

Large Part To School Area No. 1

R.H. Public Schools Lose Territory In Arbitration

In a report received at Richmond Hill Council meeting last Monday night, it was revealed that the Board of Arbitration set up to consider the proposed dissolution of the Richmond Hill Union School Section rejected the proposal and presented as an alternative an alteration of the present school section boundaries.

According to the recommendations, the only portion outside the actual village limits to be retained by Richmond Hill will consist of that portion of Vaughan Township which lies between Vaughan Road and the Elgin Mills Sideroad and extending to the second concession. The balance of the union school section will become part of Township School Area No. 1 Markham and Vaughan.

On the west side, that portion of Vaughan from Vaughan Road to May Ave. will go into the school area along with valuable industrial assessment from the east side, formerly in the union. The Palmer farm on the east side of Bayview has also been severed from Richmond Hill and has now been included in the Headford School Section.

R. Hill Remembrance Service On Nov. 11

Magistrate J. Butler has announced plans for the annual Remembrance Day Service to be held before the War Memorial in Richmond Hill, on Sunday, November 11.

For the past 27 years Mr. Butler has been in charge of this impressive tribute to those throughout the district who made the supreme sacrifice in two World Wars. Mr. Butler has acted as Parade Marshal on many occasions.

The guest speaker this year will be Maj. Gen. John A. Gunn, C.M.G., D.S.O., V.D., of Toronto and Beaverton, Maj. Gen. Dunn will also take the salute with the reviewing stand at the Post Office. Now retired Maj. Gen. Gunn in addition to being the holder of a distinguished military record is a director of both the Poppy Fund and the Last Post Fund.

Again, as in previous years those taking part in the parade

Five District Lads Make Three Month Tour Of The Continent

Fully repaid for the two years of effort spent in the carol, and bit of planning of their three months' holiday motor tour of 12 European countries — a group of five district boys have returned home, considerably benefited by their experiences.

Tom Wharton and David Vallance of Richmond Hill, Paul Butters of Richvale, Bob Miner and Roy Willocks of Thornhill all former graduates of Richmond Hill High School are now back continuing their studies, either attending University classes full time, or engaged at daily work in their chosen profession.

In the first step of their 13,000 mile journey, the boys motored to New York City, embarking on the "Nieuw Amsterdam" flagship of the Holland America Line.

On arrival in England, landing in Southampton, a 1956 "Ford-consul" awaiting them, the car was loaded with tents, sleeping bags, cooking and camping equipment. The first leg of their English trip was by driving along the coast via Plymouth to Bristol.

Entering France again, driving along the blue Mediterranean coast line to Grasse, then to Cannes on the Cote d'Azur, the yachting centre of the Riviera, on to the resort city of Nice, termed the "Queen of the Riviera".

The hilly drive along the rugged cliffs out to the little principality of Monaco provided more than one thrill, with its 370 acres, Monaco ranks next to the Vatican, as the world's smallest state. No visit to Monaco would be complete without a trip through the Monte Carlo Casino, famed for its Roulette wheels, and other intricate gambling devices.

Turning south, driving down through manufacturing centres and various points of interest, London was reached, providing a welcome break for the travellers. In reasonable lodgings, a comfortable bed was appreciated as the boys had been sleeping outdoors in farmers' fields, and side roads, with intermittent rain. An enjoyable week was spent in London, making full use of the sight-seeing trips to absorb the many points of scenic and historic interest in this big city.

Passing on through the city of Milan to Venice, the "City of Canals", the travellers had to park their bus, and pitch their tents on "solid ground" outside the city, and commute in by means of trolley-bus. Amongst the most interesting sights was a "Venetian funeral", complete with gondola hearse, followed by mourners in gondola coaches. At Murano, famous for its glassware, 50 small factories are grouped together in a unit, enabling the party to buy exquisite figurines, etc., to whatever the budget allowed.

In leaving Italy, the boys learned this apt expression from the Italians: "Milan works, Rome sings and Sicily sleeps, so take your pick."

Entering Austria, described as the "heart of Europe" is the land of Alps, green valleys, and music; very colorful throughout, with the populace attired in their gay Tyrolean costumes, flowered shawls and dirndls. The wonderful scenic road to Innsbruck was voted as one of the best on the trip. After a visit to Munich, famous for its Mardi Gras festivities, costume balls, beer and Hofbrau, the travellers pressed on to Switzerland. After a short stay road, the interesting little city of Zurich, Lucerne was visited, with a steamer trip on Lake Lucerne.

With Interlaken next on the itinerary, the party drove to the base of Jungfrau's mighty peak of 13,650 feet, reached by a funicular, or cog-wheel railway that requires three different sections and changes to reach the summit. As the budget would not allow for the $16.00 fare (each) the boys were denied this spectacular treat.

Geneva, with its famed lake of the same name was the next stop, with excursion trips on the Lake, past one of the best preserved medieval castles in Europe, the scene of Byron's poem, "The Prisoner of Chillon". At this point the party of five, was reduced to four, as Bob Miner had to return to Canada suddenly, in order to qualify for play on the University of Toronto. Bob flew from Geneva to Paris, then across the Atlantic to Goose Bay, to Montreal and Toronto.

The party then drove north through Basel, crossing the Rhine into Germany, camping for a week in the Black Forest, one of Germany's popular vacation lands. With a cruise on the River Rhine, and a stay at Baden Baden, the party drove along the Rhine, again into Holland, to Rotterdam. At this port, they again embarked on the "Nieuw Amsterdam," and, after a very pleasant voyage to New York, where they were met by several of their parents with cars to transport the group back to Richmond Hill.

Whilst much more could be written regarding the different countries visited, customs, scenery, and the exploits of these five youthful adventurers, this group could be regarded as "ambassadors of good will for Canada", as proven that Canadians are liked abroad. From the success of this, their first trip abroad, ambitious plans have already been laid by the "same five" for another adventurous trip through foreign countries, but as it is their own secret, it will be just about this time in 1957, when it is hoped to publish their latest story in The Liberal.

Belgium and France. From Amsterdam, the route passed through Belgium into France, with Paris the first objective. Here, as in all large cities, the party first took conducted tours to get the general "lay-out" of the city, then rambling around at their leisure, to such spots as the little streets of Montmartre, Cathedral of Notre Dame, Arc de Triomphe, largest triumphal arch in the world, 160 feet in height. Views, and photos taken from its top are unusual, since the Avenues of Paris radiate from the Arch in all directions, similar to the spokes from a hub in a wheel. From the top of the Paris landmark, the Eiffel Tower, 984 feet high, the party was also able to record the Rhine panorama by means of colored film. The noted Paris Night Club Tour was voted as full value, even at $20.00 per person. A trip to nearby Versailles had to be included, with a visit to the Palace, with its 375 windows, to the King's Room, and the Hall of Mirrors, where the World War I treaty was signed.

Travelling south the fine grape country of France, along the Loire Valley into Spain, then to Barcelona. On the outskirts of this city, is located the famed arena of El Espinar, where 500 bull fights are held every year, much to the delight of the Spanish populace. Whilst the skill and agility of the matadors is remarkable, the boys had sufficient of this "sport", after in one exhibition seeing nine bulls fought, tortured, killed and dragged out of the arena. A very pleasant week, with one exception was spent in southern Spain, several days were enjoyed at Costa Brava (suggested a section between Barcelona and the French Riviera; the one "exception" being the attack of fish-poisoning contracted by one of the party, Bob Miner, though the food in most countries was up to high standard, and reasonable. Strange to relate, the most missed item was fresh drinking water, and quality milk, though of course there was an abundance of low cost wines and beers.

Entering France again, driving along the blue Mediterranean coast line to Grasse, then to Cannes on the Cote d'Azur, the yachting centre of the Riviera, on to the resort city of Nice, termed the "Queen of the Riviera". The hilly drive along the rugged cliffs out to the little principality of Monaco provided more than one thrill, with its 370 acres, Monaco ranks next to the Vatican, as the world's smallest state. No visit to Monaco would be complete without a trip through the Monte Carlo Casino, famed for its Roulette wheels, and other intricate gambling devices. With the number of apparent losers, it was perhaps wise that the boys' budgeting did not allow for "what on the wheels". Leaving France, driving along the scenic coastal road into Italy, through Pisa, with its leaning tower, Rome was reached. In this "Eternal City" conducted tours were taken to the principal points of interest, including the Basilica of St. Peter, Mussolini Memorial, Rome Opera House with the performance of "Rigoletto", coliseum, the Vatican, and exploring the "Catacombs".
