter, anyway, regardless of complaints," said Reeve McLaughlin.

"The trouble all starts in the cabins," protested Mr. Patrick. "You have a lot different crowd there on Sunday night than you do on Saturday night," Clerk Crawford told Mr. Patrick.

"I told you before that you'll be a lot better off in a few years without this type of folks," councillor Graham stated.

"Well, I'll repeat what I said before, this type of dancing which I saw there on Sunday night only brings riff-raff," stated councillor McCarron.

Council reiterated its stand to maintain the ban on juke box dancing on Sundays and a resolution by councillor Legge and councillor McCarron passed unanimously that the ban be upheld. Deputy-reeve Timbers was absent from the meeting.
