Champion Displays Birds

This week in the window of Fuller's Dry Goods Store, Oak Ridges, is an unusual display of stuffed birds, a variety of which are shown in the above picture. These birds were shot by Allen Fuller, father of Bill who operates the store, sixty years ago near his farm at Bolton when Mr. Fuller was 16 years old. Mr. Fuller, who has a large collection of birds, which includes five different breeds of ducks, stuffed the birds himself and made the pens in which they are displayed.
The most outstanding bird in the collection is an eagle which stands three feet in height. At the time the eagle was shot, the bird had just stolen a lamb and was flying away with it. In the collection there are two large horned owls, which were sitting side by side when Mr. Fuller first fired at the eagle, the one shot killing both birds.
Mr. Fuller won North American Shooting Championship for several years and has won many trophies for his marksmanship.
