Planning Better Aviation for Central America

In Central America, like many other parts of Latin America, the aircraft has become the only dependable transportation. The age of railroads and motor cars has been skipped over. Because of its essential character, Central American countries have asked for technical advice through the United Nations. Here, officials in El Salvador discuss plans for making the busy San Salvador airport a free, international field with Glen Gilbert, an expert adviser sent by the International Civil Aviation Organization, a U.N. Specialized Agency.

Jefferson Bazaar Workers Hear Oak Ridges Guide Comm.

Mrs. Darrell Goulding, Jefferson, was hostess to 33 ladies from this community at last week's meeting of the Jefferson School Community Club's bazaar workers.

Introduced by Mrs. R. R. Threlfall, one of the social convenors of the club, Mrs. John Gunn, Guide Commissioner for Oak Ridges spoke to the ladies on the aims of Guiding and the origin of Brownie and Guide troops.

Mrs. Gunn explained the work connected with guiding and the advantages it affords all girls.

It is hoped that some interested person from this district will come forward and offer her services in organizing Brownies and Guides in this district.

Mrs. Gunn told her listeners that literature on this work is available for those interested and there are training centres where potential officers may receive instruction.

Girls from 8 to 11 years may join Brownies. Girls from 12 to 16 years become Guides.

Last Bazaar Workers Meeting
October 28
At the close of the meeting all convenors for the forthcoming bazaar went home well-laden with various items contributed for the big day on November 7.

The next and final meeting for bazaar workers will be held at the home of Mrs. Dickson Miller, Jefferson, October 28 at 8.30 p.m. This final meeting will be the wind-up of the group which was organized as far back as the beginning of May. All contributions should be in then, except for vegetables and baking.

Will those who are planning to donate fruit or vegetables for the bazaar kindly phone the convenor Mrs. Thos. Dick at TU. 4-1954. Arrangements will be made for receiving these items if the contributors cannot bring them to the school. However, the convenor would appreciate knowing beforehand those who will be contributing.

The old-fashioned "bees" have gone out of style, more or less, these days and perhaps not without loss to all. However, for those ladies who have given so nobly of their time and neighbourliness to make this bazaar a successful event the Club is most thankful.

Those attending a meeting for the first time were: Miss M. Creasy, Jr. room teacher at Jefferson School; Mrs. J. A. Owens, a former resident of Elgin Mills; Mrs. Stan Troyer and Mrs. Don Hellings.

Eleven candles decorated the birthday cake that centred the table on the occasion of Sharron Comisky's annual birthday party on September 27. Eight little playmates, Anne Hopper of Agincourt, Beryl Hall of Richvale, Linda Ellas of Gormley and Irene and Patsy Waters, Ann Curtis and Elizabeth and Jack Coulter, all sat around the pink, yellow and green decorated table with Sharron and enjoyed the usual birthday delicacies. Adults who were present for her birthday dinner on Tuesday, September 29, were Mrs. Charles Comisky, Dr. Ellen and Mr. Blatchford and family all of Toronto.

Belated birthday greetings to Margaret Brodie, whose birthday was on Wednesday of last week.

Mrs. Ford received the news of the death of her brother, Mr. Edgar Woods, in hospital last week. Sympathy of the community is extended to her.

Mr. and Mrs. Herb Smith with Mr. and Mrs. Hardy Hill of Richmond Hill were noticed at the showing last week of Miss Vera Nichols pictures of her trip to the West Indies. Mrs. Wm. Wellman, Mrs. Melvin Wellman and Mrs. Acreman were also there. The evening was most enjoyable and for extra measure there were Lois and Joyce Perkins and John with their music, songs and elocution.

With a perfect day on Saturday to wind up its showing, Markham Fair drew a record crowd. The exhibits were of a very high quality, and a goodly number of prize tickets held names of headford folk. The names of Cora Brodie, her sister Margaret, Elisabeth and Charles Barker and their mother, Mrs. George Barker, were among those most often repeated. We have said before, and repeat it now, we have very clever young folk in Headford.

Sunday was world-wide Communion Sunday here as elsewhere.

A meeting of the publicity committee of the forthcoming preaching mission to be held in this community was held at the manse, Victoria Square, last Friday evening. Stewart Rumble and Mrs. Acreman represented Headford. Detailed plans were made for bringing this mission to the attention of the public, which should go a long way towards ensuring its success.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Wellman, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Wellman and Brenda were visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Fulton Chamberlain of Huttonville on Sunday last.

Preaching Mission

Untrifling efforts of Rev. A. C. Huston of Victoria Square charge have culminated in launching a preaching mission to commence on October 19th and continue each evening until October 23rd in Victoria Square Church. The speaker will be Rev. Wm. G. Berry, M.A., B.D., of the Dept. of Evangelism and Social Service of the United Church of Canada. His theme is "What is the Answer?" and he will preach on God News of God, who is to spread the news, and kindred subjects. To augment the work of this outstanding preacher there will be special music. Plan now to arrange your evening schedules to take in all the services. There will be much of benefit for everyone.

No need to send a lot of notices about that function your club is staging. Use a "Coming Events" notice in The Liberal. Low in cost, it will command much attention. Telephone Turner 4-1261.

Want Ads Are Not New;
They Are as Old as Recorded History.

Advertising has existed as far back as man used written symbols, and probably well before that. Back in early Babylon the merchants employed bakers to describe their wares to passers-by. The first written advertisements were want ads. They were announcements on papyrus offering rewards for the return of runaway slaves and bond servants. Lost articles were also sought through those early want ads.

In Greek mythology, when Psche ran away, Venus requested Mercury, "to proclaim her in public, and announce a reward to him who shall find her."

Both Greeks and Romans used the walls of their houses as places to scratch or paint inscriptions concerning their affairs. Many such inscriptions were found when Pompeii was excavated.

The oldest newspaper paragraph fitting the description of an advertisement appears to have been a "want ad" for a book on botany, printed in an early German newsbook in 1591.

Notices of arrivals and sailings of ships, with lists of cargoes, are found in most sixteenth-century English newspapers. The first paid advertisement in an American newspaper appeared in the second issue of the Boston Newsletter (May 1, 1704). It was about two anvils which had been lost, and read:

Lost on the 10. of April last off of Mr. Shiffen's Wharf in Boston. Two Iron Anvils, weighing between 120 and 140 pounds each: Whoever has taken them up, and will bring or give true intelligence of them to John Campbell Postmaster, (also editor of the newspaper) shall have a sufficient reward.

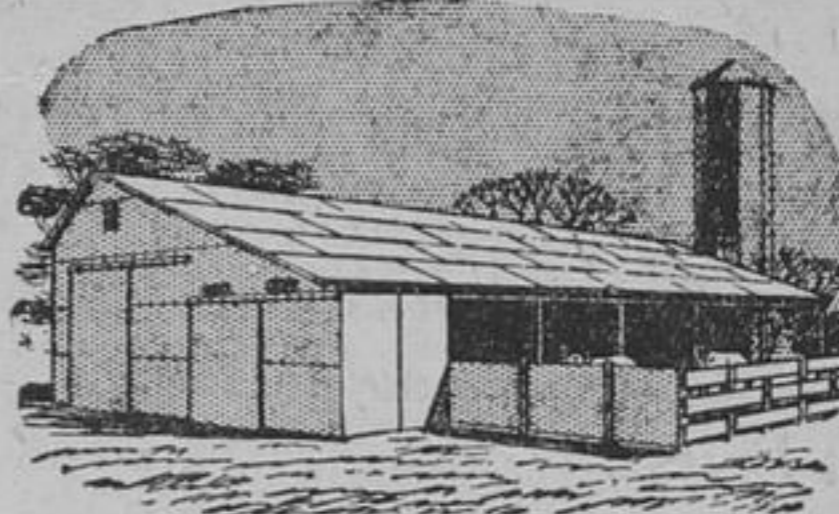

At first advertising occupied a relatively minor place in American newspapers, but by the middle of the eighteenth century many printers were becoming prosperous from the publication of three, four, and five pages of miscellaneous advertisements.

Gradually, as the confusion among the jumble of advertisements grew, want ads concerning one class of commodity or service were grouped together to facilitate the reader's finding what he was looking for.

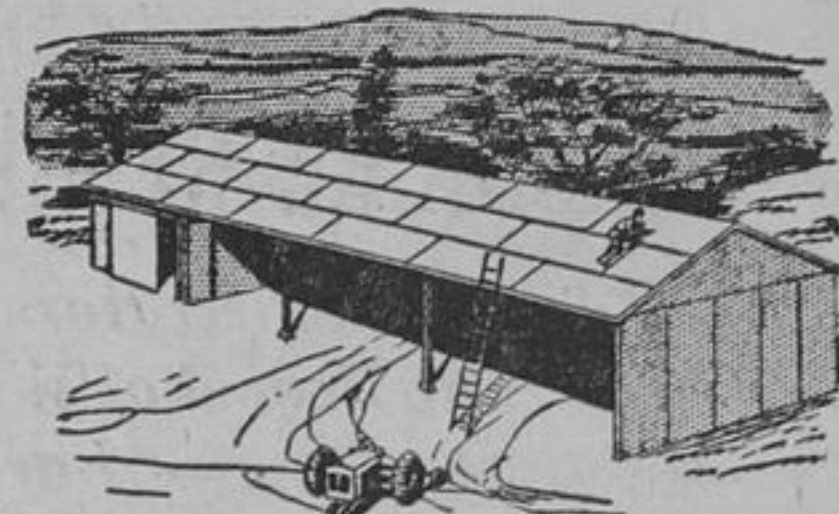

Credit for "classifying" the advertisements is given to Benjamin H. Day, who founded the New York Sun in 1833.

Wants ads have furnished one of the richest sources for historians seeking to learn about the everyday life of Americans. News stories in colonial newspapers often were colored according to the publisher's ideas, but want ads were honest and forthright, telling researchers about the needs and interests of our ancestors.
