King Township Branch Elects Directors Fed. of Agriculture

Thirty-five directors were appointed at the first annual meeting of the King Township branch of the Federation of Agriculture, when this organization that was formed a year ago, met in the Community Hall at Nobleton on Tuesday evening, November 29. The new president, vice-president, and secretary-treasurer, will be elected from this group when the new directors hold their first executive meeting in Newmarket later this month. The new directors are William Mitchell, Allan Gellately, Ernie Crosslands, Alfred Gillham, Jim Morgan, John McGinn, Edward Sullivan, Stokes Chamberlain, William Tinkamp, Jack Natress, Charles Williams, Frank Beatty, Leo Blackburn, Aubrey Hamilton, Don McCutcheon, Wilfred Aitchison, W. Perry, Geo. Lister, William Grombridge, Roy Neill, William Kehoe, Nelson Thompson, Douglas Wellesley, Wilbert Burns, John Kudelka, who were nominated by the nominating committee. From the floor, the following were appointed: Thos. Tilson, Carmen Tilson, Charles Grubb, James McAllister, Gilbert Ferris, Bert Palmer, Howard Morning, Delbert Arlow, Len Glass, Stewart Mills and Ross Follitt. Cecil Belyea, Federation of Agriculture Fieldman, was chairman during the election. Greetings were brought from Simcoe County Federation by Clarence McGuire, and from York County by the president, Frank Marritt of Keswick. A talk by Mr. Rimmer of the Better Business Bureau was very enlightening, especially when he told of some of the many old rackets, and warned his audience of the many new methods that are being used to confuse the public. The reeve of King Township, Elton J. Armstrong, paid his first visit to the local Federation. He discussed the worrisome subject of re-assessment with his audience of over 75 farmers. As it is reckoned that one and a half children make up the average school attendants from each dwelling in the Township.

Dr. Gaitskell Speaks To Home and School

(Continued from page 1) draws out their thoughts about what they are experiencing in everyday life, and gives them an opportunity to tell about it in their own way. That is why it is so important," Dr. Gaitskell said. "Teachers now ask the children: Tell us what goes on around your house on Saturday, or draw Mother talking to Dad. Parents often wonder what their offspring have brought home and the phrase, 'Tell me all about it,' gives the child encouragement." Guiding Pupil

Asked if there was any guidance in the way art was taught in the schools today, Dr. Gaitskell replied that inasmuch as the teacher put the materials — tempera paint, large sheets of paper, brushes and water at the pupil's disposal, and encouraged the child to talk about things that happen to him, what he himself experiences — all these things are guidance. "But we don't tell the child what to put in the picture." The speaker went on to say that the aim of art in the schools today is not to turn out artists, but to lead the child to observe and think about what he sees, and thus at an early age to come to grips with living.

In discussing old-fashioned discipline in teaching art, Dr. Gaitskell said that the newer method imposes a self-discipline upon the child which is simply terrific. He decried the use of colouring books to keep the children quiet. They give the child activity without thought, and make him dissatisfied with his own development. They bring his creative impulses to a halt.

Dr. Gaitskell advised putting all the children's work up somewhere in the house, even if it had to be in the kitchen, and always praising good effort. When in doubt get the child to "Tell me all about it," he said.

Mrs. O. Jacques thanked Dr. Gaitskell for his enlightening talk. Mrs. K. Vizely, Publications convener announced that folios of reproductions of famous works of art can be obtained from the National or Toronto Art Galleries. Brief reports were given by Mrs. H. E. Bennett, convener of Children's Reading, and by W. R. Ballie, convener of Arts and Crafts.

Carol singing, led by Mrs. P. A. McClelland, followed the short business period.

CONSTRUCTION JOB
To help a child through his first few years, he will need several forms of protection — vitamin D in order that his bones and teeth may develop normally, and immunization against the dangerous communicable diseases.
