Must Have Water and Sewers

Municipal Board Refuses Stephens' Subdivision

The Ontario Municipal Board has refused to approve development of the proposed 60-acre E. T. Stephens' Subdivision located in Richvale.

In a ruling handed down this week, the Board based its decision on drainage and educational problems presented by the 132-lot development.

States Reasons

In its brief presented to Markham Township, the Board stated in part: "We are of the opinion that because of the school problem and the effect of the creek running through the plan of the proposed subdivision, which creek carries open effluent from the disposal plant of the village of Richmond Hill, it would be improper for the Board to approve of the plan at this time. The Board is of opinion that the application is premature and until such time as proper services such as water and sewers are established in this area of the Township of Markham, that the approval of the plan shall be withheld and the application refused. However, should the services be installed such as water and sewers, the applicant may make further application to the Board for the approval of this proposed plan."

Need Water and Sewers

Thus any future development of the area along residential lines as advocated by the Stephens firm, will be dependent on the introduction of an adequate municipal water and sewage system.

At the public hearing held last April, both the municipality and the school board concerned, namely, Markham Township and the Richmond Hill Public School Board, objected strenuously to any subdivision development along purely residential lines. Further objections to the proposed subdivision were tabled by officials of the Dunlop Observatory and the Markham Federation of Agriculture.

The Board based its final decision on the following points: (1) that the Planning Board has already zoned the area for industry and not for residential purposes; (2) that without an adequate water and sewage system the development of new lots would seriously affect the health of those people concerned as the land within the area would become contaminated from higher land; (3) that unless suitable restrictions on outdoor lighting in the subdivision were enforced, the value of the Dunlop Observatory for research purposes would be seriously affected; (4) the Board gave serious consideration to the objections of the farming interests that rapidly rising education costs are proving a real threat to the farming industry; (5) that there are 438 vacant lots still in existence in the area lying between the first and the fourth concessions; (6) the very great lack of adequate school accommodation in the Richmond Hill school system.

Vaughan Council Meeting

Reeve Marshall McMurchy added that the educational problem in the township is difficult enough without having trailer families moving in and out of the township, adding to the present problems of accommodation. Principal Investments Ltd., developers of the former Franceschilli property on Yonge near Steeles, requested to know Council's attitude toward additional subdivision in the area if a suitable water supply could be found to service the area including some existing areas in the south end. While Council made no definite commitments, there was an indication that Council would consider the idea if there were indications of a good water supply. "If we should look after the people we've got before we allow something new to start," said Reeve McMurchy.

Protest Assessment

Messrs. Cappy and Smith, proprietors of the Pincrest Race Track, met with Council to protest the increase in the assessment of their property. Council agreed to select an assessor outside the township and to ask the race track owner to do the same in order to secure other opinions on the assessing of such a structure. Reeve McMurchy said that it was more difficult to establish sets of values for the track, drive-in theatres and similar structures than for ordinary dwellings and business establishments.

Council turned down a request to establish a trailer camp in the township. The applicants will be referred to the township by-law which restricts trailer occupancy to 60 days in any calendar year.

Trustees will meet with their lawyer before further action is taken on the matter.

Sanctions Recreation Assoc.

A delegation from the proposed Charles Howitt Recreation Association waited on the Board regarding their activities in organizing sports for the Charles Howitt area, the Board giving its approval of the project, providing safeguards regarding liability, are made, and providing there is a close liaison between the principal of the school and school activities and the recreation association.

Medical Examinations

The Board secretary is contacting Dr. R. J. Steele to enquire if he can undertake examinations of school employees, the maximum number to be examined each year to be 10.
