

RICHMOND HILL

The Liberal is always glad to receive social and personal items for this page and a call to Turner 4-1261 will receive courteous attention. This newspaper will also welcome news reports about church organizations, women's societies, lodges and other groups. While copy will be accepted up to Wednesday of each week, it is desirable to have it in earlier if possible to ensure its publication.

Mr. James Johnston, of Yonge Street is visiting his son in Halifax.

Mrs. Bessie Nolles of Springhill, Nova Scotia, has been visiting for the past three weeks with Mrs. William Apperley.

Mr. and Mrs. Rowland Jackson and Nelson, Elmira, New York, visited this week with Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Smith.

Mrs. E. M. Rumble and Lillian, 70 Church St. S., have returned from a two week holiday at Le-Roy, Sask., where they visited Mr. and Mrs. Leo Bendel.

Miss Shirley Brownlee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Brownlee, flew recently to Winnipeg where she is holidaying with her grandparents.

Misses Shelagh and Meredith Howie from Montreal are visiting their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Clubine, Markham Road.

The members of the Presbyterian Sunday School and congregation enjoyed the annual picnic at Camp Nevis Park, Frenchman's Bay on Saturday. Swimming, boating, games and a picnic supper were much enjoyed.

Members of the Evening Auxiliary of the Presbyterian Church paid a surprise visit to their president, Mrs. Emerson Wickens, on Thursday evening, and presented her with a set of floral coffee spoons in honor of her recent marriage.

Prof. D. K. Andrew of Knox College will be the guest speaker at Richmond Hill Presbyterian Church on Sunday, July 18. Padre Fraser of Sunnybrook Hospital will be the minister on July 25. On August 1, it is expected that Rev. J. N. Heppburn will be able to return to the pulpit following his illness.

Cadet Lt. Col. John Elson of the RHDHS Cadet Corps, leaves this week for the National Cadet Camp at Banff, Alberta. He is one of some 235 cadets selected from all Canadian provinces to undergo special training at the National Camp. For the past two weeks the group of cadets, chosen to represent the province of Ontario have been taking an intensive preparatory course at Camp Ipperwash on Lake Huron.

Mr. J. Russell, 129 Centre St. West, leaves this Monday for a two month holiday in England. Mr. Russell, who has been with the TTC for 38 years, sails from Montreal on the Empress of Scotland on August 20. He plans to visit his two sisters and one brother in England, and another sister in the Channel Islands. Mr. Russell has not seen his family for 29 years.

The Rev. Arthur A. Chote leaves this Sunday to take a post-graduate summer course in Clinical training at the Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston. He will be returning about the beginning of September. Those handling the summer supply ministry at St. Mary's Anglican Church include Archdeacon F. J. Sawers, Principal R. Armitage of Wycliffe College, Canon W. J. McDonald of Wycliffe College, and Wm. Leach, B.A., of Wycliffe College.

Cancer Unit Tops Ontario

Richmond Hill and District Branch of the Canadian Cancer Society led the Province of Ontario in the amount of donations collected during the recent campaign for funds. The local unit, with an objective of $2,000, collected $5,687.68 or 284.4 per cent. The unit closest to Richmond Hill's total was Brampton and District with donations of $4,761.36 or 238 per cent. Their objective was also $2,000.

This report was read at a meeting of the executive of the local unit which was held at the home of Mrs. W. C. Cowan on Monday night. At this meeting it was decided to buy a locker in which to keep supplies for the 'comfort cupboard'. Anyone wishing help is asked to contact Mrs. L. W. Zueffel, chairman of the welfare committee.

Recognition of their invaluable service was given to Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hart for their work in the society. Mr. Hart filled the position of treasurer and Mrs. Hart was active on the Dressings and Welfare Committee. Mr. and Mrs. Hart will move to Georgetown shortly. A social hour followed the meeting when the executive expressed its appreciation to the Harts for their work on behalf of the Unit.

R.H. PUBLIC SCHOOL REPORTS

Due to a typographical error, we regret that the names of Paul Murray, Bob Ogle and Sheila Reid were inadvertently missed from Grade 2 to Grade 3 in the promotion lists for room XV, and Paddy Shannon from Kindergarten to Grade 1.

Gardens of Antiquity had special meaning, the garden of the Jewish mythology for the use of man; that of the Grecian Polytheism is appropriated to the gods; and the Mohammedan is the reward held out to the good in a future state.

The first vegetable production which attracted men's attention as an article of food, is supposed to have been the fruit of some tree; and the idea of removing such trees to a spot, and cultivating them near his habitation, have thought to be abundantly natural to man, and to have first given rise to gardens.

All the writers of antiquity agree in putting the fig at the head of the fruit trees that were first cultivated. The vine is the next in order, the fruit of which serves not only for food, like that of the fig, but also for drink. The almond and pomegranate were early cultivated in Canaan (Genesis xliii 5-11) and Numbers xv, 5).

It is said that the browsing of a goat gave the first idea of pruning the vine, as chance, which gave the first idea of pruning the rose. That fire was applied to the rose trees in Greece to enrich them, and without that precaution they would bear no flowers.

The crossing, rubbing, and subsequent growing together of two branches of a crowded tree or thicket, are more likely to have originated the idea of grafting. But when this was first noticed, and how grafting came to be used for the amelioration of fruits, will probably ever remain a secret.

Moses gave some useful directions to his people on the culture of fruit trees. For the first three years, they are not to be allowed to ripen any fruit; the produce of the fourth year is for the Lord; and it is not till the fifth year that it may be eaten by the planter.

With regard to culinary vegetables, they seem to have been known in Egypt at a very early period, for cucumbers, melons, leeks, onions, and garlic, had been eaten abundantly there by the Israelites (Numbers xi 5).

Horticultural Highlights

Gardening, what is it? It is a thing of beauty and a joy forever. But while we are relaxing from the perpetual weed-pulling, etc., let's look back into history a few years, and see what it's all about. Gardening, we find is the cultivation of a limited space by manual labour, for culinary and ornamental products. Thus gardening, like most other arts, has had its origin in the supply of a primitive want; and as wants became desires, and desires increased, and became luxuries and refined, its objects and its provinces became extended.

The products of the kitchen garden form important articles of human food for all ranks of society; and flourish the chief luxuries of the tables of the rich, and the main support of the families of the poor. One of the first objects of a person on a new settlement is to plant a garden, as proof of possession and a pledge of immediate enjoyment.

To add to the value and extend the variety of garden productions, new vegetables, etc., have been introduced from time to time; to diffuse instruction on the subject, numerous books have been written, societies like the Richmond Hill Horticultural, have been established, and prizes held out for rewarding individual merit; and where professorships on rural economy exist, gardening may be said to form a part of public instruction.

Gardens of Antiquity had special meaning, the garden of the Jewish mythology for the use of man; that of the Grecian Polytheism is appropriated to the gods; and the Mohammedan is the reward held out to the good in a future state.

The first vegetable production which attracted men's attention as an article of food, is supposed to have been the fruit of some tree; and the idea of removing such trees to a spot, and cultivating them near his habitation, have thought to be abundantly natural to man, and to have first given rise to gardens.

All the writers of antiquity agree in putting the fig at the head of the fruit trees that were first cultivated. The vine is the next in order, the fruit of which serves not only for food, like that of the fig, but also for drink. The almond and pomegranate were early cultivated in Canaan (Genesis xliii 5-11) and Numbers xv, 5).

It is said that the browsing of a goat gave the first idea of pruning the vine, as chance, which gave the first idea of pruning the rose. That fire was applied to the rose trees in Greece to enrich them, and without that precaution they would bear no flowers.

The crossing, rubbing, and subsequent growing together of two branches of a crowded tree or thicket, are more likely to have originated the idea of grafting. But when this was first noticed, and how grafting came to be used for the amelioration of fruits, will probably ever remain a secret.

With regard to culinary vegetables, they seem to have been known in Egypt at a very early period, for cucumbers, melons, leeks, onions, and garlic, had been eaten abundantly there by the Israelites (Numbers xi 5).

Having touched the productive side of gardening to the point of a terrific desire to taste some of the vegetables aforementioned, I will refrain from going knee-deep into the flower beds of antiquity, but will leave you with this thought and belief; that the pleasure attending the pursuit of gardening is conducive to health and repose of mind; and a taste for the enjoyment of gardens is so natural to man, as almost to be universal. Our most endearing and sacred associations are connected with gardens; our most simple and most refined perceptions of beauty are combined with them; and the very condition of our being compels us to the cares, and rewards us with the pleasures attached to them. The love of gardens is the only passion which augments with age.

NATIONAL VIEWS & NEWS

MIGHTY MITE — Cat-powered tugboat "Redwood City" chugs up a wake of white foam as it pulls a huge lighter crane through San Francisco Bay waters.

MIGHTY YAWN could mean that Hippo (left) is getting tired of people staring at him at his home in Copenhagen Zoo.

MIGHTY PRETTY addition to add to anyone's band would be Cindy Robbins (below), named Rhythm Queen, Brattleboro, Vt.
